POINCARE ORDERS WIDE RESTRICTIONS ON NATION'S FOOD

Cabinet Adopts Measures Designed to Curtail Imports in Present Crisis.

RESTAURANT MENUS CUT

Only Two Meat Dishes Will Be Allowed to Diners Hereafter—No Sale of Fresh Bread.

PRICES WILL BE WATCHED

PARIS, Aug. 20.—The wonderful and extensive dejeuners and dinners, for which the restaurants of the French capital have been famous for centuries, came under Governmental ban today as part of Premier Poincare's plan of restrictions.

Following a Cabinet meeting tonight a communique was issued in which it was set forth that the Premier had decided that clients in high-class restaurants eat too much, and that henceforth only two meat dishes would be allowed at a meal, soup and dessert not counting.

The communique adds that this measure is "indespensable to put an end to exaggerated consumption, particularly in luxury establishments especially frequented by foreigners."

Affects French Diners Most.

With all due respect to the Premier, observation shows that it is more often the French than the English or Americans, who constitute a majority of the visitors to France who order expanded repasts.

When an American has had soup, fish, meat and dessert he generally considers it enough; whereas when one runs up against a ten-course dinner at Foyot's, Ciro's, La Perouse's or La Rue's, the chances are it is the result of a conversation between the headwaiter and a Frenchman.

Another measure of the Government looks to the establishment of good but popular restaurants for that part of the "population particularly hit by the high cost of living," which the Government offers to aid and encourage.

Merchants selling objects other than luxury articles will in future have to post their price lists on the door of their esta shments, which price lists will be the subject of a daily inspection by Government officials.

Then there will be a Government commission which will study the markets and decide what are fair and average quotations.

Special attention will be paid to the prices of the Central Markets and stock yards.

It was also made plain that the policy of brown bread will be carried out by adding other grains to wheat, to limit the importations, which otherwise would have been necessary owing to the poor French crop.

Only Stale Bread to Be Sold.

PARIS, Aug. 20 (AP).—The French nation was officially informed today that the "period of penitence," long heralded as an inevitable condition for financial stabilization, had at last come.

The form in which the restrictions will most forcibly bring a necessity of retrenchment home to people in all walks of life is forced abstinence from fresh bread.

The suppression of the fresh bread loaf with its crisp crust, especially appreciated by foreigners, is the outstanding feature of the new régime ordered by the Cabinet today. This order is expected to decrease the consumption of flour to almost 20 per cent.

It is thought the new regulations will bear lightly on the working people because they largely eat whole-wheat bread, rather than the expensive white flour sort served in restaurants and used in the homes of the well-to-do.

The general impression on the public mind is that the Government means business and is going to do its best to effect real economy in public and private expenditures. There is, however, a disposition to question the estimate of saving that will result from the stale-bread regulation.

Likewise, the Government will show its readiness to effect economies in its own sphere. Various departments are to be consolidated, while instructions will be issued to all municipalities and Government offices to cross from the payrolls such officials and dignitaries who were not eliminated in recent economy campaigns.

Appeal to People's Patriotism.

The Cabinet has appealed to the patriotism of the nation to aid it in its campaign and proposes, by a strict scrutiny of imported products, to cut down the amount of necessities brought into the country.

The Ministry plans at the same time to set up machinery to insure fair prices for all food products and to encourage the strictest economy in private as well as public expenditure.

Among the measures to be taken will be to provide ways and means for the economical marketing of all products, to cheapen the cost of distribution to consumers and to avoid all waste.

While only the larger outlines of the Cabinet program were made public today, it is expected that the complete details will be formulated within a few days and that the program will be put into effect as soon as possible.

The effort at rigid economy will be aided by a series of special decrees which will be decided at later sessions of the Ministry. These decrees will deal specifically with certain products which it is believed can be economized on without serious detriment to France.

Democrats Call for Inquiry Into Indiana Campaign Costs

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 20 (AP).—The Reed Senatorial Committee has been asked by the Democratic State Committee to investigate Senatorial campaign expenditures in Indiana, it was announced by R. Earl Peters, Democratic Chairman, in an address here tonight.

Chairman Peters also challenged Indiana's Republican Senators, James E. Watson and Arthur R. Robinson, and their managers to divulge their expenditures. Directing his attack on Senator Watson, the speaker dared the veteran legislator "to state how much he paid to the 100,000 workers he claims to have had working for him in the recent primary."

The Democrats, Mr. Peters said, would have the Senatorial Committee investigate both primary campaign expenses and those of the approaching election.

Albert Stump, Democratic candidate for the long term in a six-cornered primary and convention race, spent less than $1,500, and Evans Woollen, candidate for the short term, spent "an entirely negligible amount," Mr. Peters declared.

BERLINS, INCOGNITO, ARRIVE IN QUEBEC

USE SIX CABINS ON LINER

He Begs for Privacy in Written Statement—Starts Here by Automobile.

Special to The New York Times.

QUEBEC, Aug. 20.—Irving Berlin, the song writer, and his wife, the former Ellin Mackay, daughter of Clarence Mackay of the Postal Telegraph Company, who were married at the New York City Municipal Building on Jan. 4, returned from their honeymoon abroad on the Canadian Pacific steamer Montnairn today.

In an effort to land without being recognized they had booked their passage from Glasgow under the names of Mr. and Mrs. J. Johnston. Their presence on board the vessel was detected as soon as it docked by three New York newspaper men, who attempted to question Mr. Berlin while Mrs. Berlin tried to slip off unobserved in an automobile that was waiting for them.

Use Four Cabins for Music.

The Montnairn is a one-cabin steamer. From other passengers it was learned that the Berlins boarded the vessel at Glasgow. They occupied six cabins, four of them being used for a baby grand piano and other musical instruments.

After refusing to answer a number of questions, Mr. Berlin scribbled a statement which read:

"We are returning to America because it is our home and we hope the time has come when we will be allowed to enjoy the beautiful essential of a home—privacy. The only question concerning me, in which the public might be interested, is answered when I say I am going to begin work on a new show."

The Berlins were seen on the upper deck of the Montnairn as the steamer was being warped to its pier. They waved to a chauffeur, and were among the first to reach the pier after the gangway was in position.

Change to Berlin's Automobile.

Then the reporters plied them with questions. Mr. Berlin turned a deaf ear to all their inquiries but finally wrote out a statement. The couple then posed for a photographer and left the pier in a taxicab. A short distance from the pier they changed from the taxicab to a closed automobile with the New York license 3N-29-46, which was recognized as Berlin's own car.

Mrs. Berlin wore a black coat over a green gown, green hat, light stockings and black pumps. The song writer was dressed in a gray suit and gray

GETS LIFE SENTENCE UNDER BAUMES LAW FOR A $51 HOLD-UP

35 YEARS FOR CONFEDERATE

OUT TO END HOLD-UPS

Pair Had Pleaded Guilty—They Have No Hope of Parole, but Governor Can Pardon Them.

Robbing a delicatessen storekeeper of $51 cost Clifford Hanson, twenty-one-year-old stick-up man, the loss of his liberty for the rest of his life. He was sentenced to life imprisonment in Sing Sing yesterday by County Judge Algeron I. Nova in the Kings County Court as a habitual criminal under the Baumes law that precludes commutation or release by the Parole Board. Only a pardon from the Governor can save Hanson from dying in prison. He is the first robber to receive a life term under the new law, which went into effect on July 1.

Hanson is a tall, slender youth and of a quiet demeanor. Thomas Hubert, 18 years old, his companion in the robbery, contrasts strangely with him. Hubert shows more of the characteristics commonly ascribed to the criminal. He is short and stocky, with wide shoulders that swing when he walks. His complexion is swarthy and his features rugged, while Hanson's are delicate. Hanson used the pistol in the hold-up, and was therefore punished more severely. Hubert received a sentence of thirty-five years for his part. With time off for good behavior he must serve at least thirty-one years.

The small court room was crowded when Hubert appeared for sentence. He was shot in the right leg by Police Captain John J. Hughes, who arrested the thieves. He slouched to the rail and stood uneasily while Judge Nova imposed sentence.

Judge Recalls Criminal's Record.

The Judge recited the case, describing how the two had held up William Gabriel in his delicatessen store at 865 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, on the night of Aug. 7. They forced the storekeeper and his wife into a rear room at the point of a pistol and emptied the cash register. The Judge recalled that Hubert had served time for a past offense, and said that he should not be at liberty until he was 50 years old. Hubert scowled when he heard the sentence of thirty-five years. On his way out of the court room he passed Hanson. Neither spoke a word.

Hanson stepped briskly to the rail and listened attentively to Judge Nova.

"By a decree of the Court you are an habitual criminal," Judge Nova said. "You and your partner are also potential murderers. Hanson, you have four other complaints against you in addition to the one older offense. You had punishment when you were sent to Elmira Reformatory. It did you no good. You are no good to yourself or society. I am going to put you where you can do no harm to yourself or society. I sentence you to life imprisonment and direct that you be kept there for the natural extent of your life."

Hanson's face went white. Despite Judge Nova's intimation of a severe sentence on Tuesday, when he pleaded guilty, the youth was unprepared for the penalty. He slumped as he turned on his heel, dropping his head and muttering "My God!" Attendants took him back to the prison pen. Detectives and police were scattered through the crowd. No one was allowed to enter or leave the court room while sentence was being imposed. The capture and imprisonment of the criminals took just a day less than two weeks.

Court Warns Other Robbers.

Addressing the spectators, Judge Nova said:

"We are in a period when unusual things are happening. Highway robbery must be stopped. This is evidence of the fact that hereafter any one brought before me for sentence with a record as bad as Hanson's and with similar circumstances will be sent

Praises Lawyers' Honesty, Shown in San Francisco Fire

Twenty years after the San Francisco fire and earthquake, which occurred on April 18, 1906, the publishing firm of Bancroft-Whitney Company of San Francisco, has repeated an advertisement in the American Bar Association Journal, acknowledging gratefully the business honesty of San Franciscans who are members of the legal profession. It is explained in the company's statement that on the day of the fire, lawyers were indebted to the firm for more than $200,000. All accounts were lost in the fire.

Lawyers who lost their entire libraries were absolved from indebtedness, and a circular letter was sent out to all members of the profession saying that the accounts had been lost. Of the balance of about $175,000 due the firm, practically all was paid quickly. Many San Francisco attorneys declined to accept the cancellation of their accounts and paid them in full.

CHURCH WILL INVOKE MEXICAN CONGRESS

HOPES OF PEACE BRIGHTER

Conciliatory Tone of Both Sides Makes End of Church and State Clash Seem Nearer.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 20.—After weeks of conflict between Church and State, Mexico was inclined to be optimistic today that a solution of the trouble which has so rent the citizenship of the nation and which has been reflected in all other civilized countries may be in sight.

This was the general public's response to the letter sent yesterday to Archbishop José Mora y del Rio and Bishop Pascual Diaz of the Mexican Episcopate by President Calles, in which the Executive suggested that the Congress and the courts were the agencies before which the Catholic Church should bring its grievances in the matter of the religious clauses of the Constitution and the penal and regulatory laws the enforcement of which, the Church leaders say, would mean the end of the Catholic Church in Mexico.

Speaking for the Bishops this afternoon, Bishop Diaz, Secretary General of the Episcopate, announced the acceptance of the President's suggestions, and very soon, it is believed, the controversy will switch to the floors of the Mexican Congress and the chambers of Mexican justice.

Bishop Diaz made it plain that, now that the President himself has indicated the legal courses open, the Church will exhaust all of these means.

Calles Arguments Held Unsound.

It is stated that the Church will engage the leading Catholic lawyers of the nation, in addition to the Archbishops and Bishops, to press its case.

It was made plain by Bishop Diaz, however, that while the Church will avail itself of the agencies named by President Calles, she will not now nor at any other time concede the soundness of the arguments advanced by the Executive, such as his statement that the suspension of worship in the Catholic Churches is, so far as the Government is concerned, an allen problem.

This problem, Bishop Diaz declared, concerns so overwhelming a majority of Mexicans that it must be of concern to the Mexican Government.

In the statement issued by Bishop Diaz for the Episcopate he refers to the "spirit of conciliation" evidenced by the Chief Executive, and even goes so far as to congratulate him on his sincerity in stating frankly that he was the least fitted person to undertake the reforms urged by the Episcopate, since the fundamental and regulatory laws complained of harmonized with his (the President's) own philosophical and political convictions.

Conciliatory Tones Noted.

The Episcopate, however, maintains that it is bulwarked by the preponderance of public opinion and, therefore, it says it cannot agree with the President that it would be outside his powers to suspend enforcement of the laws pending efforts to have the Constitution amended and the laws modified so as to be acceptable to the Church.

The big thing, however, in the opinion of the man in the street, is that the letters and statements of both sides are couched in such courteous and conciliatory terms that they give some hope that an adjustment, thought impossible two days ago, is now at least among the possibilities.

Correspondents recalled today that the President was never more cordial than when making public the text of his reply to the Episcopate last night, and this afternoon Bishop Diaz was all smiles as he gave his comments to the same correspondents.

The statement of the Episcopate was issued following a conference at the palace of Archbishop Mora y del Rio, participated in by a majority of the Archbishops and Bishops of the nation.

Bishop Diaz was asked if the Vatican had been informed of the reply of Señor Calles. He replied that the text had been cabled to Cardinal Gasparri and that the Episcopate is now awaiting a reply.

He added that all actions taken by the Episcopate are based on instructions from the Vatican.

The Church, he declared, will con-

NEW HALL CASE CLUE IN BROOCH PICKED UP NEAR MURDER SCENE

Finder Gave It to Detective Four Years Ago, but It Now Has Disappeared.

NEVER PUT INTO EVIDENCE

Pin Likened to That of Women of Episcopal Guild—Not Mrs. Mills's, It Is Said.

SUSPICIOUS ABOUT PISTOL

Simpson Investigates Circumstances of Its Finding—Five New Witnesses Questioned.

The story of a gold brooch of antiquated design entered the Hall-Mills case as a new clue yesterday. The brooch itself is mysteriously missing. It was picked up at the scene of the crime a day after the bodies of the Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills were found four years ago near New Brunswick, N. J.

The piece of jewelry, bearing a cross as ornamentation, was found by Edward Tierce, proprietor of the Tea Pot Inn at Lindenau, near New Brunswick, Tierce, accompanied by another man and his wife, visited the crabapple tree where the murders were committed on Sunday, Sept. 17, 1922.

They roamed about the abandoned Phillips farm. They went over to the old farmhouse—outwardly so desolate, but completely furnished within and carefully dusted—and then started back toward the tree. About midway between the farmhouse and the crabapple tree they passed a weather-beaten bench.

Gave It to Detective.

A shining object in the grass near the bench caught Mr. Tierce's eye. He had kicked it as he walked. He picked it up. According to his story, he turned it over the next day to Ferd A. David, Middlesex County detective, who was then investigating the crime. The brooch never figured in the original investigation, and last night David, in giving his version of why the brooch disappeared, explained that he had surrendered it to a man living in Highland Park, across the Raritan River from New Brunswick, who had claimed it as the property of his wife. David did not explain how the man learned that it was in possession of the authorities.

The "tip" on the brooch came to State Senator Alexander Simpson, who was appointed an Assistant Attorney General by Governor A. Harry Moore to revive the investigation of the Hall-Mills case, from a woman living in New Brunswick. She wrote a letter to Senator Simpson, who requested that her name be not made public.

Senator Simpson announced last night he had received information from his detectives that the Spanish automatic pistol turned over by a man in Philadelphia on Thursday as possibly being the murder weapon had been "planted" by certain investigators who made an independent investigation of the Hall-Mills case.

The Senator said he was making a thorough investigation of the charge that the pistol had been "planted" and declared that if his investigators found that there had been an attempt to obstruct justice he would ask for a warrant or warrants in Jersey City.

Woman's "Tip" to Simpson.

The letter to Senator Simpson from the woman telling him about the brooch follows:

Aug. 18, 1926.

Hon. Alexander Simpson,
Jersey City, N. J.
Dear Sir:

Probably I may have something of interest to you in your indefatigable efforts to bring about justice in the clearing up of the Hall-Mills case. Small clues sometimes are very important ones and have led to the completion of a case in a very short time. This matter came to my attention late this afternoon; but however small it may be it might lead up to something greater.

Mr. Edward Tierce, proprietor of Tea Pot Inn, at Piscataway town, a suburb of New Brunswick, who resides at the foot of Player Avenue, in the above-mentioned town, fol-

Schoharie Delegation Will Ask a Prohibition Enforcement Plank at Meeting Sept. 27.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler declined yesterday to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor in any circumstances. Dr. Butler, who has been frequently mentioned as the possible nominee, said he considered his duties as President of Columbia University and President of the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace too important and took too much of his time to permit him to seek public office.

Dr. Butler's statement followed closely a declaration of George K. Morris, Republican State Chairman, that many up-State Republicans were opposed to the nomination of Dr. Butler as too pronounced an opponent of prohibition, and an apparent change of front on the part of the party leaders in a decision to seek a partly dry or "middle of the road" candidate for Governor instead of one regarded as a pronounced wet. The conjunction of these two developments was merely a coincidence, it was said, as Dr. Butler had previously publicly refused to permit consideration of his name as a candidate and had reiterated this refusal in talks with party leaders while they were still seeking a candidate opposed to prohibition as a running mate for United States Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr., whose views on this issue are similar to those of Dr. Butler.

Dr. Butler's Statement.

In his statement, Dr. Butler said:

It seems to be necessary to say publicly that I am not willing to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. The leaders of the Republican organization have known for some months, in fact ever since the pressure upon me from all parts of the State began to be severe, that this flattering proposal was quite impossible. The reasons are entirely personal.

My life work, entered upon more than forty years ago and persistently pursued, is the building on the foundations of historic Columbia College of a university of national and international influence and significance, characteristic and representative of twentieth century American democracy, which, by reason of its productive scholarship, its freedom of thought and of inquiry, its many-sided human interest and its constant and untiring public service, will take its place in the history of our civilization as the universities of Bologna, of Paris, and of Oxford, have already done.

I conceive this task, taken in connection with my duties and opportunities as President of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, to be more important and of larger public service than any other which can offer itself in the field of official public life.

My political activity is the outgrowth of a sense of the duty to take part in government which rests upon every citizen, and of my deep interest in ideas, principles and policies without any relation whatever to public office. Whatever additional

Wadsworth Says Senate Won't Alter Court Stand

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Senator Wadsworth, while here today discussing international developments, declared that the Senate would not modify the reservations to the World Court protocol to satisfy the objections of other Court members.

Reservation 5, which deals with advisory opinions in cases where the United States claims an interest, he said, was the most important. Reports are that many members of the Court object to this reservation and will suggest that it be modified.

"If they don't want us with that reservation, we will stay out," he said. "I am for adherence to the Court under the reservations and opposed to any change in them whatever."

Mr. Wadsworth said that he was very fond of Georges Clemenceau and regretted that he had written his open letter to President Coolidge suggesting a modification of the French debt terms.

"If the French Parliament first ratifies the agreement, his letter will make no difference in American sentiment on the debt. The Senate will ratify the terms, but France must act first."

VISIONS WARS FOUGHT WITH POISONOUS GAS

Sir James Irvine Sees Future Conflicts Appalling and of Short Duration.

PLANES WILL DROP BOMBS

British Chemist Tells Politics Institute Navy Reductions Won't Insure Peace.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 20.—Sir James Colquhoun Irvine, Principal of the University of St. Andrews, Scotland, one of Great Britain's foremost chemists, painted an alarming picture of the future of chemical warfare in a lecture tonight before the Institute of Politics.

Appalled at the prospects opened up to humanity if the use of gases and poisons made in the chemical factory are continued in war, Sir James uttered a warning that the whole machinery of war may be scrapped, warships may be sunk, armies may be disbanded and fortresses demolished, "but the chemical factory must remain, and so long as it exists it is a potential war factory."

Since gas poisoning has once been used in war it will be used again, said Sir James. Germany broke the treaty of 1900 which forbade the use of gas, thus demonstrating the futility of paper promises and taking the first step toward chemical warfare, he asserted.

Unless chemical warfare is abandoned, the war of the future may be declared, waged and won in a few days, said the British scientist. Passenger-carrying airplanes can easily be converted into bombing machines. There will be no need for heavy guns or the customary materials of war in future conflicts, as the chemical factory will provide the poison shell-fillings and the airplanes will speed to their destinations and distribute their bombs on their objectives.

"I leave to your imagination what these objectives are likely to be," he said.

A Decision Up to the Nations.

Raising his voice, "not in panic by reading sensational articles in the press as to the unimaginable potency of gas poisons," but because he had respect for the abilities of chemists, Sir James went on to say that as matters now stand the nation which possesses the most efficient chemical industry possesses also the most efficient instrument of war. It was clear to him that the nations of the world stand at the parting of the ways with regard to the question of retaining chemical warfare as a permanent part of their war equipment.

Despite the almost universal loathing and abhorrence with which the chemist regards the idea of developing poisons for war, said Sir James, the general opinion of scientists whom he consulted was that under present conditions it is impossible to stop such development. So long as the chemical factory remained it could be used for gas poisons, "and thus we come to the uncomfortable conclusion that while there is a general consensus of opinion against this method of warfare, we are swept along by a tide against which it is impossible to struggle."

His conclusion was that the evidence of history justified the hope that in the science of chemistry would remain a force which, operated in the right direction, could do much toward reconstruction, and, having arrested backward movement, might resume the higher function of fostering forward progress.

NOT TO FORCE WET ISSUE

Senator Wants Nominee Pledged to Abide by Referendum.

PLANK TO BE INDEFINITE

Platform Will Merely Promise to Carry Out Decision of the Voters.

COOLIDGE EXPECTS SUCCESS

President Is Confident Wadsworth Will Win and the Senate Remain Republican.

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Senator Wadsworth conferred with President Coolidge today on national politics and laid before him the perplexing situation facing the New York Republicans.

While there was no direct development as the result of the conference, and President Coolidge's decision was not asked as to the fight between the wets and drys over the nomination for Governor, Senator Wadsworth apparently has settled that problem.

Following the conference the Senator announced that the Republicans would nominate for Governor a moderate who ought to be acceptable to both the drys and wets, as his position on this subject would be determined by the result of the referendum.

According to Mr. Wadsworth, the Republican State Convention will make no definite declaration on the all absorbing wet and dry conflict, but will declare that the party's nominee for Governor shall abide by the decision of the referendum and carry out the will of the people expressed in the November election on this subject.

Leaders for Inoffensive Nominee.

It was stated here today that because of the opposition of the up-State Republicans to the proposals of the New York City Republicans for an exponent of the wets the party leaders had abandoned Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler as a candidate for Governor. The nominee, judged by the attitude of Senator Wadsworth, will not be offensive to either side.

These two developments as to the type of candidate for Governor and the character of the liquor plank, which will merely assert that the party will carry out the decision of the voters in the referendum, will satisfy most of the moderate drys, it is understood, and may prevent a disastrous split in the Republican party.

While it is understood that Mr. Coolidge had nothing to do with this decision, the fact that Senator Wadsworth expressed these views after seeing the President, it is believed, will have the effect of placing the President's approval on the plans. Further, the move is intended to satisfy the drys, who generally endorse the President's attitude on prohibition.

Senator and Mrs. Wadsworth motored here from Saratoga and, after luncheon at White Pine Camp, drove to the executive offices. There the Senator was photographed with the President, who declared later that he had discussed the New York campaign with Mr. Wadsworth. Assurance was given to the President by the Senator of his ultimate success.

Reports presented to the President on the Republican national situation, which is being aided greatly by prosperous business conditions, have convinced the President that the Republicans will hold control of the next Senate. Mr. Coolidge is confident of the election of Senator Wadsworth in New York and Butler in Massachusetts, and of winning a majority of the pivotal States where Senators are to be elected.

State Politics Discussed.

"Of course we discussed political conditions in New York State and, of course, President Coolidge was interested," Senator Wadsworth said. "I can only say that our conversation was general and gossipy. I know of his keen interest in the election of a Republican Senate and we discussed the situation in New York State and other places."

When told that "perhaps the control of the next Senate might depend upon his re-election," Mr. Wadsworth replied that might be true, adding that "naturally the President is desirous of support from New York and every State."

Senator Wadsworth said he had not asked the President to aid him in his campaign and did not expect Mr. Coolidge to make any speeches in his behalf.

The Senator declared there would be no extravagant use of money in his campaign, although, because of the intense contest expected, perhaps more money would be expended than usual. In his last campaign, he said, his personal expenses had not exceeded $22,000.

Mr. Wadsworth indicated that President Coolidge felt satisfied that the plan adopted would lead to the nomination of a suitable candidate for Governor without any suggestion from him.

"Our plan is to select a candidate for Governor who shall abide by the referendum," the Senator explained.

Mr. Wadsworth believes this plan ought to satisfy both elements in the party and that to carry out the arrangement the nominee should be a

Gov. Ferguson Pardons Six Mexican Rebels; Held in Prison Since 1913 for Killing Sheriff

Special to The New York Times.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 20.—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today issued a clemency proclamation granting full pardon to General José M. Rangel, Mexican revolutionary leader, and five leading members of his band, who were serving penitentiary sentences ranging from twenty-five years to life for the murder of Deputy Sheriff Candelario Ortiz on Sept. 11, 1913.

While General Rangel was leading a small force of revolutionists through the border region of Texas for the purpose of invading Mexico they met and fought Sheriff W. C. Gardner and a posse near Carrizo Springs.

The revolutionists won and captured Ortiz, whom they are alleged to have shot.

Because of the prominence of Rangel in the revolution led by Francisco I. Madero, which resulted in the overthrow of President Diaz, the fight in Texas caused a big stir, and a detachment of the United States Fifth Cavalry was sent in pursuit of the Neutrality law violators.

The revolutionists were overtaken near the Rio Grande by the cavalry and Rangel and several members of his band were captured.

Trials and convictions, occurred in the case of Rangel. Charles Cline, an American prominent in I. W. W. circles; Jesus Gonzales, Abrez Cisneros, Leonard L. Vasquez and Pedro Perales. All of these were included in today's pardon proclamations.

For several years persistent efforts have been made by men prominent in Mexican politics to have General Rangel pardoned.

The Mexican Government joined in the petition for clemency submitted to Governor Pat M. Neff about four years ago.

Peace officers of South Texas were united in opposing the pardon of Rangel and his companions. In her clemency proclamation today Governor Ferguson said:

"While there might be some criticism of Rangel and his band for having formed a revolutionary movement to overthrow Mexico, yet in all frankness it must be said and admitted they did nothing and were doing nothing more than the immortal Travis, Bowie, Crockett and their brave companions were doing at the time they were captured and massacred at the Alamo."

New York Mail Reaches St. Paul in 10 Hours; Postal Planes Also Make Record to Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 20 (AP).—Through a dark night, made blacker by menacing storms and gales, two pilots of the United States Air Mail Service drove their planes westward and into daylight for a new record of 5 hours 27 minutes for transmission of mail from New York to Chicago.

A third pilot, taking off here in a murky sky, completed the triumph by landing in St. Paul soon after noon with a cargo of mail which started from New York a scant ten hours before.

Pilot Earl Ward, who only a few weeks ago helped to establish the previous record between New York and Chicago, started from New York at 3:17 A. M. today with the night air mail which should have left New York at 9 P. M. He ran into a stiff gale above the Alleghenies, but penetrated it and soared over Bellefonte, Pa., at 5:22, landing in Cleveland just after 6 A. M., with a record of 3 hours 3 minutes from New York.

At Cleveland the mail was tossed into the plane of "Bill" Williams, who pressed on westward and landed his cargo in Chicago at 8:44 A. M., less than five hours and a half after it had been started from New York.

At Maywood Field, between gusty showers, Pilot Ed Ballough of Charles Dickinson's Chicago-Twin Cities Mail Line, took off at 8:54 A. M. with the Northwest mail of the New York-Chicago cargo. Before 1 P. M. he reached St. Paul, completing a record of a few minutes more than nine and one-half hours from New York.

The previous air mail record between New York and Chicago was 5 hours 36 minutes, and that was made on the eastbound voyage, where the fliers profit by favorable winds not encountered on a westward trip. The record for the westbound flight is upward of six hours, postal officials said.

The schedule from New York to Chicago calls for 8 hours 45 minutes, while the schedule time from New York to St. Paul is 13 hours 30 minutes.

Calling attention to the unfavorable flying weather in which the flight was made, Postoffice officials said that atmospheric conditions were such as to have put out of commission the radio system by which the air mail stations keep in touch with each other.

The two records set today are complemented by a seasonable record chalked up yesterday by the Salt Lake City-Cheyenne air mail, which George Pomeroy, pilot, carried in 2 hours 57 minutes. The distance is 417 miles and the average flying time is 3 hours 15 minutes.

middle-of-the-road man with no pronounced views on the Volstead act. As the candidate must abide by the referendum and the platform plank on this subject, the impression gained was that Dr. Butler or any other man of ultra-wet views would not be acceptable to the Republican Convention.

Talk of Charles D. Hilles.

There was some talk that Charles D. Hilles would be urged to accept the nomination for Governor as the only man popular, not only among the drys up-State, but also strong in New York City, who would meet the new conditions prescribed by Senator Wadsworth today.

"Will the candidate come from New York City?" Mr. Wadsworth was asked.

"He will come, I believe, from the region of New York City," was the reply.

Senator Wadsworth said he expected that his opponent would be Supreme Justice Wagner.

"Should the Republican candidate for Governor be a dry to counterbalance your rather wet convictions?" was asked.

"My answer to that is the new plan. But I do not think the Governorship nominee should be an out-and-out dry," he replied.

Senator Wadsworth said prohibition would not be the main issue in the State, as he intended to force his opponent to discuss national conditions.

"Of course prohibition will be the freshest topic for discussion, but I would not say that it will be the main issue, the only one that will decide the electorate in the contest," he declared. "I will see to it that my opponent shall discuss national issues with me.

"The country is prosperous. Calvin Coolidge and the Republican Administration have helped to make it prosperous, and that is an issue and a condition that is going to figure greatly in the campaign. The American people do not easily turn from good conditions and elect those who represent opposite economic views."

Declares Coolidge Popular Here.

"Is President Coolidge as popular in New York State as ever?" the Senator was asked.

"He is, without a doubt, and perhaps more so," was the reply.

"Will the Republican platform declare for enactment by the next Legislature of a prohibition enforcement act?"

"Doubtless there will be a declaration for law enforcement. We all believe in that, but the State will reveal its attitude toward the Volstead act in the referendum on which the citizens will vote in November."

Senator Wadsworth said he was convinced that sentiment in New York was growing wetter.

"There is a growing dissatisfaction with the way enforcement of the Volstead amendment is working out," he said. "I find this everywhere. Business men particularly are aggravated by the widespread demoralization. The employe is getting demoralized and dissatisfied because he finds his employer can get his drinks and he cannot."

Mr. Wadsworth left here for Saratoga satisfied that plans now being considered by the Republican State leaders would remove the objections of the radical drys and bring about a situation in which the Republicans would have a united party to meet the hardest fight they have encountered in years.

In respect to the move of the drys to influence the National Senatorial Committee to ignore his campaign, Senator Wadsworth said he expected the campaign committee to support the Republican nominee for the United States Senate in New York, as it would do in other States.

The Senator does not expect to ask any national leaders to come to New York to speak in his behalf, but Speaker Longworth will speak at Buffalo on Sept. 11 at a non-political meeting which will be attended by Senator Wadsworth.

Reports that President Coolidge will take a hand in the Illinois Senatorial contest and seek to force Colonel Frank L. Smith's withdrawal as the Republican candidate are declared here to be baseless.

The President, it is asserted, will not interfere in any State political matters.

GETS CLUE TO INDIAN ORIGIN

Dr. Hrdlicka Reports Discoveries in Alaskan Excavations.

NOME, Alaska, Aug. 20 (AP).—Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, anthropologist of the Smithsonian Institution, is taking to Washington important data obtained in Alaska in an effort to determine whether North-American Indians originated in Asia, he revealed here today. He is en route to San Francisco on the United States Coast Guard cutter Bear, after spending the Summer in Alaska.

Hrdlicka explained that efforts to find traces of ancient dwellings and implements of war and peace had often been fruitless during his research in Alaska because storms of past years had deeply buried the objects he sought or washed them to sea.

SUITOR IS SHOT DEAD AS HE CALLS ON GIRL

Young Woman Is Held and Her Father Sought After Pistol Is Found in Home.

Dominic Ferri, 22 years old, of 524 South Street, Jamaica, was shot and instantly killed late yesterday afternoon as he was about to step out of his automobile to visit a young woman at her home at 168-67 Ninety-third Avenue, Jamaica. The woman, Angela Santucci, 18 years old, is being held at the Jamaica Police Station, and detectives are looking for her father, Thomas Santucci, who disappeared immediately after Ferri was killed.

There was only one witness to the shooting, a child who lives in the neighborhood. She told the police that the man who shot Ferri had run into the Santucci house.

According to Detective James Sabatino of the Jamaica Police Station, Ferri had been attentive to Angela Santucci, who lived with her father and two sisters, Mary, 12 years old, and Susan, 14.

Two weeks ago, the detective said Angela told him, her father learned that Ferri was about to marry another girl. Yesterday the father invited Ferri to the house and when Ferri drove up Santucci upbraided him.

After the shooting, Angela said, her father came back into the house, threw the revolver on a table and then left. The detective said Angela told him she emptied the revolver and threw the cartridges out of a window, afterward hiding the weapon in a clothes closet where it was found by the police.

COOLIDGE PRAISES BLOCKING OF TRUSTS

President Is Satisfied With the Procedure and the Record of the Justice Department.

AWAITS SARGENT REPORT

He Will Also Consult Owen D. Young on the Need for Making the Laws Stronger.

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 20.—President Coolidge finds that the Department of Justice has made a most satisfactory record in proceeding against monopolies in advance of their formation and in bringing about dissolution of so-called "trusts" by decrees and injunctions.

This system, while not attracting much attention, he believes has been advantageous to business and at the same time has afforded full protection to the public against combinations that might tend to maintain prices through monopolistic control.

In his opinion, the Department of Justice during his administration has accomplished much in this way, blocking the formation of trusts intended to injure legitimate business, protecting open competition and rigorously upholding the anti-trust laws.

This record is the President's reliance against the charges of Senator Borah and others that the Administration represents "big business and has not been proceeding against the trusts."

President Coolidge is carefully studying the record of the Department of Justice to determine whether experience in the trust cases calls for a revision of the Clayton and Sherman Anti-Trust laws.

He thinks that perhaps the experience of the Department of Justice may show that there is some need of an adjustment of these laws to meet present day conditions. He is awaiting a report from Attorney General Sargent, who will confer with him soon.

It can be stated that, if President Coolidge recommends any changes in the anti-trust laws they will not be so sweeping as to destroy confidence of business in the Administration or upset the present stable conditions under which big corporations are operating.

That the President is preparing a plan in this direction for submission to the next Congress is known here. Some idea of its scope may be known after he has had his conference with the Attorney General.

While on his vacation President Coolidge is obtaining the views of business men and leaders of industry on the relation of government to business, and on whether the anti-trust laws need revision.

Owen D. Young, co-author of the Dawes plan, who will come here tomorrow, will be consulted about the anti-trust laws as well as business conditions.

Before President Coolidge returns to Washington, about Sept. 18, it is understood that he will have reached a decision as to the Administration's farm program, and it is expected that Secretary Jardine, who arrives here tomorrow, will have many suggestions to make.

The program will be announced long in advance of that time, and it is expected that Secretary Jardine, who arrives here tomorrow, will have many suggestions to make.

On Thursday the President and Mrs. Coolidge will go to Plattsburg, where the Chief Executive will review the students in the training camp.

HUSBAND'S TRUST FUND TO PAY WIFE ALIMONY

Court Issues Order for Benefit of Mrs. Nelson S. Clark Jr. and Her Daughter.

Supreme Court Justice Guy decided yesterday that Mrs. Augusta M. Clark, who obtained a separation from Nelson Sherwood Clark Jr. with alimony of $50 a week for the support of herself and daughter, is entitled to collect from the trust fund left for him by his father, Nelson Sherwood Clark, who was Vice President of W. & J. Sloane when he died at 955 Park Avenue on April 28, 1925. The defendant left New York State before his father died and did not defend the action brought by his wife.

Unable to collect any of the alimony awarded, Mrs. Clark obtained an order appointing Max Lazarus as receiver of the $2,000 income from the trust fund. The Farmer's Loan and Trust Company asked Justice Guy to set aside the order on the ground that it was not notified of the application.

Justice Guy's opinion sets forth the law in such cases and says the defendant "by his contumacious conduct in failing to respect the decree of this court, and by his willful departure from the State has put serious obstacles in the way of the plaintiff." It continues:

"The burden is thus shifted upon the husband to prove that the payment of the entire trust income for the benefit of his wife and child will starve him. In justice to the wife and child, such a situation should not be presumed."

The Court, however, permits the defendant to apply for an allowance from the income if he is able to prove that his wife's order deprives him of all support, and the Court will then allot a portion of the fund to him.

Under the will of his father Clark got $5,000 in cash and in income of $2,000 and will receive a quarter of the residuary estate upon the death of his stepmother. The estate was valued at more than $100,000.

GRANT'S BIRTHPLACE BURNS

Destroyed Despite a Heavy Rain in Point Pleasant, Ohio.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 20.—The birthplace of President Grant at Point Pleasant, Ohio, the historical shrine to which President Harding made a pilgrimage on April 27, 1922, to celebrate the centennial anniversary of the birth of General Grant, was destroyed by fire early today.

A one-story frame building, occupied by the Point Pleasant school, also was destroyed. The buildings were adjoining.

The origin of the fire has not been learned. Villagers awoke early this morning in a heavy rain and saw both buildings on fire. It had gained such headway that volunteer firemen could not check it.

The rainstorm was not accompanied by lightning, according to residents, and the fire could not be attributed to that cause.

The Grant home originally was a two-room cottage, one room constituting the main structure, while the other was a lean-to addition used as a kitchen. Many years ago the front section of the house, containing that part in which General Grant was born, was removed to the State Fair Grounds at Columbus and reconstructed there.

In its place was erected a new two-story frame building. The lean-to addition, which had not been disturbed, was left standing as an annex to the new building.

CHANGE JAILS FOR ACCUSED

Man Charged With Attacking Girl Is Taken to Riverhead.

Special to The New York Times.

SAYVILLE, L. I., Aug. 20.—Fear lest an attempt be made to attack Wilbur Jackson of 8 Prospect Place, Orange, N. J., who was arrested yesterday in Babylon charged with attacking a 16-year-old girl of Islip, caused the police to remove Jackson to the County Jail in Riverhead tonight.

Earlier in the day Jackson was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Daniel White. Former Federal District Attorney Alfred Freiman and Attorney Melville Dodson, representing Jackson, asked to have the hearing postponed to Monday afternoon. Assistant District Attorney Alexander G. Blue agreed to the postponement on the condition that bail be increased from $4,000 to $10,000 and that the prisoner be removed from the local jail because of repeated hostile demonstrations by the crowd outside.

hat, tan shoes and had a brown topcoat.

The voyage from Scotland occupied seven days and though the weather was smooth, Mrs. Berlin appeared a trifle pale and drawn. The ship's officers said the couple kept to themselves most of the time and appeared only a few times in the public dining room.

They were delayed only a few minuttes by the customs officers, having nothing to declare, as their baggage, thirty-two trunks and a piano purchased abroad, was all passed through in bond for New York.

Reported to Have Chosen Homeric.

A report that they were to cross on the White Star liner Homeric about the end of next month was given out by Al Jolson when he arrived in New York a few days ago. Mr. Jolson had been with the Berlins the day before the couple sailed from Glasgow. It was said at the time that they were returning so that their child would be born in America.

The comparatively modest accommodations occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Berlin on the Montnairn were in decided contrast to the luxurious suite they used on the Leviathan when they went abroad on Jan. 9.

The marriage of Ellin Mackay to the song writer was without the knowledge or consent of her father, who shortly afterward said:

"The marriage came as a complete surprise to me and was done without my knowledge or approval. Beyond this I have nothing to say."

Since that time, Mr. Mackay has made no public reference to his daughter's marriage, nor, as far as is known, has he seen her.

Part of the honeymoon was spent in the Madeira Islands. The couple returned to London last Spring.

CAPPER DEMANDS FARMERS' TARIFF

Senator Tells Coolidge That the Midwest Revolt Is Aimed at Inequality of Rates.

PREDICTS NEW RELIEF FIGHT

Rosenwald Disagrees on Need for McNary-Haugen Plan, Citing Farm Prosperity.

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Different opinions on farm relief proposals were laid before President Coolidge today by Julius Rosenwald of Chicago and Senator Capper of Kansas. While both told the President that business in general was highly satisfactory, with an outlook for continued prosperity, the Chicago merchant criticized the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill's provision for price stabilization, and the Kansas Senator praised the bill and said Western farmers would continue their demand for its passage.

Senator Capper declared the revolt in the Midwest was against the present Republican tariff so far as it affected the farmer, but was not a fight to tear down the tariff structure. He admitted that the feeling against the industrial East and the demand for such a price stabilization bill as the McNary-Haugen measure were stronger than when Congress adjourned. The Senator expressed the opinion that the farm relief fight would be resumed with a more solid delegation in the next Congress.

"The farmers of the Middle West are Republicans," Senator Capper said. "They have no desire to tear down the tariff structure, but merely to make the necessary changes that they believe will extend greater benefits to the farmer. The Western members of Congress will make a demand for a revision of the tariff law in the next Congress to carry out their ideas of adequate protection for the farmer. The farmer is not getting all that is coming to him under the provisions of the present tariff, as compared with the industrial interests of the East.

Wants Duty on Hides.

"The West believes that there should be a duty on hides, and that there should be a higher rate on wheat, as well as cattle. Aluminum should also be on the free list.

"There is also something wrong with the duty on canned beef when canned beef from Argentina is now sold in Kansas. The farmer will demand a higher rate on canned beef and a general revision along the lines that will place him on a par with the industrial East.

"It should be understood that the suffering farmer is not against a protective tariff, and does not intend going with the Democrats, but will wage his fight within the Republican party. There is every evidence now that there is greater need today than ever before for a protective tariff.

"Just now, when our export trade is falling off, we all know that there is a greater need for the farmer to look to the domestic market for his livelihood. Therefore, we must be alert to meet this competition and to develop our domestic market. But it is apparent to me and the farmers of the West that the time has come when we must revise the foundation of our tariff structure so as to equably distribute profits and benefits.

The Kansas Senator said the farmers of his State were enjoying record prosperity, having just harvested 150,000,000 bushels of wheat of the finest quality. With the price around $1.20 a bushel, he said, this meant real prosperity. The entire crop returns for Kansas would equal about $420,000,000, with the wheat income about $170,000,000.

Neighboring States were enjoying good times, Mr. Capper said, but conditions were not so good in Iowa, the Dakotas and Minnesota.

Senator Capper reminded President Coolidge that while the farmers were flourishing right now, they still were demanding relief legislation along the line of the McNary-Haugen bill. Despite the defeat of this price stabilization bill in the last Congress, he believed there would be a stronger demand for its enactment in the coming session of Congress.

While there was opposition to the Administration because of its attitude on the farm relief legislation, Senator Capper said he felt that the President had not lost much of his popularity among the farmers because of his economic program and reduction of taxes. They favored the President's policy to improve cooperative distribution, but felt that they needed more system to stabilize farm prices and better protection on farm products.

Says West Is Prosperous.

Mr. Rosenwald said his mail order business reflected pretty generally prosperity in the Western agricultural States. For the basis of this statement he referred to a table of statistics of Sears-Roebuck business this year compared with last, which he had brought along for the President's perusal.

"In what we call our Chicago and Kansas City territory," said Mr. Rosenwald, "which comprises the bulk of the agricultural West, the increase of mail order business alone between July 1 and Aug. 14 this year, compared with last year, was 14 per cent. In the Seattle territory it was 10.7 per cent. In the Southwest, with headquarters at Dallas, it was 2.53 per cent. and in the East, which we serve from Philadelphia, it was 9 per cent.

"The figures on both retail and mail order business combined throughout the country show an increase of 20.5 per cent. this year over last. The first six months of this calendar year showed a healthy increase, but since July 1 our business has been much better, even, than we had expected when our business year began in June.

"Our biggest increase in volume of mail order business has been in strictly agricultural territory. This is convincing evidence of economic recovery on the farms. Kansas is probably the outstanding example of this improvement in the agricultural situation. Iowa is about holding her own. The only States in which a satisfactory improvement is not reflected are the Dakotas and Minnesota."

Mr. Rosenwald said he was amazed at the information on the economic condition of the country the President seemed to possess.

"You would think it inconceivable that any man could carry such a mass of details in his head," said the merchant. "The President quoted figures on crops and prices, on stock market quotations, on manufacturing output in various industries. Why, he even told me things about my own business that I had no idea he could be expected to know, much less remember."

Opposes Stabilization Scheme.

Mr. Rosenwald said he thought the extent of the feeling in the corn belt antagonistic to the Administration because of the President's opposition to the McNary-Haugen bill had been exaggerated.

"The farmers are coming to their senses," he said. "Those who thought the President was unsympathetic regarding their problem are changing their minds and coming to realize that the President's position was justified. The price stabilization scheme of the Haugen bill would have operated in a vicious circle to the detriment of all the people, nor does the farmer need more credit. Existing credit agencies are adequate.

"What he does need is more orderly marketing. The difference between what the farmer gets and what the consumer pays is so great that some way must be found to reduce this spread. It looks as if the solution lies in the development of cooperative marketing."

Mr. Rosenwald admitted that he had made a statement in Chicago opposing the election of Frank L. Smith, Republican nominee for the United States Senate in Illinois, because of the large contribution made to the Smith campaign by utility magnates.

LOWDEN WILL NOT RUN.

Declares He Will Not Be Candidate for Senate in Illinois.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois, who has been discussed in some quarters as an independent candidate for United States Senator, stated emphatically today that he would not run. He sent a dispatch from his Summer home at Alexandria Bay, N. Y., in which he said:

"Under no circumstances could I consent to be a candidate for the Senate. I am already fully occupied with work of public interest which I regard of more importance."

Some of Mr. Lowden's friends believe he will be a strong candidate for the Presidency in 1928, and they declare he never would accept a Senatorship, even if it did not entail embroiling himself in a factional dispute with Colonel Frank L. Smith.

One possibility for an independent candidate loomed today, when it was learned that petitions offering John M. Glenn, Secretary of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, as a candidate for Senator are being circulated at Monmouth, Mr. Glenn's former home.

At other elections Mr. Glenn's name has been offered for various offices but has been withdrawn before election day, and the Monmouth move was regarded as a scheme to test out the sentiment for him.

LINK CANTON DETECTIVE WITH MELLETT MURDER

Investigators Expect to Make New Arrest Soon—Call Mazer Alibi False.

CANTON, Ohio, Aug. 20 (AP).—Investigators into the murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher of The Canton Daily News, declared tonight that new evidence, sufficient not only to connect a Canton detective with bootlegging activities but possibly to link him with the murder, has been obtained. They said an arrest might be expected soon but did not indicate upon which charge it would be based.

The investigators declared today they had ample evidence to break down the statement of Floyd Streitenberger, detective on the Canton City police force, concerning the whereabouts of Louis Mazer, charged with the murder, the night of the Mellett slaying. Streitenberger was to have been sought for questioning this afternoon but was found to have left the city. It was reported that he had gone to another city to bring a prisoner to this city.

Streitenberg issued a statement today in which he alleged that a part of the affidavit made in Buffalo by Clement V. Curry, a reporter for The Buffalo Courier-Express, was incorrect. Curry, however, is said to have declared he could produce six witnesses to whom Streitenberger made corroborative statements.

A Federal investigation into bootlegging conditions at Niles, Ohio, similar to that here was asked at Cleveland today by Paul Hodge, Niles City attorney. The immediate cause of Hodge's request was the dynamiting Wednesday of the home of Orris Hewitt, Niles safety director.

ALLIES TAKE KALGAN.

Follow Up Kuominchun's Retreat—Chang's Son May Succeed Wu.

PEKING, Aug. 20 (AP).—The city of Kalgan has been completely evacuated by the Kuominchun (naional armies), which have continued to retreat from Nankow toward Fengchen, roughly 100 miles westward, following the recent evacuation of Nankow.

Two brigades of Fengtein troops (part of the allied army) entered Kalgan yesterday at noon and was followed throughout the day by other units.

Tatungfu station, which has been an important Kuominchun position, and where the Shansi forces cooperating with the allies clashed with the Kuominchun, also is reported to have been evacuated.

For the part he took in the Nankow operations, General Chang Shuehliang, son of Chang Tso-lin, will be named Military Governor of Chihli, according to information from Mukden. Chihli is the province in which Peking is located. Being only 26, he will be the youngest incumbent on such an important post since the revolution.

It is believed he will succeed Wu Pei-fu in chief command of the joined armies when Wu goes south to aid his harassed troops against the advance of armies from Canton.

MONEYED BEGGAR RELEASED

Alms Seeker Who Had $12,385 With Him Gets Suspended Sentence.

Jacob Frank, 66 years old, a drug store porter, who when arrested in Chinatown as a mendicant on Aug. 3 last was found to have $12,385 on his person, received a suspended sentence last night before Magistrate George W. Simpson in Night Court.

Patrolman Frederick Croker of the Oak Street Station, who arrested Frank for soliciting alms, is awaiting the action of the Grand Jury on a charge that he tried to steal $1,000 of the man's money when he was taking it to the Property Clerk at Police Headquarters the day after Frank's arrest.

Frank was found guilty by Magistrate Charles A. Oberwanger, but when he was arraigned for sentence a week later, Magistrate Simpson was informed that the man had admitted having more than $10,000 in banks in this city, New Jersey and London, England. This caused the Magistrate to postpone sentence until last night, after ordering an investigation of the manner in which the man got the money.

800 BRITISH MINERS GO BACK TO WORK

Break Comes in Two Districts When Mine Owners Make Advances to Men.

UNIONS ISSUE NEW APPEAL

Declare the Government a Party to Starving the Workers Into Submission.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The main development in the coal situation today, after yesterday's breakdown of the negotiations between the miners and coal owners, was the eager response made by the men of the Nottingham and Derbyshire districts to the mine owners' offer of a seven and a half hour day and the old rates of wages for these districts.

The response was particularly marked at Mansfield, where, in the first five hours, about 800 miners signed the new agreement.

In addition to the terms of employment set forth, the coal companies are prepared to lend each miner £1 to meet his immediate necessities and no arrears of rent will be collected for one month.

As a result, there were long queues of miners outside of the colliery offices awaiting re-employment. It is confidently expected that many more thousands will sign for work during the week-end, since most of them are weary of their four months' idleness.

The Miners' Federation naturally takes a serious view of these reports and a great effort will be made to prevent the pits restarting. A. J. Cook, the miners' Secretary, will make a tour of Nottingham and Derbyshire, but reports indicate that the men are as resolute about returning to work as they were united in striking sixteen weeks ago.

The General Council of the Trade Union Congress and the Miners' Federation, in the meanwhile, have issued a joint manifesto, in which they say:

"Actual starvation has invaded the miners' homes. The women and children are suffering through the action of the Poor law authorities, with the connivance of the Government, in cutting down the scale of relief and through the curtailment of school meals. In trying to bring the miners into subjection the Government has not scrupled to endeavor to check the generous impulses of the public in voluntarily subscribing to the relief funds, by which the worst consequences of the tragedy in the coal fields have been partially alleviated.

"The struggle has now reached a stage when, in the words of the American Federation of Labor, it is necessary to give until it hurts," to relieve the miners from defeat by starvation."

David Lloyd George, who has made a private tour of the coal fields, as a result has described Premier Baldwin's recent letter to America, minimizing the hardships of the miners' families as "the meanest document ever penned by a Minister of the British Government."

CHECK SEIZED JEWELS FOR VANDERBILT GEMS

Police Go Over $18,000 Jewelry Taken in Pawn Shop in Which Two Were Arrested.

The police were checking last night alleged stolen jewelry valued at more than $18,000 found in a pawnshop at 508 Lenox Avenue last Monday with the list and description of the jewels stolen from the Vanderbilt home in Newport on Aug. 9. The proprietors of the pawnshop, Joseph Roth, 55 years old, and his son Herbert, 26, both of Belle Harbor, L. I., were arrested at the time and locked up in the West 135th Street Police Station, charged with criminally receiving stolen property. The arrests were made by Detectives Winterhalter and Battle of the West 135th Street Station.

The jewelry, which was found in the pawnshop after the Roths had been arrested, was taken to Police Headquarters and is being held by the Lost Property Bureau.

A partial list of the seized jewels, as given out by the police of the West 135th Street Station, include a brooch set with ninety-five diamonds, a horseshoe-shaped breast pin of "yellow metal" set with ten white stones believed to be pearls and eleven blue stones and with the word "Good Luck" set with thirty white stones; three diamond bracelets set in platinum, one ring with one white and four blue stones, one ring set with one central white stone and two blue stones on each side, one white metal bar pin set with three stones and one ring with a single white stone.

Miss Vanderbilt Principal Loser.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 20.—Miss Grace Vanderbilt, daughter of General and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, was the principal loser in the jewel robbery at the Vanderbilt Summer home, the Breakers, nearly two weeks ago.

This was learned today from good authority, though there has been no definite statement issued by the family, and the list of the losses, which, it is said, has been in preparation for more than a week, is not forthcoming.

It is also said that Mrs. Vanderbilt did not lose any of her most valuable jewels, though there were some pieces that were valued dearly for their associations.

The jewel case belonging to Miss Vanderbilt that was emptied contained some very valuable articles, and the principal loss in the robbery is said to be confined to these.

One of the mysteries of the robbery is the fact that the pet dog of Mrs. Vanderbilt and her daughter did not give an alarm. This dog is in the habit of barking at any one entering the room, even members of the family, and it was in the room when the robbery is supposed to have occurred.

Joseph Buloff, Jewish Actor, Here.

Joseph Buloff, a Jewish actor well known in Europe, arrived here yesterday on the Aquitania, accompanied by his wife, who is equally well known on the Jewish stage as Luba Kadison. Both speak English and will appear at the Yiddish Art Theatre in Second Avenue. They were met at the Cunard pier by a number of theatrical folk who had met them abroad.

Lancastria Due From 53-Day Cruise

PAUL SCHINDLER ENDS HIS LIFE BY GAS

Composer of 'Wizard of Oz' and Other Musical Shows Found Dead by Wife.

Scores of friends of Paul Schindler, musical composer and director, called last night at the Schindler home, 141 West Sixteenth Street, after learning of his death by suicide early yesterday morning. Schindler, who was 56 years old, was found dead by his wife. He had inhaled gas through a tube.

As the composer of the successful musical comedy "The Geezer of Geck" in 1903, Schindler was first recognized. His production of "The Tiger Lily," in 1900 was his first attempt. Other hits followed rapidly. Among his compositions were the operetta "The Isle of Spice" and "The Wizard of Oz." Schindler's efforts in later years were devoted almost exclusively to directing.

Florenz Ziegfeld engaged Schindler in 1909 to conduct "The Soul Kiss." While in that capacity he married Vera Michelena, prima donna of the show, who divorced him when she became a motion picture actress. Shortly afterward Schindler became musical director of the Hippodrome.

Schindler is survived by his second wife, Mrs. Anne Schindler.

The son of a rabbi, Schindler came to New York from Boston twenty-five years ago. He left no note indicating a motive for his suicide.

YOUTHFUL PROWLER HELD FOR OBSERVATION

Sent to Islip Hospital After He Is Found on E. P. Mellon Estate —Not a Princeton Student.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., Aug. 20.—Howard L. Fogelsong, a Princeton, N. J., youth, arrested last Monday night while prowling shoeless about the country estate of Edward P. Mellon, was committed today on a charge of attempted burglary by Justice of the Peace Oscar F. Fanning to the State Hospital at Central Islip, N. Y., for two weeks for observation of his mental condition. The hearing was adjourned until Sept. 3. Fogelsong had been out on $250 bail, furnished by Alexander Cameron of Southampton.

The motion to commit the young man was made by his counsel, George W. Percy, upon recommendation of Dr. Hugh Halsey, Southampton Health Officer, who was supported in his advice by Drs. Joseph S. Wheelwright, New York surgeon and resident of Southampton, and George Schneck, also of Southampton. District Attorney George W. Hildreth offered no opposition to the commitment.

Present as an available witness was Fred Phillips, watchman on the estate of Mr. Mellon, who is a nephew of the Secretary of the Treasury. Phillips caught young Fogelsong last Monday as the youth was peering through the windows of the house, and said he found on him a coil of rope and a screw driver. Fogelsong told the authorities he was driving about Long Island and got out of his car at the Mellon estate to rest and look at the ocean. He says his home is at Huntington, W. Va.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Aug. 20.—Howard Fogelsong is not a student at Princeton University. Investigation at the university offices today revealed that his application for admission as a freshman last Fall had been denied.

Fogelsong came to live in Princeton two years ago to prepare himself, he said, for matriculation in the university. At first he obtained odd jobs and later set up a lunch wagon on University Place which was very popular among students as "Fogie's lunch." For a short time he attended a local school, but later gave up his studies to devote all his energies to his growing business. Last Spring he set up another lunch wagon at Kingston, N. J., about five miles from here.

Fogelsong was generally believed to be of good character by students and townspeople. His statement to the Southampton police that he was a student at Princeton University and was working his way has revealed that many persons in or around the university believed this to be the case. The local police, under this same misapprehension, informed the Southampton police that Fogelsong was a student in the university and had an excellent record there, without inquiring of university officials.

NOT MR. STOTESBURY.

Explanation Is Made of Florida Corporation Interests.

A statement was made yesterday by J. H. R. Cromwell's secretary that an Associated Press dispatch form Fort Lauderdale Thursday stating that Edwin T. Stotesbury was President of the American-British Improvement Corporation, and that the Dodge and Stotesbury families had agreed to put up $1,250,000 to pay off creditors of the above-named corporation, which is now in the hands of a receiver, was incorrect.

Mr. Stotesbury has never been at any time an officer or a director of the American-British Improvement Corporation, and it was Mrs. Stotesbury and not Mr. Stotesbury who was a stockholder of the company.

BUTLER WON'T RUN FOR GOVERNORSHIP

public service I can render without interfering with this task, or with only such absence from it as might be reasonable after so many years, now forty-four, of uninterrupted work, will always continue to be gladly given.

Seek to Please Up-State Drys.

The decision of the group of leaders dominating the Republican State organization to abandon their earlier plan to name a wet for Governor and name a candidate at least partly acceptable to the up-State drys has become more and more apparent during the last few days, even though such a decision is not satisfactory to the party leaders in New York City, who had hoped for the nomination of a wet as a way of holding down the Democratic vote here.

The chief development has been a growing sentiment for the nomination of Supreme Court Justice James C. Cropsey of Brooklyn, although considerable opposition to him remains among the New York City leaders. The chief obstacle to the candidacy of Justice Cropsey is that it is not known definitely whether he would run. Local Republican Party leaders have informed Mr. Morris that Justice Cropsey in the past has permitted himself to be considered as a candidate for Mayor, only to decide not to be a candidate at a late moment.

At the same time, it was said, Justice Cropsey filled the double requirement of being a New York City man, adjudged desirable because of Senator Wadsworth's residence in Livingston County, and holding views on prohibition and law enforcement which would make him not unacceptable to most of the up-State Republicans. No other New York City candidate, it was said, exactly filled those requirements, it being assumed that Attorney General Albert Ottinger, an avowed candidate for Governor, was a liberal on the general question of prohibition, although in favor of the enforcement of existing laws.

Probability of Fight Grows.

The expectation of a clash between the wets and the drys at the Republican State Convention, which will convene here on Sept. 27, was increased when it was learned that the Schoharie County Republican Committee had asked the delegates from that county to urge the incorporation of a State prohibition enforcement law plank in the party platform and to request the convention not to nominate any candidate who could not stand upon that plank.

The information that the Schoharie County Republican organization had taken this position, interpreted as being aimed at Senator Wadsworth, candidate for renomination, was furnished by Dr. S. E. Nicholson, Chairman of the Independent Republican State Committee, which is supporting the dry candidacy for the Senatorship of Franklin W. Cristman of Herkimer. Dr. Nicholson said news of the Schoharie County Committee's action had been given him by a person who was present at the meeting.

Dry Plank Cause of Dissension.

The fight in the Republican State Convention is expected to occur over the proposal for a State prohibition enforcement law plank rather than over candidates. This platform proposal will have the support of the extreme drys in the convention, who are expected to be in the minority, as there is every indication that the Republican State organization will control a majority of the delegates, who have been carefully selected with the possibility of a prohibition fight in view in most of the counties.

If the drys are beaten on their platform proposal, it was regarded as unlikely by party leaders here that they would go to the length of opposing the renomination of Senator Wadsworth, except, perhaps, a very few of them. In any event, it was said, there would be no possible doubt of Senator Wadsworth's renomination by a vote which would be nearly unanimous, whether the drys in the convention supported Mr. Cristman or carried out their threat to fight Senator Wadsworth by the candidacy of some other man on the ground that the nomination of Senator Wadsworth would lead to party disaster and the defeat of the entire State ticket.

It was admitted that the delegates from several other rural counties might follow the lead of the Schoharie County delegation, if it put forward the prohibition enforcement plank, but the great majority in the convention, it was said, would undoubtedly follow the plan of the State organization leaders to sidetrack any real platform declaration on prohibition on the ground that the result of the prohibition referendum should determine the policy of the party in the State. It was said to be likely that the platform might contain such a declaration regarding prohibition.

Scoff at Cristman Plan.

Republican leaders here scoffed at the idea that supporters of Mr. Cristman could succeed in attempts either to get the Republican National Committee to induce the Republican Senatorial Committee to refrain from supporting Senator Wadsworth or to get President Coolidge to refrain from endorsing him by the time the campaign began after the State conventions.

In this connection it was recalled at Republican State headquarters that President Coolidge paid high tribute to Senator Wadsworth in a speech here at the National Republican Club. In that speech, the President said:

"I rejoice with you in the possession of such a Senator as James W. Wadsworth Jr. He represents you with a capacity that is unexcelled in the Senate of the United States."

DECLINE TO RUN IN PRIMARIES

Many File Declinations—Some Substitutions Are Made.

Several prospective primary contests were abandoned yesterday as declinations of nominating designations were filed with the Board of Elections, the last day under the election law. In some cases substitutions of candidates were filed at the same time that declinations were filed, but the law permits substitutions to be filed up to Monday at midnight.

The principal primary contest called off was that of Joseph P. Henry against Collector of Internal Revenue Warren G. Price for the Republican leadership of the Eighteenth Brooklyn Assembly. Mr. Henry in announcing his withdrawal said he believed a united party in the Eighteenth Assembly District could bring about the election of William F. Heissenbuttel, Republican candidate for Representative in the Sixth Congressional District. Jacob A. Livingston, Brooklyn Republican leader, was credited with having brought about this move for party harmony.

Simon Goldstein and Joseph Kraus, candidates for the Republican nomination for Assemblyman in the Sixth, Brooklyn, withdrew, leaving Harry Schwartz a clear field for the Republican nomination. The declination of Nicholas M. Pette of the Republican nomination for District Attorney of Queens County is understood to have been for the purpose of substituting him for Adam Christmann, who declined designation as Republican candidate for Justice of the City Court. Dana Wallace, former District Attorney, is expected to be substituted for Mr. Pette as a candidate for that office. State Senator John L. Karle of Queens, who announced last week that he would not accept renomination, filed his formal declination.

A list of declinations and substitutions follows:

DECLINATIONS.

JOHN L. KARLE, Republican, State Senate, Second District, Queens.

ADAM CHRISTMAN, Republican, Justice of the City Court, Queens.

NICHOLAS M. PETTE, Republican, District Attorney, Queens.

SIMON GOLDSTEIN, Republican, and JOSEPH KRAUS, Republican, Assembly, Sixth District, Brooklyn.

RICHARD ROSE, Republican, State Senate, Eighteenth District, Manhattan.

HENRY K. CHAPMAN, Republican, Assembly, Eighteenth District, Manhattan.

MATTHEW SCHWARTZ, Republican, Assembly, Fifth District, Bronx.

BARNET S. KOTLER, Republican, Assembly, Seventh District, Bronx.

HUGH L. FLAHERTY, Republican, State Senate, Fifth District, Brooklyn.

MICHAEL F. O'GRADY, Republican, Assembly, Eighteenth District, Brooklyn.

WALTER COHEN, Republican, Congress, Twentieth District, Manhattan.

SUBSTITUTIONS.

JOSEPH CIMADUOMO, Republican, for Henry K. Chapman, Assembly, Eighteenth District, Manhattan.

SOLOMON BOCHNER, Republican, for Matthew Schwartz, Assembly, Fifth District, Bronx.

Objections to the validity of the petitions filed by George P. Hellstrum, insurgent candidate for the Republican nomination for the Assembly in the Second Brooklyn District were filed by Edward L. Rowland, Republican leader of the district. Similar objections to the validity of the petitions of Louis I. Fried, insurgent candidate for the Assembly in the Sixteenth Brooklyn District were filed by Solomon Betts, a taxpayer.

REBUFFS A. F. OF L. IN TEXTILE STRIKE

Forstmann Says His Mill Won't Deal With Any Spokesman for Workers but Company Union.

INVITES FORCE TO RETURN

Promises Wages as High as in Any Woolen Mills—Will Strengthen Employes' Organization.

In an address to the employes of the Forstmann & Huffmann Company, the mills of which at Passaic and Garfield are affected by the strike of textile workers, Julius Forstmann, President of the company, announced that the management intended to deal with its employes only through the representative assembly, an organization of employes within the company. His remarks were interpreted as meaning that the company, like the Botany Mills, will not recognize the committee headed by W. Jett Lauck, formed at the instance of Senator Borah to end the strike, or the American Federation of Labor, which is organizing branches of the United Textile Workers to displace the United Front Committee, which, under the leadership of Albert Weisbord, has been conducting the strike. The two companies employ about 75 per cent. of the woolen workers in the Passaic district.

Mr. Forstmann pledged the company to pay at all times wages as high as those paid in any other woolen mill in the country and to maintain the best working conditions possible. He subscribed to the right and desirability of group action by employes in all matters affecting any differences regarding either wages or working conditions.

Bids for Workers' Return.

"I propose to those of our workers who for any reason whatever have not been with us during the period of the strike that they report at once at our employment offices in order that work may be assigned to as many of them as is possible," he said.

"Naturally, it will not be possible for all those who will eventually be employed to begin work at the same time. Wherever it can be done, they will be put to work at once, and where it cannot be done it may be possible to tell the probable date on which they can begin. Naturally, those of our people who are now in the mills will receive our first consideration. For the others we shall do the best we can.

"Every former employe of the Forstmann & Huffmann Company who has been absent from working during the period of the strike and who reports at one of our employment offices before Saturday, Aug. 28, will, if we can put him at work, retain full seniority rights as regards wages, working conditions, participation in sick and death benefits, and the other rights and privileges that go with employment in the Forstmann & Huffmann Company. Those who do not report before Aug. 28 and who later seek to be re-employed will have to begin their employment periods anew.

Mr. Forstmann said the company proposed changes in the constitution and by-laws of the assembly whereby the body, now consisting of an equal number of workers selected by the company and by the workers, would hereafter be made up entirely of representatives selected by the employes themselves. He also said there would be a permanent mediation committee, consisting of three representative citizens of unimpeachable character and integrity, and agreeable to both employer and employes.

Assails Strike Leaders.

The present strike was under the leadership of avowed Communists, Mr. Forstmann said, it had been impossible for him to address the assembly without becoming involved in a direct dispute with the strike leaders, from which no good could have resulted. Divested of its revolutionary character, he explained, the strike had now been made to appear as an issue of wages, working conditions and the right of employes to organize, and he felt it a duty to endeavor to adjust amicably and satisfactorily to both employe and employer any differences they may feel exist.

"It is now publicly and officially announced that the Communist leaders of the strike have withdrawn into the background and have substituted for themselves a certain committee which has for its avowed and definite purpose an organization of a union that will obtain a membership in a group of textile workers affiliated with the American Federation of Labor," he asserted.

"This committee includes in its membership a group of gentlemen who were employed in an advisory capacity during the period of the present strike by the United Front Committee. It is impossible for me to regard this newly organized committee in any other light than as an emergency group brought together in desperation by the United Front Committee in the hope that it might in some manner assist it in escaping the deserved onus of having led an uncalled-for and hopeless strike."

Miss Wilkinson Speaks.

Ellen Wilkinson, M. P., Chairman of the Relief Committee for the Wives and Children of striking British miners, spoke to 4,000 striking textile workers in Belmont Park tonight. She was cheered when she told the workers to keep up their strike, and that she would tell the miners on her return to England to be encouraged by the example set by American workers.

She told the workers that the Prince of Wales, in a letter in which he inclosed a contribution, said that a settlement which had to come by starvation of one side could not be called a satisfactory settlement.

By a unanimous vote, the striking textile workers donated $100 to the relief of the dependents of the striking miners.

In a statement criticizing the the action of the Botany Mills, the Associated Societies and Parishes, which recently declared in favor of the strikers, prophesied that the workers will be unionized despite the refusal of the mill owners to deal with any but company unions.

SAILOR KILLS HIMSELF OVER THEFT CHARGE

Takes Poison on Aquitania and Is Buried at Sea—Was Cleared of Robbing Mails.

When the Aquitania arrived yesterday from Southampton and Cherbourg, it was reported that Ernest Bandfield, 51 years old, an able seaman, had committed suicide by taking poison last Monday and died the following morning. The autopsy, performed by Dr. Sydpey Jones, senior surgeon of the Aquitania, showed that Bandfield had swallowed a chemical called by sailors "Soogee-moojee," used for removing the stains from the decks.

He was found wandering about the deck early Monday, dazed, and was sent to the hospital. He was buried at sea early Wednesday morning.

His shipmates in the fo'c'sle said that Bandfield had been brooding over being charged with others in an attempt to rob the registered mails on the last eastward passage. Captain W. A. Hawkes said that Bandfield had been on the ship for six years and was one of the trusted hands. He had been stationed on the hatch aft when the mail was being hoisted on deck shortly before reaching Cherbourg, and his duty was to protect the bags from being rifled.

An officer found some envelopes on the deck which had evidently been taken from one of the locked bags. When the Aquitania reached Southampton an Inspector from Scotland Yard came on board and after questioning the three men on duty when the mail bags were brought out, Bandfield and another seaman were acquitted and the third man, E. H. Redden, was sent to London for trial. He had $30 in his pocket which he told the detective he had found on deck. He was charged with "stealing by finding," which is a crime within the English law. Persons finding money or any articles of value in Great Britain are required by law to notify the police within twenty-four hours, or be liable to a charge of stealing.

HELD IN SCHOOL MURDER.

Porter Accused After Body of Assistant Janitor Is Found.

George MacDonald, 46 years old, a porter in Public School 39, Longwood Avenue and Kelly Street, the Bronx, was held in $25,000 bail yesterday in Bronx County Court as a material witness in connection with the death of Michael O'Keefe, 35 years old, assistant janitor in Public School 60, 163d Street and Stebbins Avenue, the Bronx. O'Keefe's body was found in his room in the school Thursday morning. His head had been battered in and there were five stab wounds near the heart.

MacDonald denied all knowledge of the murder and declared he was too drunk to recall anything, according to the police. The latter believe that MacDonald and O'Keefe with two other men were drinking early Thursday morning and O'Keefe was killed in a drunken brawl.

In default of bail, MacDonald was taken to the Bronx County Jail.

MORTUARY INQUIRY TO OPEN

State Subpoenas Head of Company in Stock Sale Investigation.

Deputy Attorney General James announced yesterday that, on the request of Attorney General Ottinger, an order had been obtained from Justice Dunne in the Kings County Supreme Court for the appearance of Delyon Howth alleged head of the Rosemary Funeral Homes Corporation, in an inquiry by the court into alleged fraudulent practices by the corporation. The order was served on Howth yesterday. It is returnable before Justice Dunne on Aug. 26.

Mr. James said it was reported in complaints received by Mr. Ottinger that the corporation was organized five years ago to erect expensively furnished mortuary parlors and chapels throughout the country; that stock was disposed of but that no dividends had been paid because not a chapel had been built nor a single funeral conducted.

BANDITS GET $10,300.

Four Rob Spirella Factory Payroll Clerk at Niagara Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP).—Four armed bandits held up Robert Kelly, payroll clerk for the Spirella Company, in the plant office and stole the company's payroll, estimated at $10,300 at noon today. The bandits escaped in a large touring car bearing the New York license B77-79.

The money was in a satchel. Kelly had just returned from a bank with it, having been brought to the plant in the police armored car. Two bandits who entered the building flashed guns on him and one snatched the bag. Neither of the men was masked. One of the men fired a shot to frighten a young woman leaving the office at the time of the hold-up.

GETS LIFE SENTENCE UNDER BAUMES LAW

away for life imprisonment. Translated into the language of the underworld, this means—'Stay out of Brooklyn.'"

According to probation officers, Hanson met Hubert when they were released from Elmira Reformatory on the same day, about a year ago. Hanson came from Cambridge, Mass., and Hubert lived at 5,304 Avenue M, Brooklyn. On the night of the hold-up they met at Broadway and Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, and waited until 11 o'clock before going to Gabriel's store. Five witnesses identified them positively in court as the men who had held up the storekeeper.

A young woman about 18 years old went to Judge Nova's chambers on Thursday afternoon and pleaded with him to help Hanson. She was well dressed in gay colors. She said that she was to have been married to Hanson next week and that she knew nothing of his criminal record until she read it in the papers. She made it plain that his crimes made no difference in her feeling for him.

"There's your answer," Judge Nova told her. "He fooled you, but he's not going to fool me." The girl left.

Hanson and Hubert will begin their sentences on Monday morning, when they will be taken to Sing Sing. The Baumes law fixes a minimum penalty of fifteen years for robbery, and a penalty of from five to ten years for gun-carrying. No maximum sentence is mentioned for robbery, and it is understood to mean life imprisonment.

NEW ODDS FACED BY MISS BARRETT

But Tide Shift With the Waning Season Fails to Shake Her Resolve to Swim Channel.

POSTPONES SAILING HOME

May Enter Water at Dover Today—Miss Cannon Also Is Ready to Start From Gris-Nez.

By T. G. MIDDLETON.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DOVER, Aug. 20.—Miss Clare Belle Barrett of Pelhamwood, N. Y., is faced with a new difficulty in her second attempt to swim the English Channel. The delays imposed by the weather and fogs now confront her with the waning season and the change over of the tides, which favor crossing from Gris-Nez, but make swimming from Dover much harder.

Captain Learmont, her pilot, believes that Clare Belle is strong enough to overcome the difficulty, and Clare Belle herself is still determined to be the first woman to do the England-to-France swim. She has postponed her sailing planned for next week, and if necessary will delay it further.

"I am not going home until I swim the Channel," Miss Barrett said today. "When I get into the water the next time no one will pull me out until over on the other side.

"I don't care how long I swim—twenty, thirty or more hours. I may start on Saturday night. I am taking moonlight practice swims with my nurse and trainer."

Mrs. Clemington Carson of New York and Louis Timson of Boston are waiting for a favorable chance to start from Gris-Nez. All are talking of trying to swim this week-end.

Rough Seas Still Hold Miss Cannon.

By ALEC RUTHERFORD.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOULOGNE-SUR-MER, Aug. 20.—Miss Lillian Cannon of Baltimore is ready for her second attempt to swim the English Channel and is only waiting for the rough seas to subside.

The German swimmer, Kemmerich, today decided to make his attempt tomorrow whether the weather is good or bad. He said that he was used to rough swimming.

The rubber gloves worn by Kemmerich at practice have aroused interest here. Newspaper men are inquiring whether they have ribbed fingers. Kemmerich also inhales oxygen from a tank during practice, but the experts declare it would be against the rules to take the tank along during the swim.

Miss Ederle Sails for Home Today.

PARIS, Aug. 28 (AP).—Miss Gertrude Ederle wound up her history-making visit to Europe tonight on the boulevards of Paris, happy in the anticipation of the financial reward she hopes to receive back home in America.

The girl conqueror of the English Channel spent her last day in Paris shopping. She and her father and sister will take the boat-train to Cherbourg tomorrow morning and board the Berengaria for home.

"Papa told Gertrude not to talk to reporters any more," the champion's sister told all newspaper men when asked why Gertrude was so carefully avoiding all interviewers now. "If any talking is going to be done about Gertrude's plans or the contracts that have been offered her, Dudley Field Malone will do it in New York."

Mr. Malone, the New York lawyer, it is understood here, has a financial interest in any enterprises by which Miss Ederle hopes to capitalize her Channel swimming feat.

Miss Ederle has been swamped by lucrative offers to give swimming exhibitions and to appear in music halls. All such offers have been referred to Mr. Malone.

The girl champion on the boulevards tonight gave the impression that she knew the sun was shining for her and that she intended to make hay while the sun was shining.

Home Town Plans Big Welcome.

HIGHLANDS, N. J., Aug. 20.—Under the direction of Dr. John L. Oppermann, Mayor, and General Chairman of the Ederle Welcome Committee, with Arthur A. Lyons, Chairman of the Arrangements Committee, a canvas of the city's business men is being made for a fund of $3,000 with which to finance Miss Gertrude Ederle's home-coming celebration.

On Aug. 31 Gertrude will drive from New York to Highlands in the new roadster which was promised her as a reward if she swam the English Channel. The committee, with 300 decorated cars, will meet at Cherry Tree Farm, eight miles from Highalnds, at Middletown. The Highlands Orchestra will serenade her and then the parade to Highlands will begin.

At the entrance to Highlands a military band from Fort Hancock will swing into line, accompanied by a group of staff officers and soldiers. Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey has promised to be present.

Fireman a Channel Aspirant.

Frederick W. Fritz, 29 years old, a fireman attached to Engine 39, last night announced that as a preliminary to an attempt next Spring to swim the English Channel he would next Friday swim from the Battery up to the East River, through the Barge Canal and Spuyten Duyvil to the Hudson River. With him will swim Miss Lauretta Bracken, 17 years old, a swimming instructor of 196 Fourteenth Avenue, Astoria. They expect to complete the swim in four hours.

SUES WESTCHESTER UNIONS

Dobbs Ferry Man Gets Writ Against Building Trade Council.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Charging the Westchester County Building Trade Council and affiliated unions with conspiracy, attorneys for Peter J. Carpenter Jr. of Dobbs Ferry obtained a temporary injunction today from Supreme Court Justice Morschauser preventing the defendants from interfering with his business perding trial of the action on Sept. 15.

Affidavits in the suit allege that the union leaders seek to compel Plumbers' Union 299 of this city and Union 255 of Tarrytown to consolidate with Locals 209 of Yonkers and 86 of Mount Vernon. The consolidation was restrained by the Supreme Court on an action brought by Thomas Powell head of the local here, and Joseph P. Corey, President of the Tarrytown union.

Two Robbers Foiled When Victims Scream; One Caught in Chase Along Park Avenue

Mrs. Jesse Morrison, a cashier in the Automat at 52 East Forty-second Street, was counting out bills yesterday afternoon preparatory to putting them into the safe, when a man standing nearby snatched $349 from her hands and fled out the door. Mrs. Morrison immediately raised an outcry, and Andrew Gomez, a dishwasher, ran up the stairs after the thief.

The man, who later gave his name as Albert A. Martin, sped east toward Park Avenue. Gomez grappled with him, but Martin beat him off and turned into Park Avenue. Patrolman Joseph R. Scheider, on traffic duty in front of the Grand Central Station, joined in the chase and tripped Martin as he was about to enter the subway in the Pershing Square Building.

Martin, who is twenty-nine years old, said he was a waiter in the Mills Hotel at Thirty-sixth Street and Seventh Avenue. He was taken to the East Thirty-fifth Street Station, where he was held on a charge of grand larceny.

Another thief was foiled yesterday afternoon when Lawrence Lorenzo, 17 years old, of 304 Seventh Avenue, ran scarcely fifty feet with the payroll of $166 which he had seized from Shirley Wilk, a girl bookkeeper, when he was intercepted by Patrolman Earnest Esposito.

Miss Wilk, 18 years old, of 300 Pennsylvania Avenue, who is employed by the Manhattan Fur Shop at 241 West Twenty-sixth Street, was returning from the Pennsylvania Exchange Bank with the payroll money in a large yellow envelope which she held in her hand. She turned in Twenty-sixth Street from Eighth Avenue, when Lorenzo suddenly snatched the envelope Patrolman Esposito, who was leaving his home at 318 West Twenty-sixth Street to go on duty, heard Miss Wilk scream. He seized Lorenzo, who had fairly run into his arms.

ROBBED OF A PAYROLL THREE TIMES IN YEAR

Brooklyn Manufacturer Tells Police Two Gunmen Grabbed $6,500 From Him in Auto.

David Fischer of 224 East Fourth Street, Brooklyn, a boys' clothing manufacturer, with plants at 1,609 De Kalb Avenue and 950 Hart Street, in the Ridgewood section of Brooklyn, reported to the police at the Wilson Avenue station shortly after 5 o'clock last evening that he and an employe had been held up by two gunmen at Morgan Avenue and Ingraham Street, in the Newtown section, half an hour before and robbed of a $6,500 payroll.

Fischer said that he had been accompanied to the Chase National Bank at Broadway and Prince Street, Manhattan, by Irving Brooks, the employe, of 198 Tapscott Street, Brooklyn. When they were returning to the De Kalb Avenue plant in a car driven by Brooks, the two robbers, of whom they could give but vague descriptions, jumped on the running board with pistols and without much ado relieved Fischer of the payroll, which he carried wrapped in a newspaper under his arm.

The manufacturer added that it was the third time that he had been held up for a payroll in the last year, and he believed that the robbers had trailed him in another car from the bank. It was possible, he thought, that one of the robbers stood in the bank as he wrapped the $6,500 in the newspaper, for when the two hold-up men covered him one reached immediately for the parcel.

He said the robbers ran toward Newtown Creek and jumped into a waiting automobile. He and his employe were too excited to obtain its number or even to notice its color. Both men said the robbers wore caps, and that one appeared to be about 28 years old and the other 35.

NAVY WILL BUY 282 PLANES.

New Craft Will Be Part of Five-Year Purchases.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—About 282 new airplanes for the navy are to be bought in the next year by the Bureau of Aeronautics out of funds appropriated but not used as yet. These will be in addition to those in the five-year building program adopted recently by Congress. The procurement of them has been held up for various reasons.

The plan calls for four types of machines in quantities as follows: 100 V. F. fighting planes, forty-seven V. O. observation planes, sixty-one V. T. bombing, torpedo and scouting planes and seventy-four V. N. training planes. The number may be changed later.

While not to be a part of the five-year program, the number required was decided upon, according to navy officials, with "due consideration of the needs of the service" and the plans for the future development of naval aviation as worked out in the act authorizing the five-year program.

Twenty-seven of the 100 fighting planes will be used on battleships to be obtained after a flight test competition of plane manufacturers. The actual number to be bought will depend upon the results.

As to the training planes, the Bureau of Aeronautics will buy them after a design competition among the manufacturers.

Twenty-four manufacturers of planes, engines and accessories are affected.

TO LIGHT AIR-MAIL ROUTES.

Government Will Set Up Revolving Machines on Seven Established Lines

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The purchase of ninety twenty-four-inch revolving lights to facilitate night flying on seven established air routes was authorized today by William P. MacCracken, Assistant Secretary of the Department of Commerce for Aviation.

Plans provide for the complete lighting of the New York to Boston route. Dark ends also will be lighted on the St. Louis to Chicago, Dallas to Chicago, Salt Lake City to Los Angeles, Pasco to Elko, Chicago to Minneapolis and Cheyenne to Pueblo routes.

The lights, with a normal visibility of fifty miles during favorable weather, will be placed ten miles apart. Under ordinary conditions, officials asserted, oncoming pilots while in flight would be able to see three or four of the lights at one time.

By cooperation with the Lighthouse Bureau and the Navy Department a seaplane route is also to be marked between Washington and Norfolk.

FISH NEARLY DROWNS GIRL.

Woman Rescues 10-Year-Old When Carp Pulls Her Into Housatonic.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 20 (AP).—Hauled into the Housatonic River by a carp which grabbed her baited hook, Mazie Decker, 10 years old, was saved from drowning by Mrs. Charles Ford, who jumped into the stream after her.

Mazie was fishing in the Columbia Street cove when a sudden pull on the line tumbled her into the water over her head. Mazie, however, was determined to land the fish and clung to the pole. The screams of children on the bank attracted Mrs. Ford, who lives near by.

"The worst of it is I lost my carp," Mazie said afterward.

TRIO SEIZED, ONE SHOT, RIDING IN STOLEN CAR

Chase Through Brooklyn Ends When Fugitives Abandon Auto and Are Caught.

Policeman John Sloan of the Grand Avenue Precinct, on duty at Park Place and Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, shortly after noon yesterday saw an automobile he believed stolen coming toward him from the south. He ordered it to stop. The man at the wheel, who later proved to be Herbert Taylor, 20 years old, of 319 Sixth Street, slipped from the driver's seat and John Byrnes, 24, of 242 Sherman Street, took the wheel. Byrnes put the car into high speed and it shot away.

The policeman commandeered an automobile and gave chase. At Bergen Street the fugitive car narrowly missed a collision and slowed down. The car in which Sloan was riding caught it, and Sloan leaped to the running board with his pistol in hand.

Anthony Fiaschetti, 20 years old, of 1,921 Bay Avenue, who was in the rear of the fugitive car, and his two companions leaped to the street and ran. As Fiaschetti ran, it is said, he made a motion toward his hip pocket. Policeman Sloan immediately fired his pistol, and the bullet struck Fiaschetti in the right leg. Fiaschetti fell. Sloan and a traffic policeman then captured both the other fugitives.

An investigation showed that the automobile in which the three youths were riding was stolen on Monday night from the garage of Jacob Laitman of 2,612 Avenue K. The original license plates were taken from it, and plates stolen on Monday evening from an automobile owned by Harry Rabinowitz of 2,047 Sixty-second Street substituted.

The prisoners were questioned at length by detectives to determine whether or not they knew anything of the fatal shooting of Policeman Frank Murphy two weeks ago. They were charged with grand larceny for the theft of Laitman's automobile. Taylor and Byrnes will be arraigned in the Flatbush Police Court today, and Fiaschetti as soon as he recovers from his wound.

SLAYING OF WOMAN BAFFLES THE POLICE

Detectives Seek Purchaser of Spade Used to Dig Grave in Cellar of Utica Av. House.

VICTIM STILL UNIDENTIFIED

Theory Is That She Did Not Live In This City, Since No Report of Missing Woman Has Been Made.

Detectives under Captain Daniel H. Carey investigating the death of the woman found murdered in the one-story frame building at 100 Utica Avenue, Brooklyn, on Thursday morning, were no nearer a solution of the mystery last evening. Although many persons viewed the body of the dead woman at the Kings County Morgue no one was able to identify it. The police believe the victim may have lived elsewhere than in this city, as no one answering her description has been reported as missing to the police.

Following the discovery of the newly dug grave in the cellar of the tumbledown structure on Thursday evening, many detectives and policemen searched the cellar. Every foot of earth was turned over but no trace of any other grave or body was found.

The detectives hope to solve the mystery through the discovery of the identity of the person who purchased the new spade found in the house with which it is believed one man spent a night digging the six-foot-deep hole in which it is thought the body was to have been buried when the men were frightened away by the appearance of Mrs. Ethel Hamilton, a negress, who lives at 98 Utica Avenue.

On the spade to which portions of damp earth still clung when it was found are the penciled initials "S. H." and the inscription "1.70" By finding the place where it was bought and the salesman the police believe they may be able to trace the purchaser. The detectives believe that when the body is identified the motive for the slaying may present itself.

CAPT. KELLER EXONERATED.

Court Finds No Evidence of Assault by Police Officer.

Lack of evidence caused Magistrate Albert Vitale in West Side Court yesterday to dismiss the charge of assault brought by Abraham Mandiberg, restaurant owner of 143 West Forty-seventh Street, against Acting Captain Ezekiel Keller of Police Commissioner George V. McLaughlin's staff.

Mandiberg had charged that Keller beat him on the night of Aug. 10 while a raid was in progress in a club above his restaurant. Mandiberg said he went upstairs to see what the commotion was and was set upon by Keller, who said, "You're just the man we want."

Keller said he raided the Triangle Club above the restaurant because it was a "rendezvous for some of the toughest gangs in the city." He said that during one of five previous raids a woman and a man had been assaulted. Mandiberg, he said, admitted ownership of the place.

MISS MILLAY RECOVERS FROM A BREAKDOWN

Poet Is Now in Maine Woods After Completing Libretto for Opera for the Metropolitan.

Edna St. Vincent Millay, poet, has finished the libretto for Deems Taylor's "The King's Henchman," to be produced next season at the Metropolitan Opera House, and is now resting in the Maine woods, it was learned yesterday.

Norma Millay, the poet's sister, who is on the stage and resides at 60 Morton Street, said the librettist, although recovering from a nervous breakdown, had been able to complete a draft of the opera text, and that she was sure it would be ready on time.

The opera, which the Metropolitan commissioned Mr. Taylor to write last year, is in three acts, and heads the prospectus for the coming season as given out by Mr. Gatti-Casazza, the director, last April. Mr. Taylor is now abroad.

Miss Millay, who is widely known as a modern poet, has been in poor health for several years, and was reported to have suffered a nervous breakdown early last Winter. She is the wife of Eugene Boissevain, a New York importer.

The poet worked on the opera text for a time at her home in Greenwich Village, while struggling against ill health, and then went to the Berkshires at her physician's order, where she spent some time in seclusion, finally completing the draft of the text.

Miss Millay is a graduate of Vassar College, and her literary fame began while she was still there. For her volumes of poetry entitled "The Ballad of the Harp Weaver," "A Few Figs from Thistles," "A Miscellany" and eight sonnets, Miss Millay received the 1922 Pulitzer prize for American verse.

DAMMS BECOME GORMANS.

Court Permits Five Sisters to Discard Parental Name.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Five sisters who inherited the surname "Damm" told County Judge William F. Bleakley today that it had brought them ridicule and been detrimental to their social life. The Judge immediately gave them permission to change the name to Gorman.

The girls were Florence Elizabeth Damm, 21 years old; Helen Marie Damm, 16; Margaret Agnes Damm, 15, and Jeannette and Gertrude Irene Damm, 14, all of Yonkers. Evidence was presented that they live by themselves, their mother being dead and their father missing.

Verdict Against Shaw Will Set Aside

BOSTON, Aug. 20 (AP).—The recent jury verdict breaking the will of Charles N. Shaw, wealthy Boston candy manufacturer, who left $400,000, was set aside today by Judge Whiting of the Superior Court. The jury found Mr. Shaw was of sound mind, but was unduly influenced by Mrs. William H. (Forsaith) Angell and her husband, Isaac Harold Angell, to whom were bequeathed large sums. Mrs. Effie P. Lighthipe of East Orange, N. J., first cousin and next of kin of the testator, who was not mentioned in the will, brought the contest, and now has the opportunity of bringing a fresh action.

VALENTINO GAINING; ASKS TO LEAVE BED

Movie Star Reported to Be Rapidly Recovering From Double Operation.

WANTS TO QUIT HOSPITAL

Physicians Refuse to Allow Him to Sit Up for Several Days—Temperature Now Normal.

Rudolph Valentino, screen star, who is recovering at the Polyclinic Hospital from operations for appendicitis and gastric ulcer, felt so much better yesterday that he asked to be taken to his hotel. His request was promptly vetoed by the attending physicians, who told the patient that he would not be allowed to sit up in bed for several days.

S. George Ullman, Valentino's manager, said last night that the patient was improving rapidly. The actor does not yet realize how seriously ill he was, and all newspapers are being kept from him. When a telegram saying, "I need you. Live," and signed, "Unknown," was read to him, he remarked with a smile, "They must have thought I was dying."

The only official report of the day was given out by A. A. Jaller, superintendent of the hospital, shortly after 11 o'clock, to the effect that Valentino's temperature was normal.

Commenting on the actor's illness, Dr. Harold D. Meeker, who operated upon him, said he was in a serious condition when brought to the operating table, and that he would have died had there not been an immediate operation. Dr. Meeker's reference to the operation was made after Superintendent Jaller's denial of the published report that Valentino's illness was exaggerated.

Telegrams of encouragement still continue to pour into the hospital for the star, and the telephone operators were kept busy assuring callers that the patient's condition was improved.

BOSTON FUGITIVE HELD HERE

Broke From Prison Where He Was Sentenced for Murdering Wife.

Arthur Houde of 352 Hendrix Street, Brooklyn, wanted in Boston as a fugitive from justice, was held in the Gates Avenue Court in Brooklyn yesterday without bail until Tuesday, pending extradition. Houde, according to the police, murdered his wife in Boston in 1916, was sentenced to serve from 9 to 12 years in Rutland prison, but escaped from the institution June 25, 1922. He was arrested in Brooklyn Aug. 11.

Captain R. C. Hill of the Boston Police Department notified authorities here yesterday that extradition papers were being prepared.

Doctor Guilty of Drunken Driving.

Special to The New York Times.

OCEAN GROVE, N. J., Aug. 20.—Dr. Warren H. Johnston of Lakewood was convicted on a charge of drunken driving by Justice of the Peace K. W. MacWhinney this afternoon. He was fined $200 and costs and his license was revoked. Dr. Johnston was arrested after his car had crashed into another one.

NEW HALL CASE CLUE IN BROOCH PICKED UP

lowing the finding of the bodies of Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills, went with three or four friends of his to the scene of the murder. Mr. Tierce says he found a brooch of antique design laying on the ground near the place, or as I think where the bodies were found, stating that by accident he accidentally struck something with his foot, and in looking down to see what it was discovered the above-mentioned brooch, with a "gold cross" in the centre of the brooch, as I understand.

Mr. Tierce turned the brooch over to Mr. Fred David of the Detective Bureau of Middlesex County, but has never heard anything since relative to it. Could this brooch have been worn by any one on the scene at the murder that night on Sept. 14, 1922, or was it lost by some one there as a spectator? Nevertheless, it would seem to me a good plan to get in touch with Mr. Tierce, who could more closely give you the exact location from where he picked it up and the conditions around it, also a more accurate description.

Mr. Tierce is a man of sterling qualities and whatever he could impart of the smallest information would be given truthfully and intelligently. Mr. Tierce, in conversation with my husband, remarked that, never hearing anything further of the brooch after he gave it to Chief David, probably, like the rest of the evidence submitted at that time, the officials, for reasons best known to themselves, deemed it best to remember only the "exhibits" which coincided with their sympathies.

Writer's Name Withheld.

The letter was signed, but Senator Simpson requested that the writer's name be withheld. Acting as soon as he received the letter, the Assistant Attorney General went to Somerville, where he conferred with Inspector John J. Underwood and Chief Patrick Hayes, in charge of the investigation. Senator Simpson then went to the home of Mr. Tierce, who accompanied the special prosecutor back to the headquarters of the State Troopers in Somerville.

There Mr. Tierce was questioned. The innkeeper said he had visited the Phillips farm on the day after the murder became known. He went with another man and the latter's wife. He said they had entered the farmhouse and gone through it. The house, although empty for more than a year before the crime, was fully furnished. A glass vase, with water and flowers still fresh in it, stood on a table in a room to the right of the front door. A box that had held chocolates and several brown wrappers for chocolates were found in a bedroom on the second floors by reporters who subsequently went through the house.

Mr. Tierce's account of the finding of the brooch paralleled the account given to Senator Simpson by the New Brunswick woman. He added, however, a description of the brooch as he recalled it. He said it was circular in form and slightly smaller than a half dollar. It was of filigreed gold, with a "crucifix" design in the centre. There were no jewels in the brooch, said Mr. Tierce.

Doubts It was Mrs. Mills's.

Senator Simpson, in recounting Mr. Tierce's description of the brooch, said he had been informed that the pin was similar to one worn by women members of an Episcopal Guild. Inasmuch as the slain clergyman was rector of the Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist in New Brunswick, the comparison to a guild pin gave rise to reports that the brooch had been the property of Mrs. Mills, who was active in the church work as well as leader of the choir. Senator Simpson said an investigation had proved that Mrs. Mills had had no pin of that type.

Reporters last night asked Detective David to tell the history of the brooch in the previous investigation. He admitted having had the pin four years ago, but said it had "ultimately been returned to its owner, a resident of Highland Park, who was not connected with the families of either of the murdered pair."

David differed from Tierce in his recollection of what the brooch looked like. He said it was larger than a half dollar and that it was in the form of a lovers' knot, with one small rose diamond in the centre. The county detective said he did not recall anything about a cross on the brooch.

He then went on to say that he had retained the brooch for several days. Then, he continued, a man from Highland Park, whose name he withheld, came to him and identified the brooch without having it shown to him. The man, said David, explained that his wife had been among the sightseers who visited the scene of the crime, and she thought she might have dropped the piece of jewelry there.

Says He Told Simpson.

David said that he had not turned the pin over to the unnamed man from Highland Park at once, but had held it for about a week until he could satisfy himself as to the authenticity of the claim to ownership. He said that when he finally turned it over to the man he got a receipt for it. He did not wish to disclose the identity of the man last night, wishing, as he put it, to avoid any possibility of inconveniencing Senator Simpson's investigation. He said he had told Senator Simpson all about the pin a week ago.

Tierce refused to talk to reporters last night. He admitted, however, that Senator Simpson and his investigators had taken him out to the Phillips farm late yesterday and that he had pointed out to them the spot where he picked up the brooch.

Spanish Pistol Recovered.

The brooch came into the case in time to supplant the Spanish pistol, turned over in Philadelphia to the police there as a possible clue by William Wintrer, a chauffeur. H. Stanley Tregor, a friend of Wintrer, wrote a letter to Senator Simpson four days ago telling the special prosecutor that Wintrer had told of overhearing a conversation in a Philadelphia hotel between two men and two women.

The four persons occupied a room adjoining the one in which Wintrer was then living. The time when the conversation was overheard by Wintrer was in October, 1922. Wintrer, who later went to the Philadelphia City Hall and told his story personally, said that he went into the adjoining room when the four persons stepped out, and took a Spanish automatic pistol he found there. According to Wintrer's rather circumstantial story, he found a copy of a New Brunswick newspaper at the same time.

Lieutenant Walter Cleciuch of the Jersey City Police Department, an investigator on the Hall-Mills case, was sent to Philadelphia on Thursday by Inspector Underwood with instructions to get the pistol and Wintrer's story. Cleciuch returned to Jersey City early yesterday and, finding that Senator Simpson had hurried down to Somerville on the brooch clue, followed him there.

Pistol Clue Held Valueless.

The Jersey City officer turned the weapon over to Simpson and to Inspector Underwood. It proved to be of .25 calibre, and experiments showed that ammunition of .32 calibre, the type used in the murder, would not fit it. Inspector Underwood gave it as his opinion that the pistol was absolutely valueless as a clue.

The weapon is extremely small. It could be pressed into one's vest pocket with a little force. It is blue steel and evidently was designed by its Spanish maker for sale in an English-speaking country, since the inscription along the top of the blunt barrel reads, "automatic pistol," and below that, "Protector." The calibre is given as 6.35 which indicated calibration of .25. The serial number of the weapon was 8089. The maker's mark "B. G." appeared on the side.

Five Witnesses Questioned.

Five witnesses were questioned during the day at the Somerville Headquarters of the State Troopers. The State policemen, however, did not participate in the examination of these witnesses, who were brought into their headquarters by Jersey City detectives. The witnesses were interrogated by Inspector Underwood and Chief Hayes.

"Their stories were of supreme importance," declared an investigator last night, who would not go beyond that statement. It was learned that they had not been questioned in the previous investigation. According to one report, some of the witnesses were persons living near the home of Mrs. Hall at Nichol Avenue and Redmond Street, New Brunswick.

One report was that they had been asked about the movements of the occupants of the Hall home on the afternoon before the crime. The identity of the newcomers in the investigation was carefully shielded.

Reporters who were outside the headquarters learned, however, that one of the witnesses was Mrs. Lillian de Freese, who lives near the home of Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman," whose story that she saw Mrs. Hall, Carpender and Stevens at the scene of the crime resulted in their arrest. Another witness was John Stillwell, who lives in New Brunswick.

Bogert T. Conkling, who was Sheriff of Somerset County when the murders were committed, was questioned at length yesterday by the investigators. A statement covering twelve pages was taken by a stenographer. According to Senator Simpson, this statement was typed and offered to Conkling for his signature, thus certifying to the correctness of the transcript. The Senator said that Conkling refused to sign the statement, saying that many changes must be made.

The former Sheriff was a witness in the hearings just ended at Somerville. He was questioned then about the precautions he had taken to prevent obliteration of clues, such as footprints or tire tracks, at the scene of the crime. The Sheriff admitted on the stand that he had not roped off the scene, but had merely gone there and looked on.

Minister's Story Sought.

The investigators would not discuss the story which they expect to get from the Rev. Paul Hamborsky, a Hungarian clergyman, whose name was called on Wednesday at the hearing for Carpender and Stevens before Common Pleas Judge Frank L. Cleary. The minister failed to respond, nor could he be found in Somerville, where he was reported to be after the hearing ended with the Judge committing Carpender and Stevens without bail to await the action of the Somerset County Grand Jury.

Mr. Hamborsky, who was pastor of the Hungarian Reformed Church in New Brunswick at the time of the slaying, was said to have been a friend of Dr

DESIGNS ON OIL ARE DENIED

Writer Says Queretaro Group in 1847 Urged General Scott to Become Dictator.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 20.—That the United States, in spite of many opportunities to seize Mexican territory, has always been the friend of this republic is the thesis upheld by Professor Victoriano Salado Alvarez, writing in the Excelsior, a Mexico City newspaper.

Professor Alvarez denies the charge that the United States is merely waiting for a favorable opportunity to seize Mexico's mines and oil wells and declares that, but for the United States, Mexico today would be only a small strip of territory.

The professor's article reads:

"In spite of the cries that that country is the country of Shylock and that it is spying on Mexico while waiting for an opportunity to take control of our oil wells and rich mines, the United States believes that Mexico should also figure as a nation in the world concert.

Says We Gave Up Lands.

"The United States could have approved the expedition of Aaron Burr, but not only did she refuse to give it her approval but prevented the expedition from starting. The United States could have taken Yucatan, but she refused.

"She could have remained in possession of the enormous extent of land which stretches from ocean to ocean, as given by the MacLane-Ocampo treaty, or the MacLane-Juarez treaty, as we know it.

"The United States refused, without wasting time, to take advantage of the foolishness of Juarez, as his friends term his action. If she had desired to do so, Mexico would have remained but a piece, a small piece, of land such as Bosnia-Herzegovina.

"The United States could have loaned money to the Imperialists during their intervention, or she could have contested the invasion of a million men who were to save us from the 50,000 French who were oppressing us, but the United States preferred to use diplomatic measures, which were better.

Sources of History Seen Here.

"Secretary Seward saved us from this shame and from slavery. We would be an American factory if the prudence and foresight of the United States or our own good luck had not prevented us from arriving at this extreme.

"I do not understand how we can use these names when discussing the United States, to which, in 1847, was offered the opportunity to absorb the entire Mexican Republic.

"I have stated for years that the sources of our history are not only in Mexico, but three-fourths of them are in the United States. We must search there for historical data, for we are sure that in the United States we will find, if not the entire truth, something relative.

"There are people who believe they know the history of Mexico because they have read a couple of chapters in the history known as "Mexico Through the Centuries" or the history of Zamacious, the writers of which did not take the trouble to study the documents.

"Let me refer to the book written by General Hitchcock, entitled, 'Fifty Years in Camp and Field,' which states that in the months of October and November, 1847, he held a series of conferences which lasted for five weeks with three Congressmen from the Congress assembled at Queretaro, one General, one doctor and another citizen, known only as Señor, and the editor of the Beral, a newspaper of Queretaro. In his book General Hitchcock states:

"'All were members of the pure Liberal party and made no mystery of their desire that American troops should keep Mexico in their hands until the entire Mexican Army was wiped out and a civil Government firmly established.'

"They did not consider it advisable that Mexico should receive any money in payment for the provinces that were to be surrendered, as they stated that money would corrupt those in command.

"They were very insistent, so much so that they proposed that General Scott should remain as dictator for six years.

Says Union Was Proposed.

"On Nov. 26 the doctor returned with a proposition as new as it was extravagant. It was that Mexico should request admission to the American Union.

"The doctor stated that he would return on Sunday, the 28th, as he was interested in the answer and especially in what the officers of General Scott thought of the proposition.

"It was later proposed that Scott declare himself dictator for a term of four to six years. This interval would give time for the agitators to learn pacific customs and how to govern themselves, as the Americans would have in their hands the principal forts, arsenals, foundries, mines, ports, cities and all the arms in the country. It was said that it could not be doubted that later the Mexican people would agree to this.

"The way proposed to obtain complete pacification of the country was by the re-enlistment of American soldiers, numbering about seven-tenths of the regulars and practically all of the volunteers, with the idea of organizing a corps of 15,000 men, who would have been pleased to re-enlist when paid 20 to 50 per cent. higher wages than they were paid in the army. This army, joined to a group of selected Mexicans, would bring peace and prosperity to Mexico, it was said.

"General Scott refused to consider these ideas, as he was unwilling to bring Mexico into the United States, a measure that would have impregnated the institutions of his own country with foreigners. The Government of President Polk was opposed to annexation and the matter was dropped.

"Mexicans should learn their own history. Then they will see that the United States has never taken advantage of the opportunities, which have been many, to exercise complete dominion over Mexico.

"The United States has been our friend, not our enemy."

BID TO CURB DEPUTIES SEEN.

Bill to Forbid Them Carrying Guns Expected in Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 20 (AP).—As a result of the pistol battle between members of the Chamber of Deputies in a street here yesterday, in which Colonel Andreas Garcia and Deputy Marcus Diaz were killed, it is expected that when Congress convenes on Sept. 1 bills will be introduced to prevent Congressmen from carrying pistols and to remove the special privilege of immunity, under which Deputies are exempt from arrest for anything, including shooting affrays.

At every session of Congress for many years such bills have been introduced, but always have died upon the calendar.

Well-informed persons believe that such bills will meet a similar fate this year.

American Agent Says Estrada's Intended Revolt Was Only Part of Program.

Mexico Posts Troops at Border to Prevent Guatemalan Insurrectos From Entering.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 20 (AP).—Information showing a widespread revolutionary plot against the Mexican Government has been uncovered by United States officials, Captain A. A. Hopkins, a Department of Justice agent, said today.

The information indicates that the insurrecto band led by General Enrique Estrada, former Mexican Secretary of War, constituted only a small part of the plan.

Captain Hopkins said that a complete study of the papers seized when General Estrada and the members of his band were arrested near here last Sunday night had not yet been made, but that information already received from the documents shows an extensive revolutionary plot.

Attempts to incite trouble among the prisoners at the marine base here last night resulted in two alleged ringleaders being transferred to the county jail.

The prisoners are under guard of Deputy United States Marshals and efforts were made by the two ring leaders, it is said, to induce the men to overpower the guard and escape.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 20 (AP).—Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick today signed a warrant of detention, authorizing the seizure of three trucks, 150,000 rounds of ammunition, two machine guns, 400 rifles and other small arms taken from General Enrique Estrada, and a group of Mexicans rounded up by Federal operatives near the Lower California border last Sunday.

Federal attorneys said the Government would libel the contraband war material and offer it for sale.

EL PASO, Texas, Aug. 20 (AP).—Conflicting announcements by Mexican officials today failed to shed light on reports last night that Mexican troops had been ordered to a border point opposite Columbia, N. M., following the discovery of an alleged plot by a band of heavily armed men to cross into Mexico in a revolutionary movement.

Manuel M. Marcarenas, Collector of Customs at Juarez, said no troops had been ordered from Chihuahua City to Palomas, the border point. General Romano Lopez, commander at Juarez, however, insisted that troops have been sent and now are on their way to Palomas.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 20 (AP).—The Department of War announced today that military forces of the State of Chiapas are closely guarding the Guatemalan frontier "to prevent Guatemalan revolutionary factions entering Mexico."

Ex-Premier Luzzatti of Italy Advocates Intervention in Mexico.

LONDON, Aug. 20 (AP).—The Catholic World reprints a protest against the religious laws of Mexico made today by Luigi Lazzatti, a Jewish statesmen who at one time was Premier of Italy, in the Corriere of Rome.

REPUBLIC IN CAUCASUS VISITED BY AMERICANS

Swanetians Claim Descent From Chaldeans of the Time of Abraham.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 20.—The "oldest republic in the world" has been visited for the first time by Americans—a young couple, William Wasserman, son of James Wasserman, President of the Art Loom Corporation of Philadelphia, and his wife, Marion, daughter of W. B. Fleisher, publisher of the Japan Advertiser in Tokio. It is the Free State of Swanetia, in the heart of the Caucasian Mountains, whose 12,000 inhabitants claim descent from the Chaldeans, who were contemporary with Abraham.

According to legend, the Swanetians descend from the Babylonian troops who pushed far north into the Caucasus and founded the State under the shadow of towering Mount Elbruz, 4,000 years ago.

Herodotus wrote about them, and their language today corresponds to ancient Chaldean.

Russian Czars never conquered free Swanetia, and the Red Army tried vainly to break through the mountain barrier.

On one occasions the Swanetian leader, Gabriani, annihilated a force of 400 Red soldiers with forty Swanetians. Later he made peace with the Bolsheviki and now has the post of Vice President of the autonomous Swanetian Republic.

Mr. and Mrs. Wasserman traveled 280 versts on horseback along mountain trails to reach Swanetia. One trail crossed two snowbound mountain ranges 10,000 feet high which are passable only three months in the year. There are no roads but the trail skirting a precipice.

Each Swanetian village is a small fortress, with curious high towers over the houses for defense against invaders or local feudists. The windows are but narrow slits in the wall for arrows or gunfire.

Despite the agreement with the Soviet Government, there is no Communism—the people live as from time immemorial under their own rule, administered by an Elders Council.

They keep sheep and goats and till the rocky soil.

They have never heard of radio, telegraph, electric light, railroads or automobiles, and have had the same life with the same customs for thousands of years.

They eat black bread and cheese and drink goats milk. On occasions they have meat, chickens and eggs.

The American visitors were received with the utmost courtesy and invited to stay with the President of the republic, who lives in a one-storied cottage surmounted by the usual tower, with his pigs and poultry in the cellar.

The Swanetians are a Christian people, belonging to the Nestorian Sect. They possess valuable church treasures in the shape of gold and silver crosses and ikons brought there for safekeeping by Gregorian priests in the fourth and fourteenth centuries, when the Caucasus were invaded by Persians, Turks, Huns and Tartars.

CONSUL ANSWERS TALLEY.

Arturo M. Elias, Mexican Consul General in New York, in a statement yesterday asserted that former Judge Alfred J. Talley in his speech over WRNY Thursday night, as President of the Association for the Protection of Religious Rights in Mexico, had made statements "at total variance with the historical facts." The statements referred to were that Mexico's present attitude to the Church was "because the Church stands for individual and property rights," and that the Mexican Government's purpose "was to drive out religion."

"Judge Talley certainly has a right to champion the rights of the Catholic Church or any other church to special privileges," said Mr. Elias, "but neither Judge Talley nor any other spokesman for the Church Heirarchy has a right to becloud the issue. Let them emulate the frankness of Pope Pius XI. If their position is a just and proper one they will have nothing to lose from such frankness."

KELLOGG'S SPEECH PLEASES FRENCH

But Temps Thinks His Faith in Treaties Is Not Enough to Insure Disarmament.

CLEMENCEAU HITS IDEALISM

Ex-Premier Believes Only Hope of Ending Wars Lies in Slow Process of Evolution in Education.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—The only comment published today in Paris upon Secretary Kellogg's speech at Plattsburg is contained in the Temps, which expresses pleasure at the Secretary of State's declaration that there is no truth in the report that the American delegation might be withdrawn from Geneva, but finds fault with his belief that the sanctity of treaties is sufficient insurance for the complete observance of disarmament agreements.

In an article published today in the Illustration Georges Clemenceau argues along the same lines, citing the partition of Poland, the invasion of Belgium and other historical examples to show the inefficacy of extreme faith in the wording of international commitments.

Commenting on Mr. Kellogg's statement regarding the intention of Washington to keep its delegation in Geneva, the Temps says:

"This is important, first, because the statement of Mr. Kellogg shows that Washington does not despair of seeing the work of the Preparatory Commission bring practical results; secondly, because in it we see an indication, generally speaking, despite their unwillingness to link American policy with that of European powers, that the United States does not disinterest itself from a question which dominates the whole international situation."

Finds Our Position Unaltered.

The Temps finds that the United States has not modified is position with regard to disarmament. It emphasizes Mr. Kellogg's reference to assistance in Geneva, and says it would have preferred America's cooperating rather than assisting.

"The consolidation of world peace should present the same interest for the United States as for the other powers; for it is wrong to think that any nation, no matter how strong, can isolate itself in this world, withdraw from all international solidarity and obtain safety from all adventures.

"Our experience in the great war, in which America was obliged to intervene, shows this clearly.

"Thus we can scarcely understand why Mr. Kellogg is opposed to all idea of international control over the execution of the disarmament agreement which may be made. To leave it entirely to good faith in respect to the treaties functioning as the disarmament agreement would be fraught with dangers.

"In reality the United States is willing to be a party to the disarmament agreement, but it does not wish to assume any responsibility for its execution."

The Temps thinks that Washington is wrong in assuming that armaments constitute the greatest danger to peace; for it does not believe that peace would be guaranteed by the simple disarmament of all nations. It presents again the French theme that disarmament must be the result of security, rather than security being the result of disarmament.

Tiger Waxes Cynical.

In discussing "war and peace," Ex-Premier Clemenceau shows the cynicism which characterizes his later writings.

"You will find only rhythms of peace and war, predications of human charity and exaltation of barbarism," he writes of histor. "War fatigue imposes peace. Peace fatigue brings war.

"Progress in peace has made the engines of war by which massacres have been indefinitely multiplied, permitting us today to count by the millions our dead and wounded, whereas hundreds of thousands used to suffice for our killing."

The Tiger pays his savage respects to the ideologists who from the time of ancient Greece have periodically swept away all barriers in painting word pictures of the glory of peace on earth.

The great problem of all peace agreements is that of sanctions and guarantees, writes M. Clemenceau. With a sting he asks if a banker would open a new credit for a client who had just distinguished himself by defaulting on a previous promise.

"Yet our ideologists amuse themselves with such ideas," he scoffs.

Asking how justice will help the disarmed nation which is a victim of aggression, he says:

"It is nothing less than asking for an addition to its independence by the great nations, which up to this time have governed the world by imposing on it their profiteering wills."

Education the Main Hope.

M. Clemenceau says he does not despair of progress toward preventing war, but that the problem is difficult because the solution is fogged by the vagaries of human nature.

"Can we believe today that the art of lying has exhausted its possibilities?" he asks.

The only progress which can be made is in the slow process of evolution in education.

"As for the rivalry of peoples in trying to excel one another in the progress of civilization, I propose to the reader the hope that some good will come out of this race. But to tell the truth, I am not so sure of it when I see peoples who look at leadership in movement and devote themselves to the rivalries of unchecked egoism, which condemns them to tear one another to pieces in war, since they use peace to prepare a mined road liable to blow up friends and enemies all together."

Secretary's Talk Pleases League.

GENEVA, Aug. 20 (AP).—Secretary Kellogg's address at Plattsburg has pleased League of Nations circles because of the renewed assurance that the United States will continue to attend the present disarmament discussions.

There is some tendency to agree with the position taken by the United States that land armaments, at least, can be better treated regionally than generally.

As for extension of the Washington naval accord, it is thought not impossible that a way will be found for the five big naval powers to negotiate a new treaty, without, however, separating the action from Geneva's main effort.

Disarmament is proving even a bigger problem than had been anticipated, and it is realized here that infinite patience must be the watchword if anything is to be accomplished.

The recent Greco-Yugoslav accord is felt to be an important addition to European security and may be a precursor to a general Balkan security pact.

HOPEFUL AT GENEVA ON OUR RESERVATIONS

League Officials Expect the Great Powers to Aid Our World Court Entry—Venezuela to Confer.

GENEVA, Aug. 20.—Venezuela today notified the League of Nations that it would participate in the conference of States signatory to the World Court Protocol convoked under the auspices of the League to meet at Geneva on Sept. 1 to consider the United States reservations.

This brings the acceptances to twenty-four, including only two of fourteen Latin-American nations.

League officials, taking a different view from that of Washington, insist that the conference will hasten by years the entry of the United States into the Court if the reservations are acceptable to the other signatories.

If it were left to each signatory power to make its own interpretation of the reservations and make its own official inquiries at Washington, it is held that the matter would be pending for years and that some countries, in view of the difficulties attached to the problem, would probably simply let it slide.

It is believed at Geneva that a majority of the great powers unquestionably would like to see the United States in the World Court, if only "standing in the vestibule," and that in the coming conference these States would undoubtedly bring all the goodwill possible to bear in an effort to put the reservations in a favorable light, and if they find it possible to accept the reservations without endangering the usefulness of the Court or clogging the machinery of the League, that they would use their influence to persuade other nations to accept them.

NOW URGES POINCARE TO RATIFY DEBT TO US

Paris Editor Says Any Sacrifice Is Better Than Being Made Bankrupt by 'Those People.'

PARIS, Aug. 20.—The Victoire, which has been fighting ratification of the Bérenger debt accord, comes out today in a leading article signed by the editor, Gustave Hervé, recommending, after all, that the French Parliament approve the treaty.

"With his high authority the Grand Old Man, who remains the greatest figure in our political world, has said in bitter terms to the Americans what French men and women without distinction think of the attitude of their politicians in the matter," says M. Hervé.

"Professional politicians in America are worth about what they are in France. Instead of being the leaders and guides of their people, which in its mass is like other peoples, egoistic, sentimental and impulsive, they have just followed along.

"There are in America two great political parties and neither has dared to say to the American electoral body that, after having enriched itself during the war as furnisher to the Allies, the most elemental shame would have barred the demanding of the Allies, all of whom are involved in financial difficulties, the sums lent to defend their own independence and existence.

"It is the more so because it is a question of the Allies, to whom they were united on the field of battle, Allies which lost the flower of their race while the Americans, owing to their late entry into the war, had only numerically significant losses.

"If either of the parties had spoken this way to the American people, it might have lost one election, but it would have saved the honor of the American people.

"Across the Atlantic the great voice of the Tiger cried to them all our disgust, cried the disgust of all Europe.

"Americans will understand in time. And the idea of wiping the slate clean will win out. But when the politicians in America come to make that gesture, which even the material interest of their country dictates, as well as its honor, the gesture will be so late that no one in Europe will speak of gratitude.

"Now that we have told the Americans what everyone in France thinks of them, we must pay them, we must ratify the Washington agreement.

"M. Clemenceau, who is not a Government official, who is only the greatest man we have, can comfort himself for having written his bitter letter.

"Now the task of M. Poincaré, the head of the French Government, is not to do as the American politicians are doing, but to have the courage to tell the truth to the French people, no matter how disagreeable it may be, namely, that we must ratify the Washington treaty or be driven into bankruptcy.

"The experts have said frankly there can be no stabilization of the franc without foreign credits and particularly from the nation which has most of the world's gold. America has said 'No credits without the ratification of the Washington treaty.'

"If we do not ratify the treaty, the franc, despite heavy taxes and despite the sinking fund, will start falling again, as it did under Herriot.

"Sentiment and reason are two different things.

"Sentiment says 'Bankruptcy rather than the Washington accord.'

"Reason says 'In waiting until the American people understand M. Clemenceau's letter, let us approve the Washington agreement. Everything to pay the Americans, even the sale of our monopolies, even the abandonment of the eight-hour day—anything rather than be driven into bankruptcy by those people.'

"May M. Poincaré have the courage to tell the French people their duty."

TRIBUTES IN GENEVA TO MELVILLE STONE

News Agencies Speakers Praise Associated Press Official for Winning Legal Rights.

WORLD PROTECTION SOUGHT

Delegates Seek Abolishment of Censorships and Safeguarding of Radio News.

GENEVA, Aug. 20 (AP).—Speakers at today's public session of the conference of representatives of news agencies, under the auspices of the League of Nations, paid tribute to Melville E. Stone, for many years general manager of The Associated Press and now its counselor.

Elmer Roberts, representing The Associated Press, who introduced a resolution advocating international recognition of property rights in news, described Mr. Stone's work in securing legal protection of news in the United States. He told how Mr. Stone, with the support of the directors and members of The Associated Press, won their cause and how the seal of approval was finally given by the Supreme Court.

Roy Howard, Chairman of the Board of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, said that he believed Mr. Stone's contribution in establishing the property right in news was the greatest single achievement in American journalism during the last generation.

The resolution introduced by Mr. Roberts recommends that governments accept the following principles:

First—That news as a business commodity is property.

Second—That this property right does not expire with the mere first appearance of news either in a single newspaper or bulletin board, but continues and is entitled to protection until its full benefit has been realized by its owner.

Third—That violation of this property right is unfair competition.

Mr. Howard introduced an amendment to the resolution offered by Mr. Roberts, stating that property right shall not apply to official news and communications emanating from governments.

These should be considered the property of the entire public, the right to which cannot be restricted to any single newspaper or news agency.

The amendment said that property right should apply, however, to news of a governmental character, which may have been obtained solely as the result of individual initiative and enterprise by a newspaper or news agency.

GENEVA, Aug. 20.—A committee of the news agencies which is meeting here under the auspices of the League of Nations this evening accepted the proposal offered by Elmer Roberts of The Associated Press, asking that all censorship be eliminated in times of peace.

This proposal, which will be discussed tomorrow after it is put in form by a drafting committee, undoubtedly was inspired by the action of the Italian Government, which on several occasions—notably the recent attempt upon the life of Mussolini—held up the news to benefit the Official News Agency and its associates.

The plan should have the effect of wiping out all differences between official and non-official agencies, as the latter came to Geneva prepared to fight for the equality of all news gatherers.

A subcommittee presented a proposal asking that all Governments introduce into their legislation at the earliest possible moment clauses protecting news sent by radio.

MADRID, Aug. 20.—Spain will be officially represented at the September meeting of the Assembly of the League of Nations, according to an announcement made this morning.

The delegate will be the Spanish Ambassador in Belgium, Emilio Palacios, First Secretary of the Diplomatic Division of the Ministry of State, Francisco Montesinos.

They will be given the necessary instructions for pressing Spain's claim to a permanent seat, the Assembly's action on which will largely determine whether or not Spain continues as a member.

The Government also has given publicity to the note, in which it again announces its intention to create a Special Assembly, on which the public will be represented, to facilitate important reforms the Government has in mind for the country.

The recent disturbance in Tangier has elicited another Government note, in which it denies it has any interest in provoking them, but on the contrary greatly desires that order be completely established, to which end it offers the cooperation of the Spanish authorities in Morocco.

By L. C. SPEERS.

tinue to fight for what it believes to be its very existence in Mexico.

Whether a reply to President Calles was being prepared by the Bishops was not disclosed, but the impression is that the next move depends on the reply to be received from Rome.

Text of Bishops' Statement.

The Episcopate's statement reads:

"We wish to declare that our first impression on reading the answer of the President was one of satisfaction over the general tone in which it was written and the spirit of conciliation which could be seen.

"We are thankful for the sincerity with which the President confessed that he was the least fitted to attend to our petition, because he found the articles we complained of in perfect accord with his philosophical and political convictions.

"Let us be permitted to make the observation that, whatever be the convictions of the President and whatever were the convictions which guided the Congress of 1917, unless the public has been prepared through peaceful propaganda, which requires much time, it is impossible to impose upon them a law that will be a true expression of the popular sentiment.

"It is our understanding that the Constitution of a country must satisfy the legitimate aspirations of its citizens, or else it is not a genuine expression of public sentiment.

"This being so, the Governor of a country privately may think as he pleases, but as a public representative he cannot do less than sacrifice his personal opinion so that his countrymen may enjoy prosperity and increase the greatness of the country.

"When the people in a spontaneous manner have made known their opinions and their wishes, a representative of the people is obliged to sacrifice his own philosophical and political ideas to their interest, even though this be painful for him to do.

Disposed to Use Means Indicated.

"The President has refused to remove or to suspend his latest orders which have provoked the existing difficulty. We admit that the President's statement is reasonable, but we wish to call to his attention that, while taking this into account, we confine ourselves to the request that in some manner he suspend the application of the most recent law and the Constitutional articles in controversy.

"Thus, it will be seen that we do not request the elimination of the law, or that he repeal the law or the articles of the Constitution.

"More than one case has been known in which, as a result of objections made by interested parties, the application of a law has been suspended pending its reconsideration.

"We are disposed to exhaust all the legal requirements which the President advises us to do, to request the Federal Congress and the Legislatures of States and also, in its turn, the 'Ampero' of the Federal judicial system.

Example of Wilson Cited.

"We are pleased that the President has decided there was no taint of rebellion in the suspension of religious rites, but we do not agree with him that this suspension is a problem which is alien to the Government.

"If the people have the right to whatever religion their conscience dictates, and if this is made impossible by conditions imposed by the Government, it is our belief that from that moment this problem cannot be of no concern to a Government obliged to respect the sentiments of its citizens.

"We cite that President Wilson, when he introduced conscription into the army, made exceptions of ministers of every religion, students of theology, religious teachers and those who professed to be conscientiously opposed to war.

"We believe that the President's explanation of the attitude of his predecessor was just, but we also believe that the imperative political reasons which inspired General Obregon not to go to extremes still persist and are shown by the way the public received the latest legislative measures.

"Since the President has indicated his willingness to recede from his philosophical and political convictions so far as not to retard a discussion of the reforms approved by Señor Carranza and permit Congress a free hand in the work of reformation, we wish gratefully to accept this offer immediately.

"In the same manner he could have granted us what we asked without in any way sacrificing his personal convictions or failing to comply with his Presidential oath to safeguard the Constitution.

Seen as Heart of Controversy.

"The cardinal point of all the difficulties created by the Constitution of 1917 and of the greater difficulties which will be created if it is not reformed was touched on by the President when he commented on the fundamental principle on which we based our request for the amendment of the Constitution of 1917.

"We well know that when refusing to recognize the personality of the religious corporations called churches he desired to take the more advanced step then involved in the separation of Church and State, and for this precise reason we request that the Constitution will express the principles of an honest separation.

"The absolute refusal to recognize the Church is not liberal, but is socialistic, and it would be a long and useless task to discuss this position, but it is sufficient to make this observation, namely:

"The Church in Mexico has formed part of the national life for 400 years. This must be admitted and cannot be denied. With the scratch of a pen to wipe out four centuries of history is to admit the possibility of consequences which might provoke tremendous convulsions.

"The separation of Church and State does not mean the admission of the correctness of the observation of 'the creation of a State within a State,' as no such thing exists in civilized nations where the rule of separation prevails, and the reason is, that even though the members of both societies may be the same, yet their ends are diverse.

"Yet they live in perfect concord and in the hour of conflict the leaders have come to an understanding, as is proved by history. God has given man sacred religious obligations, which involve complete obedience to civil authority, and so it was that Christ said, 'Give unto God what is God's, and render unto Caesar what is Caesar's.'"

"We hope that the glory of inaugurating a period of harmony among the Socialistic, Liberal and Catholic elements will be the President's, in order that the politics of the country will respond to the principles of true democracy."

It was commented on as of significance today, that the leading editorial in The Universal, one of the nation's two greatest dailies, says that there is a possibility of modification of the laws, if it is sought for through legal channels. Referring to the religious conflict, The Universal editorially says:

"We can assure without the slightest doubt, that the most important documents which have passed between the Mexican Episcopate and the Mexican Government are the communications which we publish on our first page. The Episcopate, through the mouth of Archbishop Mora y del Rio, directted to President Calles a request that the application of certain constitutional articles and regulating laws be suspended, as the laws and regulations directly affected the Church.

Influence of Trade Discussed.

"The Episcopate also requests the reformation of Article 130 of the Constitution.

"President Calles, taking his stand on constitutional grounds, answers that it is impossible to suspend the articles of the law and, although unable to initiate reforms, yet his personal philosophical criterion enables him to say that he is disposed to use whatever faculties he can to help in the discussion and rapid transmission of the reforms which might be possible if the Church believes it is opportune to insist on them through proper legal channels.

"Although the answer of President Calles to the memorial presented by merchants and industrial firms, which begged him to arrive at a solution of the difficulties and requested him to hear serenely and in private the observations that representatives of the Episcopate might present, is not known, we may presume that this memorial may have inspired the ideas expressed in the President's answer to the note sent by the Archbishop. The question is now clearly and openly placed on legal ground.

Says Laws Must Satisfy People.

"The form in which the question now rests is, in our opinion, the only one possible.

"We have held that the only rule that the Government has to use to guide its conduct is the law. The highest functionaries have declared on many occasions that they are of the same opinion.

"This means that logically the laws must satisfy the social necessities of the people ruled by them. The laws must be revised when the evolution of social necessities demand.

"The functioning of a legislature is to facilitate continuous readoptation.

"Many laws were created in the heat of the revolution, when the clergy indicated they were ready to continue to fight the revolutionary movement. Now the political and social situation has changed and the Government is established on an immovable basis.

"There seems to be no reason against changing some of the clauses to such a degree that they will harmonize with the manner of thinking and the actual feeling of the Mexican people. This is the legal key which can solve the difficulties.

"President Calles, in his statement published in THE NEW YORK TIMES, said:

"'If through the evolution of the country or any other circumstance it is necessary to reform the law, this can be done. But for these reforms there exists legal means which the same law indicates.'

"Secretary of State Tejada, replying to the arguments of Archbishop Mora y del Rio, expressed similar ideas when he stated:

"'The clergy have never taken the legal road, which is to request the reformation of the articles which affect them, but they have openly preferred to refuse to acknowledge them.'

Reference to People Proposed.

"Representatives of the Government have admitted, as shown by the Presidential note, the probability that the law should and would be modified, but they demanded that the Church proceed through legal channels.

"Mexican opinion alone can say whether the moment has arrived to make the changes, and, that opinion should be consulted in the form suggested by the highest officials whose statements we have cited.

"If that appeal shows that national opinion, through its constitutional organs, says that Article 130 responds wholly to the demands of the present time, then it should be complied with. But if a strong current of public opinion indicates the necessity of reform, then the moment has arrived to supplant it, following the means suggested in the Constitution."

States Must Ratify Amendments.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 19 (AP).—In the first editorial discussing the situation in Mexico since the religious regulations became effective July 31, the Universal urges the determination by constitutional means of whether the religious laws are approved by popular opinion. If so, the paper says, they should be obeyed; if not, they should be amended.

Amendment of the Constitution can be brought about by approval by a two-thirds vote of the Federal Congress, after which there must be approval by a majority of the State Legislatures.

Popular opinion, as referred to by the Universal, probably is intended to mean the votes of the representatives in these Legislatures.

STUDENTS WANT FREEDOM

Political Leaders Say the People There Prefer to Wait Until Resources Are Developed.

By RUSSELL B. PORTER.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ABOARD S. S. MINDORO, Aug. 20.—Colonel Carmi A. Thompson, President Coolidge's personal representative in the Philippines, today visited the Province of Negros on the Island of Negros, which the Spaniards named after the aboriginal pigmy tribe of Negritos, a black race, later forced out by the brown Malays. Oriental Negros is not developed as highly as the twin Province, Occidental Negros, a sugar centre recently visited, and therefore offers more opportunity for new ventures of American capital.

Despite the display of banners "demanding" immediate, complete independence, even the political leaders of Oriental Negros said that while the people wanted eventual independence they thought it better to remain under the American flag until the Filipinos developed their natural resources and had the finances to maintain their own Government.

The Visayan Islands being agricultural, many Filipinos are successful planters and the prosperity of the owners has created a more practical viewpoint than is displayed by the Manila political firebrands. The Visayan leaders evidently are working to make the people realize that immediate independence is impossible and to persuade them to develop their resources, telling them if they do not develop them themselves others will insist on developing their resources to meet the world's needs. There is strong opposition in Negros to the Bacon bill, separating the islands of Mindanao and Palawan and the Sulu Archipelago from the Philippines. A banner read, "We Are Opposed to the Bacon Bill." Another said, "Filipino Freedom is Worth More Than Gold and Rubber." Another urged American reporters to tell the truth about conditions in the Philippines.

Thompson Answers One Protest.

A speaker at luncheon protested against the propaganda sent to the United States representing the Filipinos as "naked savages and headhunters" and said such misrepresentations struck at the root of national aspirations. He said the young people, educated in American institutions, could be trusted to eliminate economic waste and to develop their resources. Colonel Thompson assured them that Americans no longer regarded the Filipinos as savages, Filipino students in America having changed our views since the early days of the American occupation.

The Thompson party visited the Silliman Institution, a Presbyterian school established by Henry Silliman of New York twenty-five years ago. It now has 827 students. Financed by the Presbyterian Church in America, the Institute has been the centre of independence agitation. The banner, "Freedom Is Worth More Than Gold and Rubber," carried by Silliman students, was a quotation from a recent speech by Dr. Davis Hubbard, President of the institute, before students of the University of Phillipines at Manila.

The party is now steaming away from Negros in a regal Pacific sunset with purple and gold spray like a mantle over the black form of the high mountain ranges separating Oriental and Occidental Negros. Tomorrow we will arrive at the "Promised Land," the rich island of Mindanao, now almost totally undeveloped but capable of growing enough rubber for America to break the British-Dutch monopoly and supply many other essential tropical raw materials in large quantities.

Colonel Thompson commented today that on his motor trip through the Island of Bohol all the independence petitions were on like paper and envelopes and that otherwise there was little independence talk. One reason for the lesser agitation in the Visayan Islands, American residents say, is their proximity to the Moros of the southern island of Mindanao and Sulu. The warlike Mohammedan Moros in Spanish times made continued piratical raids on the more peaceful Christian Filipinos to the north. If we took our flag and troops away it is feared these raids would be resumed.

In Terror of Trading Ship.

The Filipino papers in Manila reported recent alarm among the Visayans because of the landing of a vinta with Moros, who merely wanted to trade. A Moro in Bohol told Colonel Thompson, "Give the Filipinos independence and we will pass the Bacon bill for them," meaning the Moros would secede.

Colonel Thompson found Bohol the cleanest, neatest and healthiest province visited because the coral limestone formation soaks up the drainage. The coral roads are smooth and dustless like "natural cement." A native house raised on bamboo poles is spotless underneath in spite of its customary use for domestic animals. The Thompson party visited the high, cool interior plateau, which is miles in extent, containing unique scenic effects, such as hundreds of coral mounds, several hundred feet in diameter, with only thick grass on top. There are cocoanut palms in the valleys between. The mounds are like bubbles blown up by some giant.

Colonel George T. Langhorne, Governor General Wood's commercial adviser accompanying Colonel Thompson, was told by native constabulary officers that the natives had been ordered not to chew betel nut and the women had been warned not to smoke cigars and to wear more than the usual clothing during the Thompson visit. Further south less clothing is worn and more betel is used as a substitute for chewing tobacco. Its small green leaf has a pungent flavor. Women of the lower class smoking long cheap cigars, even with babies in arms, are common sights throughout the Philippines, even in the streets of Manila.

Wood Says Philippines Interest All.

CEBU, Island of Cebu, P. I., Aug. 20 (AP).—Speaking before the American Club here today, Governor General Leonard Wood declared that Philippine problems are a part of America's Pacific problem, which concerns not only the Philippines but also America and other powers.

"Solution of the Philippine problems cannot be achieved with the chatter of agitators," he said. "It is not a one-man job. It must be worked out not with the wishes and interests of the Filipinos alone in view, but also those of America and other countries affected.

"When the job is done, America will say so and it is not done until she says so. We need pulling together, mutual respect, forbearance."

Osmena Quotes Coolidge's Words.

CEBU, Island of Cebu, P. I., Aug. 20 (AP).—Territorial Senator Sergio Osmena, in a statement today regarding his speech here Wednesday, in which he was quoted as saying that President Coolidge told him that the United States intended to withdraw from the Philippines, said:

"I did not quote President Coolidge as saying that he had promised independence as soon as a firm economic foundation had been established.

"What I said with reference to the conference I had with him concerning the appointment of Carmi A. Thompson as investigator of Philippine conditions was that President Coolidge desired to help the Filipinos in promotion of their economic development, so that when the day of our emancipation comes, instead of being poor and lacking in resources, we will have means enough to maintain our roads, schools and defenses, and be able to assume great responsibilities of an economic nature which the new situation might bring."

Osmena later insisted that the President made reference to withdrawal from the Philippines. President Coolidge's exact words, said Osmena, were as follows:

"We will withdraw, but, Senator, don't you believe you ought to so develop your resources now, that you may be more economically prepared to meet the increased burdens of government, such as schools, roads and other things which the future may bring?"

BLAMES DAWES PLAN FOR GERMAN WRECK

Red Organ Lays Either Poor Track or Trespassing Criminal to the Reduction of Employes.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—An investigation of the causes of yesterday's wreck on the Berlin-Cologne express train near Hanover, in which twenty-one lives were lost, has not brought to light whether it was due to the accidental loosening of a rail or to the fiendish act of a criminal.

The Communist organ, which is again appearing after being suppressed for a time by the Government, charges the deaths to the Dawes plan, contending that if sufficient employes were on the payroll a criminal would be unable to approach the track and that if the wreck was caused by a poor roadbed then the lack of repair should be laid to the Dawes plan, because under its provisions the number of railway employes was greatly reduced.

Other newspapers are less certain tonight that the accident was caused by a criminal, pointing out that two other trains, also running fifty miles an hour, passed over this spot within the previous half hour.

The Director General of Railways, Herr Dorpmuller, expresses the belief that the wreck was the work of criminals and declares that the reduction in the force had nothing to do with it. A high police official of Berlin, who has studied the case, told THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent that he was convinced that the bolts and spikes were removed by a malicious person, but he was unable to give the motive.

"It is deplorable that our laws are such that even if the criminals are caught the courts are not empowered to pass the death sentence for such an offense," he said.

"Pitying the criminals and disregarding the victims seems to have taken a firm hold on the German people and the offenders get the lightest sentences or are freed through the sympathy aroused by alienists or psychoanalysts, a large class believing that all criminals are abnormal and therefore should not be punished."

The complete list of those killed in the wreck, made public today, was as follows: Engineer Jordan, Kurt Leiser, Steinhardt Grunewald, Frau Julie Stolle and Fritz Hoffmeister of Berlin; David Howard-Pirrie of Cambridge, England; Woodrik Reid, an English student at Bonn University; Otto Egbert of Stettin; Engineer Richard Gnann, Julie Gnann and Ernest Mehlich of Dortmund; Friedrich Schmidt-Ernsthausen of Düsseldorf, Theodore Zyrson of Ronsdorf, Robert Perlstein of Hamm, Engineer Weise and wife and Engineer Albert Hohm of Kreuz; Albert Hippe of Waldenburg, Fräulein Clara Nauert of Cologne, Frau Winkelmann, residence unknown, and one woman, unidentified.

One fell among the spectators with the unopened parachute on his back. The other fell on a roof in town a mile from the field. Both were young officers. The parachutes were of Swedish construction.

SHOOTS 70-YEAR-OLD WIFE.

Iowa Man Attempts to Kill the Mother of His 16 Children.

BELLEVUE, Iowa, Aug. 20 (AP).—Ferdinand Mueller, 72 years old, is in jail at Maquoketa tonight because he yesterday shot his seventy-year-old wife and mother of sixteen children after a quarrel. She is in a critical condition from wounds in the head.

Mueller said he and his wife had been estranged for two years, and upon meeting her he became enraged and quarreled. He is held without charge pending determination of his wife's injuries.

ITALIAN TREASURY INCREASES SURPLUS

PAPER MONEY REDUCED, TOO

Trade Balance Remains Adverse, However, for First Half of the Calendar Year.

ROME, Aug. 20.—The steady improvement in the Italian financial situation is indicated by the figures in the Treasury statement issued today showing that the budget surplus of the first month in the present fiscal year amounts to 84,000,000 lire.

This marks an improvement of 13,000,000 lire over the corresponding period last year, despite the fact that 21,000,000 spent for railroad construction were included in the ordinary budget for the first time this year, as formerly such expenses were carried in a separate account by the Government.

The Treasury cash account shows that the ordinary and extraordinary revenue during the month exceeded the ordinary and extraordinary expenditure by 732,000,000 lire. The difference between this sum and the 84,000,000 held as the surplus in the budget was in part applied to the payment of interest on the public debt falling due on July 1, and in part to increasing the cash in the Treasury's reserve, which now amounts to 3,500,000,000 lire, against 1,500,000,000 one year ago.

The public debt now amounts to 89,860,000,000 lire, or almost 1,500,000,000 lire less than a month ago.

This result has been obtained by setting aside the budget surplus of the last financial year, which was slightly less than 1,500,000,000 lire, almost entirely to this reduction of the public debt.

On July 31 the paper circulation amounted to 20,419,000,000 lire, showing a reduction of 24,000,000, as compared with the previous month.

The economic crisis which Italy, in common with almost all European nations, is now suffering, is reflected in the figures of Italy's foreign trade. In the first six months of the present calendar year, Italy exported 284,000,000 lire worth of goods less than last year, while the importations were only 168,000,000 lire less than in the corresponding period last year.

The excess of importations over exportations for the six months amounts to 5,946,000,000 lire, against 3,827,000,000 lire in the first six months of last year.

FASCISTI TO CONTROL LAWYERS IN PARTY

Attorneys Must Not Represent Foes of Mussolini—Some Disturbers Will Be Disciplined.

ROME, Aug. 20 (AP).—The professional activities of lawyers belonging to the Fascist Party henceforth are to be under the control of the Secretary of the party, in consequence of a decision tonight of the party's national directorate, presided over by Premier Mussolini.

Fascist lawyers will be prohibited from representing anti-Fascist clients or accepting cases involving conflict with the party tendencies. The Secretary of the party is empowered to use his discretion as to the activities of the lawyers in cases involving antisocial or gravely immoral crimes.

Most of tonight's session was devoted to a comprehensive survey of the internal condition of the party. Describing trips to Apulia, Calabria and Sicily, the Secretary, Augusto Turati, asserted that the great mass of the black shirts "feel profoundly their responsibility to the party in this moment of the national life when the régime has undertaken a grave, decisive economic battle."

At the same time, he declared, abnormal conditions necessitating disciplinary action still existed in Trieste, Udine, Rovigo, Ancona and a few other provinces.

"In certain provinces," Secretary Turati declared, "various leaders appear unfitted to handle the task allotted to them."

After listening to the speeches, Premier Mussolini said they made him feel that Fascism had arrived at its maturity. He then outlined steps it was intended to take to raise the value of the lira and to defend the unit. This part of the Premier's remarks was not made public.

3 NEW YORK WOMEN HURT.

Injured In Collision Between Boston Bus and Heavy Truck.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 20.—Three New York women were injured and ten other passengers were severely shaken when a large New York-Boston bus and a heavy truck collided at Market and Beacon Streets, Brighton, today.

Mrs. Irene Butler of 357 West Nineteenth Street, New York; Miss Marie Cohen of 1,016 Hoe Street, New York, and Alice Kurtz of 430 East Sixty-fifth Street, New York, were those hurt. Mrs. Butler was reported to be the most seriously injured, being treated at the office of a physician nearby for right side and knee abrasions and for shock.

The bus was being driven by Clarence L. Brown of Brookline, Mass., and was headed for New York. Henry M. Parker of Roxbury operated the truck and, according to witnesses, the drivers caught sight of each other too late on driving around the corner.

OWEN'S COMPANY EVICTED.

Oil Concern of Missing Hackensack Man Forced Out of Office.

Further interest attached to the mysterious disappearance on June 29 of Charles W. Owen, President of the Kentucky Oil Products Company and a former resident of Hackensack, N. J., when the furnishings of the company's office at 149 Broadway were moved out yesterday. Agents of the building two days before had obtained a dispossess order in the Municipal Court. This was served on a man in the office said to be a private secretary for the missing man, and the furnishings were removed yesterday morning.

The day before when Harry L. P. Vansant, Secretary of the company, a neighbor of Owen in Hackensack, expressed the belief that Owen would return soon and straighten out his affairs, he announced that the company appeared to be in good financial circumstances.

Bukharin Flies to Berlin to Expel Five Reds, Including Ruth Fischer, as Party Traitors

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—Ruth Fischer, long known as the ardent leader of the Reichstag Communistic catcall chorus, and a fervid apostle of Marxism and Leninism, whose sneering sarcasm has been feared by every member of the Reich's legislative body, is no longer a member of the "Kommunist Partei von Deutschland."

The decree which put Ruth beyond the pale of Sovietism also pronounced sentence casting out Reichstag Deputies Maslow and Teidt and the Prussian Diet Deputies Lossau and Loquingen. Two members of the party's Central Committee, Herr Urbahns and Herr Schlect, may be ousted at any minute, since they voted against the expulsion of their five comrades.

The dismissal took the form of a ceremony with foreign talent carrying out the ritual and delivering the final speech at a secret party meeting last night. N. F. Bucharin of the Russian Communist Party's Political Bureau, came from Moscow by airplane in order personally to conduct the stately rites, bearing with him many stamped and sealed documents issued by even higher and mightier proletarian dictators.

Ruth Fischer, who is radical to the point of fanaticism according to general opinion, was associated with the former Communist Deputy Korsch, described by the Central Committee as a "party traitor." Herr Korsch says the Russian Soviet Union is a capitalistic State. Others who were associated with Herr Korsch were also characterized as "bourgeois" and branded as unfit to be identified with the Communist aims to make all the world the same as Russia.

One of the most heinous crimes committed by the evicted Communists was the expression of ideas overstepping the narrow groove of thought prescribed by Moscow. This action was deemed to be an attempt to break up the solidarity of the party, and even the party itself. Failure to accept party discipline also was charged.

Fräulein Fischer, Herr Maslow and Herr Teidt will be asked to resign as Deputies in the Reichstag, and Herr Lossau and Herr Loquingen as Diet Deputies. Whether they will acquiesce is questionable. Since their Parliamentary immunity has prevented their being arrested on various occasions, it is doubtful if they will obey the party to which they no longer belong, at least until they are safe beyond the German borders.

Ruth has spent a long time in Russia and, like Emma Goldman, seems to have become convinced that the idealistic theories of communism and their practical application cannot be made congruous. It is doubted, however, in political circles that Fräulein Fischer will follow in the footsteps of Miss Goldman and maintain a long silence. The belief is rather that she will take up the cudgels against the party which spurned her and which she has openly challenged by disobeying its precepts and flaunting her contempt of its mandates.

GOES TO JAIL FOR VACATION.

Speeder Decides to Give Up Ten Days Rather Than $50.

Paul Marcellini of East Forty-third Street yesterday spurned an opportunity to bask at the seashore and chose to pass the remaining ten days of his vacation in jail. He was before Magistrate William P. Weiner in the Long Island City Police Court on a charge of speeding.

"Fifty dollars or ten days," said the Magistrate after listening to the testimony of Patrolman Edward Van Clieff.

Marcellini counted out $50 before the Clerk of the Court and then paused and counted off ten days on a calendar. He then told the Magistrate that he had ten days more of his vacation and would save the cash.

"This will be the best vacation I ever had," he said as he stepped into the police van that was to carry him to jail.

MRS. KRESGE RETURNS TO FIGHT DIVORCE SUIT

Back From Europe, She Asserts Chain Store Owner's Action in Michigan Is 'Unwarranted.'

Returning from Europe yesterday on the liner Resolute, Mrs. Sebastian S. Kresge, wife of the operator of a large chain of retail stores, announced that she would fight to the limit a suit for divorce which Mr. Kresge has filed against her in Michigan.

"I learned of my husband's suit by cable," she said. "I have come back to fight his unwarranted action."

Mrs. Kresge refused to comment further except to say that her husband had no grounds for a divorce action.

Mrs. Kresge, who is 31 years old, was a divorcee when she was married to Mr. Kresge, twenty-six years her senior, on April 16, 1924. Five months ago a suit brought here by Mrs. Kresge to compel her husband to turn over 2,500 shares of stock, valued at $2,000,000, which she contended belonged to her through a prenuptial agreement, was settled before the trial was completed.

At that time Nathan Burkan, Mrs. Kresge's lawyer, said: "Mrs. Kresge's right to certain shares of stock has been confirmed, thereby making her independent for the rest of her life."

It was reported that the couple had become reconciled, but when Mr. Kresge's divorce action was filed in Detroit on July 14 his attorney declared that as far as he knew the report was not true.

COAST GUARD COURT CONVICTS FALKENBURG

Clear Boatswain's Mate of One Charge in Rum Case Indicating Guilt in Three Others.

BEACH HAVEN, N. J., Aug. 20 (AP).—The court-martial trying at Shipbottom Station eleven members of the Coast Guard accused of accepting bribes notified Boatswain's Mate J. Edward Falkenburg tonight that one of four specifications in the charges against him had not been substantiated. This indicated that Falkenburg had been found guilty of parts or all of the three other specifications.

The first specification charged Falkenburg with permitting a rum boat to enter Little Egg Harbor Inlet while he was station commander there. The other specifications declared he had at various times accepted bribes, permitted liquor to land and had once transported whisky in a Coast Guard boat.

The case of Falkenburg was reopened today on the motion of Commander W. J. Wheeler, Prosecutor.

Boatswain's Mate Roy H. Rider and Surfman Frank L. T. Thompson, who, the Government charges, were with Falkenburg when he ran eight cases of liquor across Barnegat Bay in a Coast Guard boat, and who refused to testify two days ago, were called. They were advised by the Court that their testimony could not be used against them.

Rider said he had been in the engine room most of the time, but that he had seen several boxes or case under a tarpaulin.

Thompson said he had noticed the cases and that he opened a bottle from one case and found that it contained salt water.

Charges against seven of the men involved have been disposed of by the court-martial.

Arrested on Girl's Complaint.

Dr. Edward Willie, a negro physician, previously of Washington, D. C., and now practicing at 1,140 Herkimer Street, Brooklyn, was held in $5,000 bail yesterday by United States Commissioner Wilson in Brooklyn on a charge made by Ida M. Peeler, 15 years old, alleging an offense in the District of Columbia on March 20, 1925. Hearing in extradition proceedings will be held on Friday of next week. Dr. Willie said he did not know the girl.

VISIONS FUTURE WAR WITH POISONOUS GAS

Harrison E. Howe, of Washington, leader of the chemistry round table, replied to the criticism directed yesterday by Dr. H. Foster Bain at the predictions made for synthetic chemistry.

Dr. Howe's reply to the attack on chemistry was an explanation of the many synthetic products already discovered by the chemist, emphasizing that in fact the synthetic age was upon the world, and also a criticism of the miners and metallurgists for their alleged failure to do more to conserve metals and minerals.

"The statement (of Dr. Bain) ridicules the idea of self-lubricating wheels," declared Dr. Howe. "Does not the author know that at least three commercial concerns now offer oilless bearings; that in some cases water has proved to be a satisfactory lubricant and that in thrust bearings of ship propellers the thinnest film of oil is sufficient, serving to separate surfaces that are optically plane and run in a housing?"

In describing the achievements of synthetic chemistry Dr. Howe pointed to the manufacture of $8,000,000 worth of artificial silk in the United States annually; the manufacture of artificial leather in such vast quantities that to obtain an equal supply of real leather would mean the slaughter of more cattle than exist on the American Continent; the synthetic manufacture of vanillin but for which the resources of sixty Mexicos would be required to provide the nation's vanilla extract; the manufacture of synthetic camphor "which stands between us and the Japanese camphor monopoly"; the displacing of bone by casein products; the synthetic manufacture of hard fats annually equal to that obtained from 7,000,000 hogs; the world production of 2,300 tons of synthetic ammonia by nitrogen fixation; the import of synthetic methanol, which menaces the $100,000,000 wood alcohol industry and the introduction of artificial wood.

In addition to these synthetic products, Dr. Howe pointed to synthetic drugs, such as novocain, butyn, aspirin and salvarsan. He chided the mining engineer for wasting vast quantities of coal for every ton mined and for not being able to obtain more than one barrel of oil out of every eleven pools "which he taps indiscriminately," and pointed out that $100,000,000 was invested in the synthetic organic chemical industry in this country.

Dr. Bain, who was present, made no reply.

Dr. Howe's remarks were made at the Conference on Public Opinion in World Affairs, presided over by Arthur Draper, assistant editor of The New York Herald Tribune. Other speakers were Rear Admiral William L. Rodgers, retired, Arthur Kuhn and Harry Garfield.

A paper on the motion picture and public opinion, written by Ralph Block, was read by Andrew Tenevcik, as Mr. Block was unable to be present.

At the round table on China today Dr. Edward H. Hume, President of Yale in China, spoke on the tendencies of the student movement in China; Professor Lewis Hodous of Columbia University and the Hartford Seminary Foundation, spoke of the renaissance of China; Dr. C. K. Edmunds, Provost of Johns Hopkins University, and former President of Canton Christian College, discussed the anti-religious movement in China and Carrington Goodrich of Columbia University made an address on the Russian Soviet influence on the Chinese renaissance.

Dr. Antonio Castro Leal, counsel of the Mexican Embassy at Washington, speaking at the round table conducted by Dr. Leo S. Rowe, discussed the relations of the Church to Mexico. During the first half of the last century, he said, the Church owned half of the property in Mexico, although one authority placed the figure at 80 per cent. The Church in Mexico, he said, was different from the Church in the United States, for the former always had a certain amount of economic and political power.

Irvine Recalls Horror at Ypres.

In his lecture tonight on chemical warfare and the development of gas poisoning, Sir James C. Irvine said that the necessity for the Allies to take part in chemical warfare came after that April morning in 1915, when, without warning, waves of chlorine gas swept over the allied lines north of Ypres. After describing the panic and confusion which prevailed when men were confronted with the terrors of the unknown, Sir James said in part:

"The calamity at Ypres was at least the end of a period of anxious suspense. Now it was something more than war to the knife. The retort and crucible were to play their part, and the challenge had been thrown down to the country where, to quote an insolent criticism 'there was no real science, only playing at science.'

"Two problems stood out pre-eminently in the new warfare: First, protection for our troops, and second, retaliation. I do not seek to reopen this debate and it is far from my desire to criticise those who, on principle, urged that we should refrain from following Germany's lead, but I must state in a word that we had no alternative save surrender.

"In the popular mind the impression may have been created that Germany had exercised unusual scientific foresight and capacity when she first deluged the allied lines with waves of chlorine gas. I would remind you that chlorine was discovered by the Swedes, that the methods of preparing it electrolytically were discovered by the British, that its application as a bleaching agent was first rendered possible by the French, and that it was first used deliberately to kill by the German.

"I am not a pessimist, but am nevertheless appalled at the prospects opened out if man is to wage war in this way. What is the remedy, and what safeguards can we provide to secure that this mad use of scientific discovery will not recur in the future?

"A modern works designed for the large-scale peparation of organic compounds such as dyestuffs requires very little alteration in plant or personnel to be converted in a few hours into a place from which will pour materials more deadly by far than those used in the late war. No peace treaty or visiting commissions can control or even detect research work designed to furnish lethal agents for the future, and this research may be going on now, anywhere, in preparation for the next war.

"The time may come—must come—when man will rise superior to the envy and passion which make for war, but that time is not yet. We must face facts. These can be readily summarized:

"1. A nation leading in scientific development and in chemical manufacture broke a pledge and utilized chemical poisons in warfare.

"2. Other nations retaliated and formed definite chemical warfare departments to prosecute and expand the new methods.

"3. Since the war most nations have expanded the range of their chemical industries.

"4. The staffs of the various chemical warfare departments have been greatly reduced since the war, but are still in existence.

"Almost universally the opinion is given, that in his heart of hearts the chemist loathes the suggestion that his science should be utilized for developing new and more effective poisons for warfare. Nevertheless there is a general opinion that under present conditions it is impossible to stop it.

"No nation can afford to depend on other nations, be they friends or foes, for anything which has become a necessity. We must, as a consequence, manufacture scientifically, and to do so we must learn to think scientifically.

"I do not ask that every man should be a scientist, nor do I plead for a great scientific awakening merely because science has helped your country and mine to win one war and may shield us in the next. But for good or ill we live in a material universe and in a scientific age; the world is faced with social and economic tumult. But as I have endeavored to show in my earlier lectures, the evidence of history justifies the hope that the science of chemistry will remain a force which, operated in the right direction, can do much toward reconstruction and having arrested backward movement, may resume the higher function of fostering forward progress."

KLARNER OPPONENTS UPSET POLISH PLANS

SOCIALISTS WANT HIM OUT

In Pilsudski Legion Paper They Assail American Proposal as Favoring Capitalists.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.

WARSAW, Aug. 20.—The greatest concern over Poland's financial future is being expressed in the foreign circles of Warsaw, following concerted attacks against Finance Minister Klarner, who is today reported to be on the eve of resigning under the fire of Marshal Pilsudski's followers.

The effects of the proposed resignation are manifold, and it is likely to mark the passage of the country back to the chaotic conditions which existed before the revolution in May.

First of all, Klarner, who is an eminent banker, has been in the closest collaboration with the Kemmerer Commission and has advocated all the reforms the Americans suggested.

Secondly, he is already forcing to the conference stage a number of reforms designed to lift Poland out of its condition of despondency, these including the establishment of a dollar bank, a more elastic constitution for the Bank of Poland and the consolidation of the three present Government banks for agriculture, savings and general trade.

The conference at which the proposals were made was held today, but without definite results. Through the bank merger it is hoped to protect Government and municipal securities, which heretofore have been in such disrepute that they have been dealt in only on the "Black Bourse," corresponding to the New York Curb Market. These measures are principally the results of careful observation by the American experts and are only a partial list of the contemplated program.

The resignation of Finance Minister Klarner, who has asserted that his part of the Government is anxious to receive the American suggestions, would practically wipe out the effects of the Kemmerer Commission's work, since by the time a successor would be qualified the commission's work would be ended.

A third point in consideration is the war upon Finance Minister Klarner conducted chiefly through socialistic channels, including the newspaper Glos Prawdz, jointly owned by Marshal Pilsudski's unofficial army of 100,000 members. The attacks against the Minister may be understood to be sanctioned by the Marshal and indirectly aimed at the American mission in the Socialists' contention that Poland is able to care for itself without foreign dictation.

"In this manner Marshal Pilsudski by a bulletless battle is beginning a revolution against the Cabinet which he himself built up following his revolution, and there is yet no sign where the campaign will end.

As far as indicated in Socialist circles the main grievance against M. Klarner, in collaboration with the Kemmerer Commission, is that they are not sufficiently favorable to labor and lean toward capitalism.

Another shadow over the new Government came today with the news that negotiations for the German-Polish trade agreement had been suspended until the end of September. This definitely checks the export westward of this year's good harvest, one of the chief hopes of the Government, the German agrarians having exerted the utmost influence to protect their grain prices, which are higher than those of Poland.

The demonstration of this influence gives a dark outlook here to the Geneva parleys, which will be headed by Foreign Minister Zaleski, so far as German-Polish relations are concerned.

The Minister of Commerce held a conference today at which it was decided to reject a private merchant marine system and retain the shipping privilege for the Government, but the details of the proposed lines are still dreamy and their financial status has not been announced.

American Minister Stetson entertained Professor Kemmerer, Finance Minister Klarner and a large group of others at a lunch today, in return for the welcome accorded him at Posen on his recent trip.

NARCOTIC SELLER SHOT BY INJURED DETECTIVE

Negro Hits Policeman With Lead Pipe—Bullet Halts His Flight—He May Die.

A negro narcotic seller was shot and probably mortally wounded in a fight with members of the Narcotic Squad of the Police Department yesterday afternoon.

Detectives William Cruger, Herbert Mogg, Morrison Sanders and Irving Higgins had arrested four white men on suspicion of having heroin and obtained from them information that Robert Williams, 36 years old, of 337 West Fifty-ninth Street, had it for sale.

Going directly to Williams's room on the second floor of the tenement at that address they found he was not there, but a friend, Jesse Pugh, 29 years old, of 626 Prospect Avenue, the Bronx, was there and had heroin, the police said. He was arrested. Detective Cruger then waited in the hallway for Williams.

At 4:30 Williams came, and suspecting Cruger was a detective, he drew a section of lead pipe from his pocket and struck Cruger on the left shoulder. He then dashed to the ground floor, over into the house at 335 West Fifty-ninth Street, and up to the second floor fire-escape. Cruger followed, and as the negro reached the window ledge, he fired, wounding Williams in the back.

The negro was taken to Roosevelt Hospital and attended by Dr. Brighton, who said his condition was serious. He is charged with felonious assault and with selling and possessing narcotics. Cruger's injuries are not serious.

MISTAKEN ORDER SANK H-29

Coroner Exonerates Witnesses From Blame for Submarine Disaster.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—An inquest today on the bodies of the six victims of the submarine H-29, which recently sank at her moorings in the Devonport dockyard, revealed that the accident was due to the misconception of an order.

First Lieutenant Malcolm E. Wevell, who was saved from the submarine, owing to his being blown unconscious through the conning tower by the rush of air, testified that he had told Petty Officer Aske:

"I am going to put a drop of water into Nos. 2 and 3 main ballasts."

His object was to lower the submarine only far enough to allow her to use her torpedo tubes and, consequently, the hatches were left open.

Petty Officer Aske stated today that he understood the Lieutenant to say: "Put some water into Nos. 2 and 3 tanks," and he had acted accordingly.

The Coroner, summing up, said if the order had been more definite and more clearly understood the accident would not have happened. He did not see that particular blame should be attributed to any one, but in future, he said, all orders should be very definitely given and understood aboard a submarine.

DIES IN THREE-STORY FALL.

Woman Who Forgot Key to Room Tried to Enter by Window Ledge.

A woman known in the apartment house where she had lived at 540 West 146th Street as Miss Jean Graham, but whose real name the police say was Patricia Gratton, was instantly killed at 3:45 yesterday afternoon, when she fell to the sidewalk from the third story window ledge of the apartment in which she lived. The police are trying to locate her relatives, who are said to live in New Brunswick, Canada.

Miss Gratton, who rented a furnished room in the apartment, returned from shopping to find she had forgotten the key to a padlock which fastened the door to her room. She climbed out on the window ledge of the bathroom window of the flat, intending to step from there upon the ledge of the window of her own room. She lost her balance. A passing motorist took her to Knickerbocker Hospital, where physicians said she had been instantly killed.

Below Freezing in the Adirondacks.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP). Below freezing temperatures during the night were reported today from several places in the Adirondack Mountain district. Throughout the mountains the mercury fell sharply, while several points reported frost. The night was the coldest of a week which has been marked by a falling thermometer.

New Bakery for Mount Vernon.

Immediate erection of a large baking plant in Mount Vernon is proposed by Dugan Brothers, who have purchased acreage at Third Avenue and Kingsbridge Road, that city. The firm has plants in Brooklyn, New York City and Newark. The new establishment will serve Westchester County.

KAMENEFF OUSTED FROM CABINET POST

CAPITALIST MOVE EXPECTED

Soviet Chief Is Believed to Favor Extension of Lenin's New Economic Policy.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 20.—Leo Kameneff has been removed from the Council of Labor and Defense, his place being taken by the Caucasian, Mikoyan, who also replaced him as Trade Commissar. Henceforth he can devote his time to a life of Lenin which he is said to be writing.

Hardly one Opposition leader now exercises more than nominal activity or plays more than a nominal part in Russian affairs. Their names are not mentioned in the press and they are apparently condemned to disappear from the stage.

The question remains: Will these men who figured so prominently in the first years of the Revolution be content to accept the negative rôles allotted to them?

It seems unlikely, but it is obvious that they cannot at present buck the Administration machine with any chance of success.

It is believed here that they are inclined to adopt guerrilla tactics: Putting forward no fixed platform, risking no mass offensive, but missing no opportunity of emphasizing the errors and shortcomings of the Administration's policy.

Having failed to justify themselves before their fellow members of the Communist Party, they hope to be justified by events. If they take such a line it may annoy the Administration considerably, but it really makes its task easier.

No impartial foreign observer of Russian affairs can fail to perceive the compromise with capitalism introduced by Lenin under the title of "Nep" (New Economic Policy). It was not a single act, but a first step in a new direction which must logically be followed by other steps in the same direction.

The opposition already is demanding that some of these steps be taken immediately, such as a large importation of foreign manufactured goods, greater facilities for foreign capital and more reasonable (that is, more capitalistic) methods for State industry and business.

The Administration is not willing to move so fast, but doubtless is not ill-pleased to see these ideas, which correspond to the growing and ultimately irresistible desire of the peasant mass for cheaper goods, being freely ventilated and made familiar to the rank and file of the Communist Party.

Lenin could and did put through the "Nep" virtually on his own. His successors lack his force and authority, but not his astuteness or common sense. The Opposition simply serves as a clear road along which they know they must travel. Probably they do not want to travel it, just as Lenin would have preferred successful communism to the "Nep." But they have learned from him that half a loaf is better than no bread.

ORTHODONTISTS ADJOURN.

Next Congress Will Be In Paris or London In 1930 or 1931.

The first Orthodontic Congress concluded its five-day session yesterday at the Hotel Commodore. Dr. William C. Fisher of New York, President, announced that the next convention would be either in London or Paris in 1930 or 1931. The present officers will continue in office for two years. Subjects under discussion yesterday included the proper age at which to begin orthodontic treatment of children. Speakers varied in declaring 6 to 7 years and 10 to 11 years the best age.

The thirteenth annual meeting of the American Academy of Periodontology also began a two-day session yesterday at the Hotel Commodore. Dr. M. H. Garvin of Winnipeg presided. Besides delegates from all parts of the United States speakers include Dr. Bernardt Gottlieb of Vienna and Dr. Gustav G. Haber of Berlin.

19 Ford Planes Reach Fort Wayne.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 20 (AP).—Nineteen airplanes in the Ford reliability tour arrived from Cleveland soon after noon. Walter Beach of Wichita, Kan., in a Travelair, was first, maintaining his lead for the $7,000 prize. L. G. Meister, piloting a Buhl-Verville, was second. R. B. Rolando of Denver, piloting an Eagle Rock plane, was in a semi-conscious condition from ptomaine poisoning when he landed. He was taken to a hospital, where it is said he would recover.

Jimmy Goodrich won decision from Rusie Leroy, eight rounds.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Johnny Dundee is the ring's "old man" in point of service and in age, but he is, too, the marvel of the ring. The doughty little Italian demonstrated this last night to the satisfaction of some 20,000 fight fans at the Jewish Community House of Bensonhurst charity boxing carnival in Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, where, despite the handicap of a broken right hand, he carried off the decision over Fred Bretonnel, French and European lightweight champion, in a dazzling ten-round bout.

Dundee's victory completed the repulse of a French invasion of the American ring. Paul Berlenbach, former world's light-heavyweight champion, knocked out François Charles, French champion, in 1 minute 9 seconds of the first round of their scheduled ten-round bout, which was billed as the main event. In another international battle, Andre Routis, French featherweight champion, upheld the honor of France when he carried off the decision over Eddie Anderson of Wyoming.

Andy Devodi, Bay Ridge welterweight youngster, outboxed Harry Ebbets, Freeport lad, in a sizzling six-round engagement which was one of the best bouts seen here in years and in an eight-round battle, Jimmy Goodrich of Buffalo, who formerly held the world's lightweight title, won the decision over Rusie Leroy, Fargo (N. D.) welterweight.

Overshadowing all else in this ring carnival for charity, however, was the performance of the marvel, Dundee. He has been in tougher fights against more formidable opposition than he encountered last night from Bretonnel, a lad whose chief claim to fame heretofore has been that he chased Dundee out of France two years ago. But never has Dundee given a more impressive, dazzling exhibition of boxing skill, ring cunning and resourcefulness than that which he delivered last night.

Surmounts All Obstacles.

Celebrating his seventeenth year in the ring, this battle-scarred gladiator whose friends and admirers are legion, overcame not alone the handicap of a broken hand, but as well the advantages Bretonnel enjoyed in youth, reach, height and weight. Dundee overcame all these obstacles and came through to victory as only a Dundee can.

Dundee shattered the myth that he left France two years ago in fear of Bretonnel by beating the French lad with one hand. But it was a costly victory for the veteran. With tickets bought, reservations made and his trunks packed and ready for the journey, Dundee, with his manager, Joe Jacobs, was scheduled to leave this city this afternoon for California and a battle there on Sept. 7 against Tod Morgan for the junior lightweight title.

But this trip now probably will have to be postponed, if not abandoned. Manager Jacobs announced, after the fight that he would not know definitely if the trip could be made until he learns today the extent of Dundee's injury. He indicated, however, that Dundee's injury was serious.

Judges Tom Flynn and Herman Kahn, with Referee Joe Morris of Binghamton, voted the decision to Dundee, and their vote must have been unanimous for Dundee carried off seven of the ten rounds. In only the third, fourth and fifth sessions did Bretonnel show to advantage. In these rounds the French battler subjected the veteran to a withering fire and for a time it looked as if Dundee had run afoul a Tartar.

Appears the Dundee of Old.

But in every other session Dundee was the master and none could dispute it. He brought into play all the ring lore at his command. He bounded off the ropes like the old Dundee, leaped into the air with jab hooks of the left, ducked unconcernedly under vicious drives of Bretonnel to the head and came up smiling across the ring as the crowd roared its approval.

Dundee took the first two rounds because he outboxed Bretonnel when the Italian veteran had two good hands. He withstood Bretonnel's heavy digs of the right and left to the body and at long range made the French lad appear like a novice.

But in the third round came the turn which for a time seemed to be charged with defeat for Dundee. In an exciting exchange Dundee, flat-footed and with all the weight of his body back of the blow, drove home a right to the jaw in a solid smash. The brittle bones of the veteran's right hand crumpled under the drive and thereafter the hand was useless. Dundee didn't use it once.

Through the rest of the third round he was battered rather freely under Bretonnel's rights and lefts and it was the same in the fourth and fifth rounds.

Dundee Calls on Reserve.

With the sixth, however, Dundee began to bring into play some of the wonderful ring tactics he has learned in his seventeen years of action and the fight took on a different aspect. Hooking and jabbing with his left, and clinching after each blow when the opportunity offered, Dundee blinded his rival in a steady fire and brought the blood in a stream from Bretonnel's mouth.

Bretonel fought back viciously. He nicked Dundee repeatedly with rights which grazed the jaw and he battered the veteran savagely with both hands about the body in many hot mix-ups at close range, but this work was outshone by the brilliant long-range, one-handed boxing of Dundee. The veteran dazzled his rival and the crowd with as great an exhibition of defensive and offensive boxing as Dundee ever has furnished.

The Berlenbach-Charles affair was a farce. The French light-heavyweight never had a chance and the bout was over almost before it started. Berlenbach ripped into his rival with the opening gong, drove a right to the head and then battered his left in pile-driving punches to the body and face. Charles tried to fight back but was sick and weary before the first exchange was over.

Stalking his rival's footsteps, Berlenbach forced Charles across the ring under a shower of lefts to the body and then with one crushing left which grazed the jaw sent Charles down for a count of seven. Arising, Charles was met by another fusillade of lefts and again he went down for a count of seven.

Charles Battered Helpless.

Berlenbach battered Charles across the ring and pelted home blows until Charles, helpless and crushed, started to slip to the floor. Then Referee Patsy Haley stepped between the pair, pushed Berlenbach away and stooping, helped assist the fallen Frenchman to his feet.

The victory of Routis over Anderson was the triumph of a dogged, courageous little fellow over a boxer who took his task too lightly. The French champion crowded Anderson all over the ring and revealed himself an aggressive and strong fighter whose forte is to get close and work both hands in the style which was characteristic of Pete Herman. Anderson, on the other hand, fought only in fitful spurts, and the crowd cheered the decision for Routis to the echo.

Devodi's superior boxing gave him an advantage which Ebbets could not overcome in the six-round feature, and the Bay Ridge lad was clearly entitled to the decision at the finish. Goodrich was forced to extend himself to win the decision over Leroy, who substituted for Sammy Vogel, but the former lightweight champion deservedly received the award after a bitterly contested battle.

MITCHELL IS VICTOR ON A FOUL BY WARD

Hit Low After One Minute of Fighting in Second Round at Boyle's Thirty Acres.

The Georgie Ward-Pinky Mitchell feature bout at Boyle's Thirty Acres last night ended in the second round when Mitchell fell unconscious to the canvas. Physicians who entered the ring to examine Mitchell stated that there was evidence of a low blow and that the Milwaukee boxer was unable to continue. Ward was leading Mitchell up to that time.

Ward had previously stunned Mitchell with a right hand punch midway in the first round and scored a knockdown.

After a little more than a minute of fighting in the second Ward led with his left and hit Mitchell low. Pinky fell to his knees and rolled over on his back. After remaining in the ring for about five minutes Mitchell was carried to his dressing room by his seconds.

Referee Jack Masterley held that Ward's low blow was unintentional. Ward weighed in at 141½, while Mitchell tipped the beam at 142.

Al Winkler, Philadelphia lightweight, had an edge in ten rounds with Benny Cross of New Jersey in the semi-final. Winkler's more aggressive tactics and heavier punching gave him the advantage.

Winkler substituted for Mike Dundee, who was scheduled to meet Cross. It was announced that too great a difference in weight existed between Cross and Dundee to stage the bout. Winkler weighed 133, while Cross weighed 131.

Al Morosky of Elizabeth put a quick ending to his scheduled six-round bout with Walter Case of Brooklyn by knocking out his opponent after about two minutes of fighting in the opening round. Marosky weighed 157, having a five-pound advantage over Case.

In the opening six-rounder, Jack McCoy of Jersey City outboxed Bobby Gentile, east side junior lightweight. McCoy weighed 126 pounds and Gentile 130½.

Despite a good finish Pancho Dencio, Filipino, was unable to overcome the early lead of Eddie O'Dowd of Jersey in the first ten-rounder. Both boxers weighed in at 122.

RATNER OUTPOINTS NUGENT

Marciente Beats Traube, Schmidt Stops Brennon at Long Beach.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BEACH, L. I., Aug. 20.—A crowd of close to 3,000 boxing enthusiasts saw Augie Ratner of Freeport carry off the decision over Eddie Nugent of Long Beach in the arena here tonight. Each man tipped the scales at 160 pounds, and they tore into each other at the start, sustaining their attacks well. There were no knockdowns, but the bout was inte esting and kept the spectators in a high pitch of excitement throughout.

In the semi-final, also at six rounds, Joe Marciente of Long Beach, 114 pounds, won the decision from Harry Traube, 115, also of Long Beach. This was another close battle, but the victor gained a slight edge during the last two rounds. In the opener, scheduled for four rounds, Sammy Schmidt, 158, Brooklyn, knocked out Al Brennon, 152, Valley Stream, in the third stanza.

In other six rounders Mickey McGowan, Montreal, 122, defeated Al Liebowitz, 122, Brooklyn, decision; Sammy Marco, Detroit, 140, outpointed Bobby Robideau, Philadelphia, 138, and Arthur De Champlain, 126, New York, won the decision from Arthur De Moskowitz, 118, of the Bronx.

COURTNEY WINS BOUT.

Outpoints McLaughlin at Long Branch—Wills in Exhibition.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 20.—Georgie Courtney, Oklahoma, weighing 164, defeated Vic McLaughlin, New York, 165, in the ten-round final of the Ocean View A. A. benefit card here tonight for the Jewish Orphans of Oakhurst. Courtney had the better of the going throughout a slow and uninteresting bout.

Another ten-rounder furnished the best fighting of the evening when Allentown Johnny Leonard, 129, gave Ruby Stein of Brooklyn, 134, a boxing lesson after sustaining a cut over the nose in the opening round. Jack Kernan, Long Branch, had a slight edge over Eddie Burnbrook, Baltimore, in another ten-rounder. Kernan weighed 147½ and Burnbrook, 146. Kid Karslick, Perth Amboy, 150, knocked out Knockout Mandell, Newark, 148, in the second round of a scheduled six-round clash, while Tommy Muslin, Newark, 150½, finished Lew Clark, Elizabeth, 145, in the first round of the opening four-rounder.

Harry Wills and his sparring partner Jeff Clark boxed four two-minute exhibition rounds. Joe Lazarus and Mike Ballerino also appeared in an exhibition.

BIG BOUT FACES NEW COURT ACTION

Corbett's Attorney Declares He May Seek Injunction in Philadelphia.

CLAIMS PRIOR RIGHTS

Rickard Announces Top Price Will Be $27.50—Special Trains Arranged.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20 (AP).—Tex Rickard's so-called orthaned heavyweight bout between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, transferred from New York to Philadelphia because of licensing difficulties, faced possible legal proceedings here tonight.

First, John H. McDevitt, counsel for James J. Corbett, former world's champion, declared he would advise his client to ask an injunction restraining Rickard from putting on the fight here on the ground that Corbett had prior claims to the contest here.

Second, Taylor and Gunnis, local boxing promoters, presented to Mayor Kendrick through an attorney, their claims of a contract of agreement with Sesquicentennial officials giving them the right to stage boxing bouts at the Municipal Stadium and protesting that they have no hand in promoting the title contest.

Advice on Injunction.

McDevitt said that Corbett would be here next Tuesday and that he would advise him to seek an injunction restraining the Sesqui officials from permitting any one but Corbett from conducting a heavyweight championship contest.

He declared that Corbett told him last Winter of a plan to have international bouts in the Municipal Stadium, one of which would be a heavyweight battle for the championship of the world. The lawyer said he later saw Dempsey and asked if he would consider a fight with Harry Wills here and received an affirmative answer. McDevitt said he next saw William Abrahams, then Director of Concessions at the Sesqui, and Colonel Collier, then Director General, and obtained their approval of the plan.

Despite this attitude of McDevitt, Sesqui officials pointed out that no contracts were signed, and they believe the obstaclecan be easily overcome.

Mayor Kendrick talked with the attorney for Taylor and Gunnis late today, and also discussed the matter with E. L. Austin, Director General of the Sesqui, and Frank Wiener, Chairman of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission. It was said a statement might be given out tomorrow.

It is understood that Taylor and Gunnis do not intend to throw any legal obstacles in the pathway of the battle, but that they feel some compensation should be given them for expense incurred in seeking Dempsey's services in a proposed Dempsey-Wills fight which they sought to put on at the stadium.

Top Price Is Put at $27.50.

The maximum admission charge for the Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney world's heavyweight title struggle in Philadelphia on Sept. 23 will be $27.50, instead of $30 originally planned by Promoter Tex Rickard. This was established yesterday when the promoter issued a form letter on the ticket reservations. The minimum charge will be $3.30 for admission. The lowest reserved seat ticket charge will be $5.50. The scale for reserved seats follows: $5.50, $7.70, $11, $16.50, $22 and $27.50 including tax.

It was learned yesterday that Rickard had completed arrangements for special train service between this city and Philadelphia on the day of the bout. Special trains to be known as "Tex Rickard Specials" will leave the Pennsylvania Station here every two minutes between 5 and 6 o'clock, Daylight Saving Time, and will make the trip direct to the Sesquicentennial Stadium, where the fight is to be held. The round-trip fare for these specials is to be $4.50, and prospective spectators have been requested to make their reservations at Madison Square Garden.

McTIGUE IN RING TONIGHT.

Meets King Solomon at Queensboro Stadium for Twelve Rounds.

Mike McTigue, former world's light-heavyweight champion, and King Solomon, Panama heavyweight, will clash tonight in the main twelve-round bout at the Queensboro Stadium, Long Island City. This contest originally was scheduled for last Tuesday night, but was postponed because of rain. Tickets purchased for Tuesday will be honored this evening.

In the ten-round semi-final Knute Hansen, Minnesota Dane, will tackle Quintin Romero-Rojah, Chilean heavyweight. Johnny Grosso, Mount Vernon heavyweight, and Sergeant Jack Adams are slated for eight rounds.

Sandy Seifert, Pittsburgh heavyweight, and Billy Vidabeck of Bayonne will be rivals tonight in the main six-round bout at the Ridgewood Grove S. C., Brooklyn. In the six-round semi-final Jack Horner, St. Louis welterweight, and Milton Weiss, Harlem lad, will furnish the action.

McCANN WINS DECISION.

Outpoints August Ferdinand at Canarsie—Levy Beats Joe Ferdinand.

Mickey McCann, 138 pounds, Brooklyn Union Gas Company, won the decision over August Ferdinand of the Salem-Crescent A. C. in the feature bout of a series of amateur three-round clashes at the Golden City A. C., Canarsie, last night.

Harry Levy, 115, of the Newark Gym, defeated Joe Ferdinand of the Salem-Crescent A. C. Canada Lee, 138, Salem-Crescent A. C., knocked out Abe Ladner, Amos A. C., in 2 minutes 50 seconds of the first round.

BABY NAT V IS VICTOR.

Wins Speedboat Honors of the Adirondacks—Mechanic Is Upset.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP).—Baby Nat V, hydroplane owned by Edmund A. Guggenheimer of New York, won the Adirondack speed boat championship today in the feature race in a regatta in Ampersand Bay, lower Saranac Lake. The regatta was conducted by the Saranac Lake Boat and Waterways Club.

In the race in which Baby Nat V won the championship Harry Duso mechanic in the Hoodoo, owned by Charles J. Swain of Philadelphia, was thrown into the water when the craft took a turn at such high speed that it almost capsized. Duso was taken into the Muguet II, driven by Commodore Harris.

Coronach Is Favored to Win St. Leger Stakes at Doncaster

LONDON, Aug. 20 (AP).—Coronach, the giant chestnut colt that won the Derby, rules a strong favorite for the St. Leger, the race that will be run at Doncaster on Wednesday, Sept. 8, the fifth and last of the season's turf classics. The St. Leger is regarded as the most severe test of the five. The distance is one mile, six furlongs and 132 yards and the prize is about $48,000. The race was established four years before the Derby. Lord Derby's Colorado, which won the Two Thousand Guineas and finished third in the Derby, will not run.

DEMPSEY TO TRAIN AT ATLANTIC CITY

SPEEDS UP HIS WORKOUT

Champion Feels Energetic and Adds Two Rounds to His Daily Routine.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP).—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, will leave Saratoga Lake Sunday night, where he has been training for his fight next month with Gene Tunney, and will take up new training quarters Monday in Atlantic City. Dempsey's manager, Gene Normile, announced tonight that the move to Atlantic City is at the request of Tex Rickard, promoter of the bout Sept. 23 in the Sesquicentennial Stadium at Philadelphia.

Dempsey Speeds Up Work.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Jack Dempsey's sparring partners experienced another strenuous afternoon today as the champion felt in a mood to speed up his work. He showed no mercy to any of them.

One of the victims was Jimmy Roberts, Greenwich Village middleweight, who has been unmercifully beaten on previous occasions during the past few days, but who apparently is courageous enough to come back for more. Roberts is not clever or fast enough to keep out of the champion's way as are Saxon, Brown and some of the other boys in the camp and as a result he comes in for a terrible beating nearly every day. This afternoon he was knocked down twice and stood practically helpless when the champion rushed him again and he was carried away.

Another sufferer this afternoon was Joe Kurp, a better man than Roberts but one who has taken plenty of punishment. Apparently Kurp had been instructed to work for Dempsey's body for when he stuck his glove against the point of the champion's chin, he uttered an audible expression of apology. Dempsey said nothing, but started a tattoo of blows on Kurp's face which cut him up considerably and had him practically out at the bell.

Boxes Two More Rounds.

Dempsey increased his ring work to seven rounds today, two more than he had done any day heretofore, and he got in the same amount of calesthenics and exercise with the bag and pulleys. He seemed anxious to work and when Jerry Lavadis, his trainer, called him from the ring after the sixth round he said: "No, no. Another round." It was then that Roberts entered the picture.

Nearly all of the champion's work today was with little men, the only heavyweight put in against him being Bill Tate, the negro, who was first in the ring. Tate reached Dempsey's face many times but the champion was able to break through the big negro's long reach by rushes and get in telling body blows.

Jimmy Brown and Johnny Saxon also gave him a fast round each without visible damage to themselves, while Frankie Garcia, a featherweight from the Pacific Coast, and Johnny Martone, another little man, kept him dancing around in good shape to avoid their punches. Martone is a new arrival.

There were reports that another process server was hovering in the vicinity of the camp today but he did not reach the champion and his mission was not ascertained.

TUNNEY KEEPS BUSY WITH USUAL TRAINING

Challenger Punches Bag and Works Out With Vidabeck—New Site for Camp Undecided.

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP).—Gene Tunney pursued the usual even tenor of his ways in training camp at Lake Pleasant today, with his regular round of training stunts and customary jaunt to the woods with a book for a quiet bit of reading.

There is no hint about the camp here yet as to the probable place for future training. In view of the change of the scene of the bout from New York to Philadelphia it is understood it will probably be several days before the camp packs up.

Punching the bag and shadow boxing consumed the early part of the challenger's training program today. Then he went through four or five fast rounds with Bill Vidabeck, his New Jersey heavyweight sparring partner. It was a good fast set-to and furnished a lot of exercise for the aspiring champion.

The group of sparring partners will be added to tomorrow by the return of Bud Gorman, Summit (N. J.) heavyweight. Johnny Grosso of New York is expected Sunday.

La Barba to Box Newsboy Brown.

ARCHERY TITLE WON BY TOURNEY NOVICE

S. F. Spencer Scores 2,474 to 2,446 Made by Dr. Crouch, 1925 Champion.

MISS SMITH WINS AGAIN

Takes Women's Honors Sixth Time in Succession at National Championship Meet.

BRYN MAWR, Pa. Aug. 20 (AP).—S. F. Spencer, a newcomer in tournament competition, today won the men's archery championship of the United States with a total score of 2,474 for the four rounds. Dr. P. W. Crouch, Newton, Mass., 1925 champion, finished second with 2,446 points, and A. L. Brush, Cos Cob, Conn., third with 2,340.

Miss Dorothy D. Smith, Newton, Mass., easily captured the women's title with 1,750 for the four rounds. It was the sixth time she has won the championship. Her nearest competitor, Miss Virginia Fitzmaurice of Chicago, was 418 points behind with a score of 1,332. Mrs. Philip Rounsevelle, Pinehurst, N. C., finished third with 1,328.

Spencer's handling of the bow and arrow was considered remarkable in view of the fact that he had driven across the country from the Pacific Coast in less than nine days and entered the tournament without preliminary practice. The long journey appeared not to affect him in the least, for he was composed and drew as steady a bow as any of the contestants. Taking the lead over the defending champion at the end of the second day's shooting Spencer was never headed.

The tournament was held at the Bryn Mawr Polo Field.

HANAUER CAPTURES STATE CHESS TITLE

Victory Over Searle in Final Round Gives C. C. N. Y. Youth First Prize at Rome.

Special to The New York Times.

ROME, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Milton Hanauer of New York City, 18 years of age, who was graduated from City College of New York in the last term and is affiliated with the Marshall Chess Club, today won the championship tournament at the annual meeting of the New York State Chess Association which was concluded at the Rome Y. M. C. A., today.

The young intercollegiate star finished with a total score of 5—2, representing four wins, two draws and one loss to Erling Tholfsen of Brooklyn, also a former City College player. This game was adjourned from the sixth round and won by Tholfsen upon resumption. In the last round Hanauer won on the time limit from D. F. Searle of Rome, President of the State organization, when the latter had fair winning chances.

Tholfsen captured the second prize with a score of 4½—1½. He was defeated in the seventh round by H. Helms, last year's champion. Thereupon Tholfsen sat down with R. L. Guckemus of Utica to finish their adjourned game. A victory would have enabled the Brooklyn player to tie Hanauer for the title. Guckemus, however, held tight and drew the game.

Helms won the third prize with 4—3. There was a triple tie for fourth place among E. B. Adams, Brooklyn, H. W. Thomas of Johnson, Vt., and Guckemus.

Charles Broughton, Secretary of the Staten Island Chess Club, emerged as winner of the general tournament. He, like Hanauer in the championship, lost only one game, his last one to Warren A. Lyon, Assistant Professor of Mathematics at the University of Syracuse. Broughton drew one game with A. Peetz of Utica and won the other four. Lyon tied for the second and third prizes with George N. Cheney of Syracuse, both scoring 4—2.

The final standings follow:

STATE CHAMPIONSHIP.

	Won.	Lost.		Won.	Lost.
Hanauer	5	2	Guckemus	3½	3½
Tholfsen	4½	2½	Thomas	3½	3½
Helms	4	3	Lyon	3	4
Adams	3½	3½	Searle	1	6

GENERAL TOURNAMENT.

	Won.	Lost.		Won.	Lost.
Broughton	4½	1½	Watson	2	4
Cheney	4	2	Weber	2	4
Lyon	4	2	Peetz	1	5
L. Guckemus	3½	2½

MRS. HITE DEFEATS MRS. STEVENS, 1 UP

Wins Ten-Hole Final at Rye—Miss Jenney's 95 Takes Gross Prize.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Mrs. George Hite Jr. of Apawamis, who was runner-up for low gross honors in the opening round yesterday, was the winner here today in the final of the Women's Westchester and Fairfield County Golf Association's two-day tournament at the Apawamis Country Club. Mrs. Hite defeated Mrs. Stevens, 1 up, after ten holes of match play.

The eighteen-hole medal play handicap was won by Mrs. R. McKin with a card of 101, 15—86. Miss Marie Jenney of Hudson River, playing from scratch, won the low gross prize. Her score was 95.

The summaries:

First Eight—Mrs. Hite defeated Mrs. Stevens, 1 up (10 holes).

Second Eight—Mrs. C. M. Beacon defeated Mrs. Walker, 1 up.

Third Eight—Miss M. I. Benedict defeated Mrs. J. Butler, 2 and 1.

Fourth Eight—Mrs. J. Sterling defeated Mrs. V. Parks, 3 and 1.

18-hole Medal Play Handicap—Won by Mrs. R. McKin, 101, 15—86.

Best Gross—Miss Marie Jenney, 95, 0—95.

MRS. HUCKNALL'S 85 WINS.

Takes Jersey Women's One-Day Golf Play—All Others Over 100.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Aug. 20.—Mrs. Thomas Hucknall was the winner on the Upper Montclair Country Club links today in an eighteen-hole medal play tournament held by the Women's New Jersey Golf Association. Mrs. Hucknall, who retains her membership in the Jersey organization though she is now a resident of Connecticut, turned in an excellent 87—2—85 for the lengthened course.

Mrs. Hucknall was the only one to break 100.

Mrs. Thomas Hucknall, Forest Hills, 87—2—85; Mrs. E. H. Callanan, Montclair, 108—12—96; Mrs. D. L. Moore, Essex Fells, 110—12—98; Mrs. J. C. Barclay, Hackensack, 104—5—99.

British Hope to Save Golf By Making Youths Play More

LONDON, Aug. 20 (AP).—When next American amateur golfers invade Great Britain they are likely to be met by a far stronger team of home players than that put into the field during the recent campaign, which ended so disastrously for the British. The experts point out that the greatest need of British golf just now is a more systematic method for developing young players. Get after the young players and encourage them to enter such competitions, as the last half of the season affords, is the slogan. County golfing unions are urged to select teams with a leavening of the younger element for intercounty matches, instead of continuing to keep to the old names just for old names' sake.

CITY TITLE IS WON BY MISS GOTTLIEB

She Takes Women's Golf Crown, Conquering Mrs. Macmillan, 5 and 4, in Final.

LEADS MEDALIST EARLY

Has Four-Hole Margin on First Half of 36-Hole Match Over Van Cortlandt Park Links.

After taking the medal and defeating all opposition in the preliminary rounds, Mrs. Sallie Macmillan of Olinville fell down badly in the finals yesterday and lost to Miss Beatrice Gottlieb by 5 and 4 after two rounds of play over the Van Cortlandt Park links for the women's municipal golf championship. At the end of the first eighteen holes, Miss Gottlieb was 4 up and had little difficulty in holding her more experienced opponent in the afternoon round.

Mrs. Macmillan won the twelfth and thirteenth of the morning round to square the match, but upon reaching the hill holes her troubles began. She lost the next four and was at a big disadvantage in the second round of play. At the twenty-sixth hole, Miss Gottlieb had run the score to 7 up, her largest lead of the match.

Mrs. Macmillan made a game attempt to win after the turn of the second eighteen, when she was 6 down as the result of winning the twenty-seventh, 5 to 6. She lost the next, but won three holes in a row, only to allow Miss Gottlieb to win the thirty-second, where the match ended.

Their cards:

Miss Mabel Guilford of the New York Golf Club won the final in the beaten eight division from Mrs. Betty Burnside of Olinville by 4 and 3.

M'NAMARA CAPTURES BIKE CROWN IN UPSET

Outrides Horder and Piani in Final at N. Y. Velodrome to Take Mile National Title.

Reggie McNamara, iron man and stellar six-day bicycle rider, pulled the surprise of the season at the New York Velodrome last night before a crowd of 15,000 fans when he won the one-mile national championship race, the sixteenth of a series of twenty-four to decide the bicycle championship of America, by defeating Harris Horder of Australia and Orlando Piani of Italy. Pete Van Kempen won the heat to decide fourth place, beating out Alois Degraeves and Fred Spencer.

The night was replete with upsets, the first coming when McNamara shut out Cecil Walker and Freddie Spencer in his semi-final. McNamara turned the trick by taking a flier and outraced Walker and Spencer to the tape, neither being able to catch him.

McNamara won the final from Horder and Piani in the same way.

The championship score now stands as follows: Bill Spencer, 31; Arthur Spencer, 27; Cecil Walker, 22; Harris Horder, 14; Alois Degraeves, 12; George Dempsey, 12; Orlando Piani, 11; Reggie McNamara, 5; Alex McBeath, 3; Willie Keeler, 3; Charley Winter, 1; Anthony Beckman, 1; Alfred Grenda, 1; Pete Van Kempen, 1.

The summaries:

One-mile National Championship (professional)—Won by Reggie McNamara, Newark; Harris Horder, Australia, second; Orlando Piani, Italy, third; Pete Van Kempen, Holland, fourth. Time—2:42 3-5. Last eighth-mile—0:14. Time of heat to decide fourth place—4:36 3-5. Last eighth-mile—0:12 1-5.

TYPHOON SCORES DOUBLE

Captures Hayes Trophy and Also Niagara IV Cup for Sloops—Amorilla Takes Prize for Schooners.

By SEABURY LAWRENCE.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 20.—Racing in brilliant form over a gorgeously blue sea, Harry Payne Whitney's schooner Vanitie today won the King's Cup, blue ribbon of American yacht racing, in what the horsemen would call a common canter. Leading practically over the entire course of thirty miles, Vanitie never was seriously threatened by any of the other starters and came home to a runaway victory. As is the usual custom, a cablegram was sent tonight to King George telling him of the result of the race.

The race was sailed in an easterly breeze that freshened toward the finish and sent the big schooners across the line at a fast clip. Horizons were sharply clear and the fleet had a perfect day for the race, especially Vanitie.

Second to finish, but dropped astern by more than five minutes, came Resolute game but outclassed under the conditions. Former Commodore Harold Vanderbilt's Vagrant, winner of the King's Cup last year, also sailing well, but hopelessly distanced by the Whitney flier, finished third, while fourth was Charles L. Harding's Wildfire, sailed by Dick Boardman.

Although she was well down the list at the finish, Carolina, the only sloop in start, was second on corrected figures. Vanitie beat Carolina by just three minutes on corrected time.

Trophies also were given for yachts too small to sail for the King's Cup. These were the James E. Hayes Trophy for the forty-footers, which was won by Typhoon, owned by Charle Smithers, and the Niagara IV Cups, one of which goes to schooners and one to sloops. Typhoon made it a double by taking the cup for sloops and Herman Livingston's Amorilla captured the schooner cup.

Eight Yachts Start in Race.

There were eight starters in the King's Cup race, seven schooners and one sloop. The only single-masted vessel that dared the issue was the fifty-footer Carolina, owned by Commodore George Nichols, which yesterday won the Astor Cup for sloops. In today's race Carolina was sailed by Junius Morgan.

The schooners to start were Vanitie, sailed by Charles Francis Adams; Resolute, sailed by her owner, E. Walter Clark; Vagrant, with former Commodore Harold S. Vanderbilt at the helm; Wildfire, sailed by Dick Boardman; Flying Cloud, sailed by her owner, Rear Commodore W. W. Aldrich; Advance, the winner of the Astor Cup for schooners yesterday, sailed alternately by Vice Commodore J. S. Lawrence and his daughter, Miss Elsie; and Lynx, the new schooner owned by Commodore Nat Ayer, sailed by her owner.

The schooner fleet included all the highlights among the American two-masters and all carried the Marconi rig with stay sails between the masts. Various styles in stay sails were on view as the schooners manoeuvred around the old yellow lightship, from the big lower stay sail carried on Vagrant to the baby sky sail on Resolute. One of the most unusual of the triangular bits of canvas was one carried on Harold Wesson's Venturer in the race for the Niagara IV Cup, which was described as a west chop stay sail.

The course was a triangular one of thirty miles, which gave the yachts a beat of ten miles to the first buoy, located four miles south, southwest of Seaconnet, on the Rhode Island shore, with the second mark at sea, ten miles southwest, a half west from the first buoy. With the wind southeast this was a broad reach, during which the yachts carried big balloon jibs and main top mast stay sails. The third leg was a close reach of ten miles on a course north by west to Brenton Reef.

As the start was made on the four-minute handicap basis, with each yacht's time taken as she crossed, there was little jockeying for position as the eight King's Cup boats went away. It was a windward start and the big schooners and the lone sloop were sent away at 11:40, all crossing on the starboard tack, with sheets flattened for the ten-mile thrash to the first mark.

Vanitie Full of Running.

Vanitie seemed to be full of running and soon jumped into the lead. Skipper Adams electing to make long starboard tacks and short port tacks along the Rhode Island shore, Resolute, Vagrant, Flying Cloud, Carolina and Wildfire followed Vanitie's lead and all got a better breeze than the Eastern sloops. Advance and Lynx, which took a chance and went off seaward for a time on the port tack. This reversed the policy followed yesterday by Commodore Lawrence on Advance and did not work out the way he thought it would.

By the time they reached the Seaconnet River Vanitie had worked out into quite a lead, footing very fast in the light seaway. She was easily outsailing Resolute, her nearest competitor, and rounded the weather mark at 1:10:25, with Resolute more than three minutes astern at that stage. The fleet was strung out and Vagrant, the third boat, did not round until 1:19:50.

As by a new rating Vanitie and Resolute were racing on practically even terms it appeared as if the former cup defender were beaten even this early in the race. Wildfire, Carolina and Flying Cloud followed Vagrant around the buoy, with Advance and Lynx dropped very far astern. After rounding the buoy the balloon jib and an enormous main topmast stay sail were broken out on Vanitie and she went bowling down the wind for the first steward mark, ten miles away.

Vanitie was footing like the proverbial "house afire" in a freshening breeze, which hauled slightly to south of east, and Resolute could do nothing with the Whitney flier off the wind. Vanitie continued to eat away from Resolute on the broad reach and picked up almost a minute on that leg, jibing around the second buoy at 2:07:14, with Resolute timed at 2:11:42. Sheets were trimmed in and they went romping away for the finish line.

Vagrant was a rather distant third at the leeward mark, although she had gained something on Resolute and almost held Vanitie off the wind. It had taken Vanitie something more than 56 minutes to cover the ten-mile leg. Wildfire was fourth to round, but was well astern of Vagrant, with Flying Cloud next, and Carolina five minutes astern. Advance and Lynx still trailed badly.

Vanitie continued to outfoot Resolute on the final ten-mile leg and romped across the finish line more than five minutes ahead of the Clark schooner, being saluted by the sirens of Corsair, Aloha and other observation yachts gathered at the finish line.

Keen Race for Other Cups.

Four of the forty-footers and one of the thirties, Lena, owned by Ogden Reid, sailed over the thirty-mile course, racing for the James E. Hayes Trophy and the Niagara IV Cups. Seven of the smaller schooners also raced for the Niagara IV Cup for schooners.

One of the best battles of the day was between the forty-footers Mistral and Typhoon on the second leg of the course. On the broad reach for the leeward mark these sloops sailed almost abeam a mile after mile, with Typhoon, sailed by Charles Smithers, forging to the front just before they turned the buoy for the home stretch. Typhoon managed to hold her lead and beat Mistral at the finish by 59 seconds after a hard race.

Lena started with the forties, but was badly distanced, Typhoon taking the Niagara IV Cup for sloops as well as the Hayes Trophy.

Amorilla, owned by Herman Livingston, was the winner of the Niagara IV Cup for schooners, defeating Rear Commodore Henry B. Plant's Clytie by 1 minute 27 seconds on corrected time. Amorilla had a long lead over the six other starters in this division.

The fleet will take part in a squadron run from Newport to Vineyard Haven tomorrow, a distance of 37½ nautical miles, for the Rear Commodore's cups.

BOWMAN GAINS FINAL; WILL FACE JOHNSON

New York Net Star Has Chance to Win Atlantic Coast Bowl Outright.

Special to The New York Times.

OCEAN CITY, N. J., Aug. 20.—Wallace F. Johnson of Philadelphia, the playing-through champion, and Herbert L. Bowman of New York, who won the title in 1923-24, will fight it out tomorrow in the final round of the fourth annual Atlantic Coast tennis championship. If Bowman should prove victorious the beautiful challenge bowl will become his permanent property. Should Johnson defeat Bowman, as he did last year, he will have won two legs on the cup.

Johnson moved into the final round today by defeating Bert Hammell of the Atlantic City High School in the fifth round, allowing Hammell only three games in two sets. He then beat Harold Lane of the Narberth Club.

Lane reached the semi-finals by eliminating Leslie Dilks of Idle Hour in the fifth round, 6–1, 6–1. Lane was at the very top of his game in this match and Dilks never had a chance.

Bowman reached the final by defeating Al Fleig in the third round, 6–3, 6–1, and eliminating Harold Colbourn, the Eastern States champion, in a brilliantly played three-set match, 6–2, 2–6, 6–2.

The summaries:

Men's Singles—M. F. Johnson defeated Bert Hammell, 6–2, 6–1; Harold Lane defeated Leslie Dilks, 6–1, 6–1; Herbert Bowman defeated Al Fleig, 6–3, 6–1; Harold Colburn defeated T. M. Bright, 6–2, 6–2.
Semi-Finals—Herbert Bowman defeated Harold Colburn, 6–2, 2–6, 6–2; W. F. Johnson defeated Harold Lane, 6–3, 6–2.
Women's Singles—Mrs. J. Geiger defeated Miss Esther Daly, 6–0, 6–4; Miss Cecelia Reigel defeated Miss Dorothy Nixon, 6–2, 6–3, 6–3; Miss Frances Krucoff defeated Mrs. Robert Herold, 6–4, 6–3; Mrs. Laura Pittenger defeated Mrs. K. T. Miller, 6–4, 8–6.
Women's Singles, Semi-Finals—Miss Reigel defeated Mrs. J. Geiger, 6–0, 7–5; Miss Krucoff defeated Miss Laura Pittenger, 6–4, 6–2.

GOLD CUP REGATTA WILL START TODAY

Fifteen Speed Boats Scheduled to Compete in Premier Motor Boat Event.

DODGE TROPHY TOMORROW

Hamersley's 'Mystery Boat" Out of Race Because of Broken Engine.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Fifteen of the country's fastest speed boats are scheduled to compete tomorrow for the premier honor of the motorboat world—the Gold Cup. The race will be run on Manhasset Bay, where it was won by Caleb Bragg's Baby Bootlegger last year. A large spectator fleet has gathered for the event and as usual trial spins have been made in so-called record times, all of which, however, await the official tests of tomorrow.

Mrs. Delphine Dodge Cromwell is scheduled to drive her boat the Nuisance. If she does it will be the first time a woman has piloted a boat in the Gold Cup race.

In addition to Baby Bootlegger, Caleb Bragg has entered Hotsy Totsy this year. He will drive this boat while John Rutherford will drive last year's winner. Horace E. Dodge has four boats entered in the event.

Sunday the Dodge trophy race will be held. In this event L. Gordon Hamersley's "mystery boat" Cigarette IV was scheduled to compete but was forced out because of a broken engine. All of the Gold Cup boats are entered in this event and besides the Cigarette two other craft will strive for the honors. These are Bragg's Rascal and Carl G. Fisher's Rowdy.

List of the Entries.

The Gold Cup entries, with owners, clubs and drivers, are:

Miss Columbia, Columbia Y. C., Columbia Y. C., H. W. Lyon.
Hotsy-Totsy, C. S. Bragg, Montauk Y. C., C. S. Bragg.
Baby Bootlegger, C. S. Bragg, Montauk Y. C., J. Rutherford.

*The Fifth Heat will be run only if necessary to decide the winner. Should more than four heats be necessary, the Race Committee shall decide the time for all subsequent heats.

The Gold Cup races will be broadcast by WRMU, 236 meters, and will be rebroadcast by WAHG on 316 meters. Broadcasting will be done from the floating marine broadcaster MU-1 which will work on the Dodge Trophy event as well as the Gold Cup heats. During the interval between races, vocal selections will be broadcast from the MU-1. A miniature piano, 36 inches high and 38 inches long, with a 66-note keyboard, will be used for the accompaniment.

Matsuyama Triumphs Twice.

Kinrey Matsuyama scored two easy victories at 18.1 balkline billiards at Dwyer's Broadway Academy yesterday. He routed Thomas Hickey, 200 to 20, in 10 innings in the afternoon, chalking up a high run of 128 to 8 for Hickey. In the evening Matsuyama disposed of J. B. Reilly, 200 to 14, playing 11 innings to his opponent's 10. The winner made a high run of 65, while Reilly ran 6.

Robbie Says He Will Not Manage Robins In 1927; Gets New Infielder, Releases Witt

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Wilbert Robinson, who has served as manager of the Brooklyn Baseball Club since 1914 and has also held the office of President for the past two years, will give up the managerial reins at the end of the present campaign, he revealed today. Uncle Robbie has come to the conclusion that holding two offices at the same time prevents him from giving his best to either.

"It is foolish for one man to try to manage a club and act as President at the same time," the rotund leader explained. "Neither job gets the best service possible, and if I am re-elected President of the Robins again next season I shall feel it my duty to the club owners, to the Brooklyn fans and to the team to give up the managership."

Robbie would not discuss the matter of who his successor would be if he retires, but it is known among those closely in touch with the affairs of the Robins that the 1927 manager will be one of three men—Zack Wheat, the veteran outfielder; Jack Fournier, hard-hitting first baseman, or Max Carey, recently acquired from the Pirates.

A peculiar contingency hinges on the appointment of any one of the trio of possibilities. It isn't likely that Fournier or Carey will be appointed manager as long as Wheat is with the club. Last year, when Wheat was appointed assistant manager, Robinson made the unconditional statement that no one but Wheat would succeed to the managership as long as Wheat wore a Brooklyn uniform. Likewise, the appointment of Carey over Fournier would be an unpopular move with the fans and players alike.

However, from what could be surmised from Uncle Robbie's remarks today, both Wheat and Fournier will be used in trades, and Carey in this way would succeed to the managership. A telegram was received from Carey today stating that he would report to the team on Monday in Pittsburgh.

Uncle Robbie returned from a sightseeing tour through the Southern cities today and announced that he has purchased third baseman Bobby Barrett of the Memphis Club. No price was announced. Announcement also was made that Whitey Witt had been unconditionally released.

Robbie said he was very much impressed with the performance of outfielder Rhees, also of Memphis, but found the Giants had bought the youngster.

TILDEN CONQUERS KYNASTON EASILY

Gains Southampton Final With Norton, Who Quickly Puts Out Chapin.

ALSO SCORES IN DOUBLES

National Champion and King Are Forced to Five Sets—White and Thalheimer Also in Final.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., Aug. 20.—William Tilden and Brian Norton will meet in the final of the forty-third Meadow Club invitation tennis tournament as a result of victories scored by both here today. Tilden and Norton were seeded first and second, respectively.

Both won easy victories. The national champion defeated Percy L. Kynaston, 6–0, 6–0, 6–4, and Norton took the measure of Alfred H. Chapin Jr., 6–4, 6–3, 6–0. A large gallery witnessed both semi-final contests, which were played under a bright sun. Both Tilden and Norton were in excellent form, and a renewal of their memorable Wimbledon meeting of 1921, when Norton almost defeated Tilden in five sets, is expected tomorrow.

The finalists in the doubles are Lewis N. White and Louis Thalheimer, and Tilden and Dr. George King. These teams were seeded first and second, respectively. White and Thalheimer went through two rounds today, defeating the Coast combination of Cranston Holman and Lionel Ogden, 6–4, 6–4, and then the third seeded team of William Johnston and Chapin, 6–3, 8–6, 7–5.

Tilden-King Hard Pressed.

Tilden and King had only one match to play, but that was a thriller. They defeated Norton and Dr. William Rosenbaum, 6–0, 7–9, 4–6, 6–0, 6–1.

Norton and Rosenbaum covered themselves with glory even before they reached the semi-final round. The men played doubles together for the first time last week and showed mediocre tennis yesterday to barely defeat Sidney Wood, who is still eligible for the boys' competition, and Richard Rayon Today, however, they rushed through the fourth seeded team of Malcolm Hill and Henry L. Johnson in straight sets at 6–2, 6–4.

In the semi-final match, Norton and Rosenbaum, after a one-sided love set to begin with, suddenly changed into roaring lions and carried Tilden and King before them for the next two sets. Norton played as if inspired, and Rosenbaum got cheer after cheer when he came off on top in exchanges with Tilden and King when they played to him as the weaker member of the combination.

Any points Norton and Rosenbaum got in the second and third sets they earned. The fourth set saw Tilden and King playing in deadly earnest, and after they got away to a 3–0 lead, Norton and Rosenbaum appeared to let the set go to try for victory in the deciding set. They were doomed to disappointment, however, for Tilden and King had much more in reserve than Norton and Rosenbaum.

Tilden and Norton had each played a singles match previously, but Norton and Rosenbaum as a team had engaged Hill and Johnston in addition. Moreover, Dr. King was entirely fresh, having engaged in no competition before the doubles.

White and Thalheimer Best.

White and Thalheimer, although pressed in the second and third sets, were clearly the superiors of Johnston and Chapin. They carried crucial points time after time and had the ability on several occasions to win the game that would have meant a set victory for Johnston and Chapin. The Texans met even the stinging forehanders of Johnston with confidence. They won at the net by perfect cooperation that nullified the work of their opponents.

Singles, Semi-final Round—William Tilden defeated Percy Kynaston, 6–0, 6–0, 6–4; Brian Norton defeated A. H. Chapin Jr., 6–4, 6–3, 6–0.
Doubles, Fourth Round—William Johnston and Chapin defeated Watson M. Washburn and Hugh C. M. Kelleher, 6–3, 6–4; Norton and Dr. William Rosenbaum defeated Malcolm T. Hill and Henry L. Johnson, 6–2, 6–4; Lewis N. White and Louis Thalheimer defeated Lionel Ogden and Cranston Holman, 6–4, 6–4. Semi-final Round—White and Thalheimer defeated Johnston and Chapin, 6–3, 8–6, 7–5; Tilden and King defeated Norton and Rosenbaum, 6–0, 7–9, 4–6, 6–0, 6–1.
Mixed Doubles, Third Round—Miss Julia Brokaw and T. McGlynn defeated Miss Beatrice Patterson and C. Rees, 6–3, 6–1; Mrs. Twining and J. Lawrence defeated Mrs T. M. Robertson and M. Liano, 7–5, 7–5; Miss Catherine Fox and Lionel Ogden defeated Miss Barbara Stoddard and W. Allison, 2–6, 6–2, 7–5; Miss Genevieve Fox and Holman defeated Miss M. Rawlings and K. Appel, 6–2, 6–2.

NEER MOVES AHEAD ON CHICAGO COURT

Beats Coggeshall After Losing First Set in Intersectional Play—Richards Idle.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20 (AP).—Phil Neer, California, defeated Harris Coggeshall, Des Moines, in the first match of the intersection tennis championship at the Town and Tennis Club this afternoon. Neer was the victim of a terrific attack in the first set, losing 6–1, but recovered to win 6–2, 6–3.

Wray Brown of St. Louis and James Davies, second member of the California squad, played eight games in the second match, when rain ended play for the day. The game count stood 5–3 in favor of Brown. The remaining matches on this afternoon's program probably will be played tomorrow morning.

A victory for the St. Louis veteran will square the match tally at one each and make the doubles play the decisive struggle for team place in the semi-finals.

In the first semi-final, Vincent Richards and Francis T. Hunter, the New York team, will face W. W. Ingraham, and Arnold Jones, a pair of able Rhode Islanders who make up the New England team.

The survivor of the California-Missouri Valley play will meet the Western Association team, Lucian Williams and George Lott Jr., of Chicago, and John Hennessey, Indianapolis.

The Simpson Cup, the tournament trophy, rests with the Western team, which drew a bye in the first round pairings.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Regardless of whether or not she succeeds to the title held by Miss Helen Wills, Miss Elizabeth Ryan of California is a player of the fibre from which champions are made. The instincts of a champion are of as important consideration as her strokes, and Miss Ryan gave full evidence yesterday that she has those instincts, as well as the strokes, as she fought her way to victory over Miss Eleanor Goss of New York in the women's national tennis championship at Forest Hills.

Not since she returned to the United States from abroad last year has the mettle of Miss Ryan been tested as it was in this match, save possibly when she lost to Kathleen McKane Godfree last year, and her victory, which put her into the semi-final round, was a greater testimonial to her championship potentialities than was her triumph over Miss Wills at Seabright.

Miss Goss, whom no one seems to have given any serious consideration as a candidate for the crown, in spite of the fact that her racquet is a bludgeon wielded with mighty swipes, was completely upsetting all calculations. Miss Ryan was fighting a losing battle, unable to gain control over her chopped drives or to plug up the gaps in her court against the varying attack of her opponent.

Trails in Second Set.

Losing the first set at 6–3 and with the score 3–1 and 30–15 against her in the second, Miss Ryan faced a serious situation, and the tournament, it seemed, the loss of its leading contender. That it was a time for concern was evidenced in the consternation of those who had predicted a victory for the Californian in summary fashion.

Out there on the court, facing the deadly back-court fire of Miss Goss and struggling to break up her net attack, Miss Ryan was as serenely confident and undisturbed as though she had the match in hand. Miss Goss might be able to break down her defense, but she could not shatter her morale and the player with the better match temperament won.

Throwing off her obsession for error-making and carrying the fight to her opponent with vicious slices that forced openings for winning volleys, Miss Ryan took the play away from Miss Goss, put her on the defensive with the unexpected fury of her counter-attack and ran through four games in a row. Miss Goss, losing confidence with each game and sensing that she was facing Miss Ryan's best tennis for the first time in the match, faltered badly in her stroking, lost depth on her lobs, which she had used with such good effect in the first set, and soon all the sting had gone out of her game.

The final set developed into a procession—a procession of drop shots interspersed with volleys that caught the New York girl yards away from the ball. The score was 3–6, 6–4, 6–0.

Miss Ryan was not the only player to encounter stiff opposition in gaining her allotted bracket. Mrs. Molla Mallory, Miss Mary K. Browne and Miss Martha Bayard, the three other semi-finalists, also had their troubles, though none of them dropped a set. Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va., fought Miss Browne to a deuce set before yielding at 7–5, 6–1, while Mrs. Charlotte Hosmer Chapin similarly carried Mrs. Mallory to twelve games in the opening set of their match, which the former champion won at 7–5, 6–0.

Miss Blake Drives Well.

Miss Bayard encountered in Miss Margaret Blake of Boston a young opponent who could hit out with stinging pace and who never showed any inclination to play safe. After winning the first set at 6–4 Miss Bayard found herself trailing at 0–2 in the second before she gained the upper hand again to take six games in a row.

One of the favorite doubles teams passed out of the competition as Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman and Miss Eleonora Sears of Boston lost to Mrs. Edna Hauselt Roeser and Miss Alice Francis. Three closely fought sets were necessary for a decision, the greater lasting powers of the young metropolitan players and Mrs. Roeser's industrious court covering deciding the issue in their favor at 6–2, 4–6, 7–5.

Miss Ryan and Miss Goss, Miss Browne and Mrs. Chapin, and Mrs. Mallory and Mrs. Benjamin E. Cole of Boston are the other semi-finalists. The doubles match will be played this afternoon following the singles semi-finals, and the final roupd in both tournaments will be held on Monday.

MIDDLEBURY, Vt., Aug. 20 (AP).—J. Snyder of Hartford, Conn., won the Vermont tennis singles championship today by defeating Fred Harris of Brattleboro in the finals, 6–1, 9–7, 6–2. Harris held two legs on the challenge cup.

Japan Wins Davis Cup Final By Beating Cuba in Doubles

MONTREAL, Aug. 20 (AP).—Japan won the American Zone Davis Cup final, rouhd here today, beating Cuba in the doubles and thus earning the right to meet France in the interzone final, the winner of which will challenge the United States for the trophy. After their victory in the opening singles yesterday, Takeichi Harada and Sekio Tawara clinched the honors for Japan this afternoon, beating Rogelio Paris and Raoul Chacon, the Cubans, 6–4, 6–3, 6–2.

MARINE CORPS WINS RIFLE TITLE AGAIN

SGT. FRENCH HIGH GUNNER

Leads Marskmen at Wakefield With 291 Out of 300—Navy Second for Team Championship.

WAKEFIELD, Mass., Aug. 20 (AP).—For the seventh consecutive time U. S. Marine Corps Team 1 today captured the Hayden All-American rifle match, emblematic of the team championship of the country. Its total score was 2,829. The high man was Sergeant A. S. French with 291 out of a possible 300. French yesterday set two new world's records in individual marksmanship.

The Hayden match, transferred to Wakefield because there will be no tournament this year at Camp Perry, Ohio, was shot in connection with the New England united services tournament here.

Other teams and their scores were the U. S. Navy team, 2,782; U. S. Marine Corps Team 2, 2,764; U. S. Navy Team B, 2,678; Massachusetts National Guard, 2,666; Massachusetts Civilian Team 2, 2,637; Massachusetts Civilian Team 1, 2,510; Massachusetts Civilian Team 3, 2,343; Boston Police Department, 2,249.

MISS WILLS HOME; NOT TO TURN PRO

Is Met at Station by Few Friends and a Delegation From Her School Sorority.

BERKELEY, Cal., Aug. 20 (AP).—Miss Helen Wills, national tennis champion, returned home today, not to face a reception as could be accorded to America's queen of the courts, but as a modest young school girl returning to her studies at the University of California. Only a few friends, her father, Dr. C. A. Wills, and a delegation of her school sorority met the racquet star at the station this afternoon.

Interviewers claimed immediate attention, and smilingly the girl acceded.

"Would she turn professional?" A fair question, and it brought a ready answer. "No, she had no intention of turning professional." She added that she had received no offers to divert her tennis ability into professional channels, but supplemented a statement made in Chicago by acknowledgment that she could hardly afford to overlook a fortune if it should drop in her lap.

Suzanne Lenglen, France's tennis wonder, who defeated Miss Wills during the latter's tour of Europe this year, came in for considerable praise. Describing her tennis as "magnificent," Helen declared that Mlle. Lenglen's professional engagement, which includes a tour of America, "should be a success from an educational standpoint whether or not it proved to be a paying venture."

Miss Helen Wills was keenly disappointed because an operation for appendicitis forced her to drop out of the national champion hips this year. However, this incident was dismissed optimistically with the words: "I expect to have a good rest this year and hope to be able to win back my title next year at Forest Hills." She said she would not play again this season.

Mrs. Payne Whitney's Dazzler Wins at Saratoga

DAZZLER NOSES OUT FLAGSTAFF AT WIRE

Outsider Rushes Up in Last Jump to Win the Senator Kavanaugh Handicap.

TROPHY FOR MRS. WHITNEY

Winner's Owner Honored in Stewards' Stand—Kermath Has Close Call in Fall From Jumper.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Joseph E. Widener, one of the stewards of the meeting of the Saratoga Association, this afternoon escorted Mrs. Payne Whitney to the stewards' stand after the running of the fifth race and there the owner of the Greentree Stable received from Senator Frederick W. Kavanaugh the handsome silver trophy emblematic of victory in the Senator Kavanaugh Handicap, which was the bright feature of the card of the nineteenth day of the Summer meeting.

Mrs. Whitney's Dazzler, five-year-old son of Whiskbroom II, gained his first victory of the year when he nosed out Le Brea Stable's veteran Flagstaff in the very last jump in the journey of a mile and a furlong.

The apprentice jockey, Arnold, squeezed Dazzler through a knothole on the rail in the last half dozen strides and just getting him up, to the discomfiture of the players and the huge delight of the oralizers, for Dazzler was the outsider in a field of eight, with hardly anybody down at the fat price of 15 to 1. Mrs. Whitney profited to the tune of $1,455, including the trophy of a value of $250.

Brilliant Day for Racing.

The day was the most brilliant of the meeting in point of the weather, with a cloudless sky and a snappy breeze which bore just a touch of Autumn chill. Another great crowd was out to witness the sport and would have been well repaid if no other race than the handicap had been on the program.

There was a spectacular fall in the steeplechase which horrified the great throng, J. J. Kermath, riding R. W. Bird's Siver Hackle, coming down at the water jump in front of the stand. It looked as though several horses jumped on the prostrate rider, who was carried off in the ambulance. It developed, however, that he had miraculously escaped serious injury.

The Lexington Stable's Prince of Bourbon was the heavily played favorite in the Senator Kavanugh Handicap, with a lot of money going down on Flagstaff, while the Salubria Stable's Florence Nightingale was backed from 15 to 1 to 7 to 1. The other contenders were well supported with the exception of the winner.

Mars Cassidy gave the field a walk-up start and got away with it beautifully right in front of the grandstand. They reached the webbing in a perfectly straight line and everybody could hear his stentorian "Come on!" as he sprang the barrier. There was the usual scramble to the first turn and Florence Nightingale had the early foot to swing in to the lead from Number 5 post position.

Dazzler Running Easily.

Prince of Bourbon and Dazzler were running easily together in back of the Man o' War filly as the field straightened out into the run down the backstretch. Possibly Johnny Callahan erred in not letting Florence Nightingale have her head and open up a commanding lead. At all events he had her under wraps and at no time was she out of danger from the pair right on her heels.

On the turn for home the whole complexion of the race changed. Sande had been laying back with Flagstaff and now he brought the veteran Broomstick gelding up into the contention. Gallantly he came to the fore, gaining with every stride until he was out in front, and the great multitude packed along the rail set up the old familiar cry of "Sande. Come on, you Sande!"

Sande came on and he looked to be the winner to his followers; but he was reckoning without the youthful audacity of little Arnold. Dazzler, after the filly and Prince of Bourbon had been raced into defeat, came on with a rush. He was pounding down the stretch right on the heels of Flagstaff, but Arnold evidently was in a quandary. To go to the outside he was in imminent danger of being shuffled back.

On the inside there was only the eye of a needle. When Flagstaff eased out a mere trifle Arnold made up his mind. He shot Dazzler in between Flagstaff and the rail, and while Sande was watching Cloudland over his right shoulder, Dazzler shot up to him, and in the last nod dropped his nose down in front.

While the twenty-fourth running of the Mohawk. Claiming Stakes for the three-year-olds was the stake feature of the afternoon and had the place of honor on the card, it attracted little interest. Scratches cut the field to three, of which the Sagamore Stable's French-bred Montferrat was the odds-on favorite.

Montferrat went into the lead after leaving the chute, with the others within striking distance. Both moved up with the leader on the final turn, and in the run home Endor drew out to win easily going away, while Mayne droppec back.

RECORD SALE AT DEAUVILLE.

Eid of 600,000 Francs Takes French-Bred Colt by Sardanapale.

DEAUVILLE, France, Aug. 30 (AP).—Racing people here for the Summer meeting and the annual yearling sales are discussing this morning the record price paid for a colt in France, 600,000 francs, bid by Count de Rivaud for Balmoral, by Rothschild's celebrated stallion Sardanapale, out of La Bahia.

There was lively bidding for the promising youngster, and a South American offered half a million, but Rivaud topped the bid to keep the colt in France.

The former record price for a colt was 450,000 francs, paid by J. E. Widener of Philadelphia for Winnipeg, by Rabelais, out of Whydah. The sales will end on Sunday.

Yankees Conquer the Browns; Giants Lose to Cards; Robins Win 5-Inning Game

ERRORS HELP YANKS DEFEAT BROWNS, 10-4

Five Misplays Factors in Leaders' Easy Triumph on Boys' Day at the Stadium.

JONES AND BALLOU FAIL

Both Starting Pitchers Forced Out in Fourth—Ruth-Coached Team Loses to Everlast.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

As an afterthought to Boys' Day at the Stadium yesterday the Yankees played the St. Louis Browns and won by something like 10 to 4. Boys will be boys, and the Yanks couldn't resist the temptation to play a prank on the opposition and gain a game and a half on the Athletics, who took two where it hurts. The lead is now nine and a half games.

The Browns fell in with the spirit of the occasion and played like a troupe of eighth-grade students. Nearly every day is Boys' Day for the Browns when they face the Yankees.

The Browns' juvenile coltishness took the form of five horrible errors. Bing Miller suddenly sprouted five thumbs on each hand. He dropped one fly and a few minutes after he had picked the ball up and attempted to throw it over the grandstand. The best he could do was the second tier.

Win Ballou, the first of three St. Louis pitchers, uncurled a queer throw to second base and Giard did exactly the same thing in a later inning. Just to make sure that there was nothing wrong with this picture Harry Rice muffed an easy fly of Koenig's.

After watching a few innings of the Browns' antics the entire outfield of the Everlast Boys' Club team, seated in the left field bleachers, got up and walked out in a body.

Everlast Boys Triumph.

The Everlast boys were the Yankees of the preliminary game, which was watched by 10,000 boy guests of the Yankee management. The Everlasts handed the Boys' Club a 3–0 trimming. Jimmy Austin, coach of the Browns, managed one team and Babe Ruth the other. Ruth's team scored but three of the three runs.

Mayor James J. Walker, who was scheduled to throw out the first ball, developed a crick in his salary arm at the last minute and was detained. He failed to arrive until the league game had started, but the Mayor got a rough idea of what he had missed by watching the Browns for a few frames.

Ballou, who is playfully called Win because he rarely does, started against Squire Sam Jones in the aftermath but neither was in uniform at the finish. The Browns knocked Sam out in the first half of the fourth, and the Yanks knocked Win out in the last half of the fourth. Sam could hardly have finished his shower before Win was finishing with the faucets.

Bob Shawkey relieved Jones and the Browns did not have a look-in once Bob parked himself on the mound. Ernie Wingard took up the sour legacy of Mr. Ballou, and in the eighth Giard was rapped for three more runs, putting the Yanks into double figures.

Browns First to Score.

The fun started when Sisler walked in the first, stole second and scored on Miller's single. The hit had a bad effect on Miller. Koenig walked in the Yankee half, went to second on Paschal's out and scored on Gehrig's single to right.

Miller grabbed the ball and almost hit a lady spectator back of home plate. Gehrig took second on this grotesque heave and scored when Miller made a pretty two-base muff of Ruth's liner. Lazzeri's single admitted Babe.

The Brown's pried a run away from Jones in the third and finished the job in the fourth when they took a one-run lead. Robertson doubled, Gerber beat out an infield hit and Robertson came in when Dugan tossed past Gehrig. Sisler singled, scoring Gerber, and when Jones walked Williams he was replaced by Shawkey. Bob fanned Miller to end the inning and allowed only three hits in the next five rounds.

Now for our half of the inning. Severeid, Koenig and Paschal singled, which was the end of Brother Ballou. Gehrig said hello to Wingard with a brutal triple to left centre, putting the Yanks two ahead. Ruth crashed a single to right to make it 7-4.

Gehrig Gets Another Triple.

REDS TAME BRAVES FOR 6TH IN ROW, 5-2

Luque Lets Boston Down With 5 Scattered Hits as Mates Pound Benton Freely.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 20 (AP).—The Reds stretched their winning streak to six games by taking the first game of the Boston series today, 5 to 2. Boston yielded eleven hits in seven innings, while Luque kept the Braves' five safeties well scattered.

Pickups and Putouts

As a manager Babe Ruth turned out to be a total loss. He couldn't even worry one run out of the opposition for his boys' team at the Stadium yesterday.

Babe sent his star battery of Maday and Hanulak against the Everlast team, but Maday was yanked by Boss Ruth in favor of Marks. A lad named Wolfe wielded the whitewash brush for the Everlasts and Schmitt did the catching.

Ormsby, the American League umpire, worked behind the plate and Hildebrand called them on the bases.

The good Squire Jones was piqued when Huggins recalled him in the fourth and showed his irritation by slamming the ball into Severeid's glove.

Gehrig wrapped two triples around a single to make a good day's work. Bing Miller was also potent with two doubles and a single.

Meusel took off his wraps in the eighth and made a stunning catch of Rice's foul near the stand.

In addition to making two errors Miller fell asleep at second in the third and was caught by Jones and Koenig.

GIANTS AGAIN SLIP, LOSE TO CARDS, 6-2

Fail to Hold Lead When Fitzsimmons Falters in Fourth and Allows 3 Runs.

VICTORS CROWD PIRATES

Now Only Tenth of a Point From the Top—McGrawmen Outhit Rivals, but Waste Chances.

By IK SHUMAN.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 20.—Fred Fitzsimmons, upon whom John McGraw relied to help rehabilitate the Giants here today in the pennant race, weakened awfully in the fourth inning, after the Giants had given him a two-run start, and the Cards pounded out a lead which eventually grew into a 6-to-2 victory.

Fitzsimmons was in good form in every inning save that fourth, when the Cards got five hits and three runs, in which a bad throw by Heinie Mueller figured. The Cards got three more runs off Chick Davies in the seventh inning on two hits, which a costly error by George Kelly helped along, and as a result of the victory they moved within a tenth of a point of the Pirates in first place.

As in the game in Chicago yesterday, the Giants got more hits than their opponents, but they were unable to come through when hits were needed to drive in runs. Twice men were left on bases prior to the Cards' half of the seventh when a single would have tied the score.

The game started as a battle between the pitchers, with the advantage in favor of Fitzsimmons, who until the fourth did not yield a single hit.

Rhem First to Slip.

Rhem gave way first in the fourth inning, which Al Tyson started by beating out a bunt to the pitcher. Travis Jackson singled immediately to centre, sending Tyson to third. Freddy Lindstrom hit a grounder to Rogers Hornsby, who forced out Jackson at second with a throw to Tommy Thevenow, but Tyson scored while Thevenow attempted a double play at first.

Here Kelly singled to right, sending Lindstrom to third. Emil Meusel was thrown out by them. Heinie Mueller hit a slow grounder to Thevenow, scoring Lindstrom, and Kelly tried to come in when Jim Bottomley dropped Thevenow's throw at first, but Bottomley's throw home caught Kelly for the third out.

The Cardinals came right back in the same inning and took the lead away from the Giants. Billy Southworth singled to centre for the Cards' first hit. Hornsby lifted a Texas Leaguer, which it seemed Tyson or Mueller should have got. Southworth went to third, and thence home as Mueller threw the ball widely into the Cards' dugout in an attempt to head off Southworth.

Hornsby took third on the play, but was caught between home and third a moment later on Frisch's throw of Lester Bell's grounder. Then, in order, Douthit, O'Farrell and Thevenow singled to right, scoring Bell and Douthit for the second and third runs. Mueller's throw to third after Thevenow singled caught O'Farrell for the third out.

Giants Renew Threats.

The Giants made threats in the sixth and seventh, but each time they were unable to produce a single to tie the score. In the sixth, with two out and Kelly and Meusel on second and first, Mueller popped to Holm. In the seventh, with Billy Terry, who had batted for Fitzsimmons, on third and Frisch on first, Jackson fanned for the third out.

And then, with Davies in the box, the Cards came to bat in the seventh and put the game safely beyond the reach of any such aggressiveness as the Giants had shown. One man was down when Chick walked O'Farrell. Kelly made one of his rare errors by fumbling Thevenow's grounder, on which he should have started a double play. This costly bobble put O'Farrell on second. Rhem forced Thevenow as O'Farrell took third, and then Holm singled and Southworth doubled, O'Farrell, Rhem and Holm coming in with three more runs.

Frisch played today despite a recurrence of the charley horse in his right leg, and the disability did not prevent his going into right field in the second inning to rob Douthit of a Texas Leaguer hit.

Lindstrom showed wonderful speed in the fifth in recovering a ball hit by Holm and knocked down by Fitzsimmons. Lindstrom caught Holm by a bare step at first.

Holm, however, had robbed Florence of a hit in the same inning by running nearly to the diamond to grab a hard-hit liner.

NO HOME RUNS HIT; SECOND TIME THIS YEAR

On First Homerless Day Only 3 Games Were Played, but 7 Were Contested Yesterday.

For the second time this season the major league baseball teams failed to hit even one home run yesterday. There were seven games played, which makes the fact of there being no homers especially noteworthy, as the first time this happened this season only three games were played.

Babe Ruth continues to set the pace in the American League with his thirty-nine circuit drives. His nearest rival is Williams of the Browns, whose total is seventeen, one more than Simmons of the Athletics and Goslin of the Senators, who have sixteen each.

In the National League, Wilson of the Cubs is first with eighteen, while Bottomley of the Cards is second with sixteenth and Southworth of the same team is third, his total being fourteen.

Decatur Receives Poor Support and Toronto Takes Second of Series by 11-2 Score.

5 INNINGS ENOUGH FOR ROBINS TO WIN

Grimes Drives In Two Runs With Double and Beats Cubs, 3-1, in Abbreviated Game.

ALSO STARS ON THE MOUND

Yields Tally in the Third, but Is Invincible Up to Time Rain Ends the Battle.

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—The Robins made runs while the sun shone today and by the strong right arm and lusty bat of Burleigh Grimes won their first game of the present road trip. It rained all morning and most of the afternoon, but in between the showers there was just time enough for five innings of baseball and the Flatbush flock slipped in an official victory over the Cubs.

The score was 3 to 1 when the rain halted hostilities and neither the pleading of the fans nor the roar of the restless Cubs was able to clear the clouds away for the battle to continue. Twice the corps of attendants started to move away the tarpaulin that was spread over the diamond as the rain relented momentarily, but these were only false starts. Finally, even the most enthusiastic Chicago supporter had to admit that the game was off.

Grimes's Eleventh Victory.

It lasted just long enough for Grimes to pitch his way to his eleventh victory of the season though his double in the fourth with two men on the bases and two out had more to do with the winning margin than did his prowess in the box.

The rain was threatening then and Burleigh thought at best to get out in front when the getting was good. The score was tied when Felix was hit by a pitched ball to start the fourth session. Bohne followed with a single, but Butler forced Felix at third with a bunt and Hargreaves was tossed out at first. Then Grimes came through with his double that would have been a triple for any one else and the two winning runs pattered over the plate.

Burleigh also drove in the Robins' first tally when with the bases filled and one out in the second he grounded to Adams. The Chicago spark-plug nipped Hargreaves at second but Burleigh moved quickly enough to first to prevent a double play and Felix crossed the plate.

Cubs Tie It Up in Third.

The Cubs tied the count in the third when Heathcote walked, stole second and scored on Wilson's single. But every other time they threatened either a double play or Grimes's enigmatic spitters came to the rescue.

The Robins always bring annoying weather to Chicago. Every time they have been here this year it has been too cold, too hot or too windy, and today it was too wet.

There were three balls and one strike on Gus Felix when the rain stopped the game. Gus had a perfect day at bat anyway, with a single and a bruise from being hit by a pitched ball.

"EXPEDITING" JUSTICE.

It sometimes seems as if efforts to cure the law's delays simply made the disease worse. Of this we have an instructive and rather melancholy example in Washington just now. When Congress was in session, the intolerably slow course of justice in the oil cases prosecuted by the Government was impressed upon many Representatives and Senators. Over two years had passed since the trials were begun and still we were in the region of appeals, demurs, interlocutory orders, arguments, rejoinders, replications, and all the rest of it. Senator WALSH of Montana introduced and helped enact a bill to hurry up the consideration of the cases. The chief feature of it was a direction to the courts so to construe the law as not to permit an appeal from an interlocutory order in criminal cases. Such an appeal was pending in the Supreme Court of the District, and it was naturally proposed that this act of Congress would at once put an end to it.

Nothing of the kind happened when the matter was brought before the court. Congress had reckoned ill by leaving out the lawyers. The attorneys for the Government, it is true, argued that the court now lacked jurisdiction of the appeal by reason of what Congress had done. But this was only the beginning of fresh trouble. Lawyers for the indicted oil men immediately interposed a plea that the Walsh act was itself unconstitutional in that it attemped to usurp judicial power. Learned briefs were submitted by the score. The prospect is, therefore, that however the court may rule, there will be an instant appeal from its decision. Then the fight will be transferred from the original oil cases to the question of the constitutionality of the Walsh act, and that may be kept up in one court or another for a long time to come. In that event the attempt to "expedite" justice will result simply in making the wheels of its chariot turn still more slowly.

The whole is fresh proof not only of the scandalous delays of justice in important cases in American courts, but of the delicacy and difficulty of the work of removing them by changing the forms of judicial procedure. It would be invidious to try to locate the blame. Doubtless it should be widely apportioned. But a good part of it manifestly rests upon the Judges who allow proceedings in court to drag out interminably, and then themselves take an unconscionable time in handing down their decisions after the arguments are ended. The entire subject is one concerning which both bench and bar should bestir themselves in order, if possible, to find effective ways of removing this reproach from the administration of justice in the United States.

AUGUST PASTORALS.

As Mr. WILLIAM HOHENZOLLERN used to say, "these are grave hours" for the Republican Party of New York. Yet it has men who, in their different ways, think they know how to live through them; and August is the time of times for great news and projects. Next week, we are told, State Chairman MORRIS and County Chairman ZOENIG will make their pilgrimage to White Pine Camp. They will tell their troubles to the President. Who should be nominated for Governor, if anybody will take the nomination? Won't Mr. COOLIDGE "suggest" a name? Won't he "advise"? Won't he illustrate and continue his policy of "hands off" by thrusting his hands into the New York Republican "mess"? Such is the August pastoral which beneficent limners paint. We thank and bless them in the name of midsummer.

The grave hours really guffaw. The Republican doleful dumps turn into patent back-action handsprings. Mr. COOLIDGE plunges in as resolutely as he has kept out. The advice is given. The happy man is named. Mr. KOENIG and Mr. MORRIS look ten years younger. Brethren, no longer shall we have to sing "Push Dem Clouds Away!" But Mr. KOENIG and Mr. MORRIS won't be any happier next week than the Independent Republican Drys are already. They know what they want. It is little enough, and as easy as rolling off a log. The Republican leaders must drop Senator WADSWORTH. If they won't, the Republican National Committee must do nothing to help him. If the Dry vetoes are overridden, CRISTMAN of Herkimer will be our next Senator.

In addition to the multitude of irreconcilable Republican Drys, Democratic Drys are flocking or about to flock in numbers beyond calculation to the irresistible CRISTMAN. This is a companion August pastoral, of even more depth and sweetness. It is worthy to rank with a more renowned work, "Milkmaid Spilling the Eggs." Yet the masterpiece of the gallery is a war painting, prized though it must be by the sunburnt sicklemen of Herkimer: "National Anti-Saloon League Invades New York." This is the picture which Mr. WADSWORTH, somewhat of a connoisseur, is said to be eager to add to his collection.

THE SENATORIAL PRIMARIES.

Amid all the hot and easy denunciation of the lavish use of money in nominating Republican Senators from Pennsylvania and Illinois, it is refreshing to listen to the calm and restrained voice of the Chairman of the Republican National Committee. Senator BUTLER so far tempers his natural indignation as to say merely that he "deplores" what was done in the two States mentioned. Whether this is on moral grounds or political, he did not state. It might well be that political consequences were uppermost in his mind, for they promise to be embarrassing. With party control in the Senate endangered, it would be no joke to have two Republican Senators elected next November refused admission by the Senate on account of corruption in the primaries in which they won their nominations.

Doubtless a majority of the Senate can keep out a member-elect without giving any reasons. His credentials may be perfectly correct in legal form, but may be set aside by the Senate under that provision of the Constitution which makes it the sole judge of elections to that body. It is presumably the fear of some such result which has led prominent Republicans in Pennsylvania and in Illinois to demand that the nominees of their party withdraw, so as to make room for some candidate without the smell of the primary fire upon his garments. It must be said that neither Representative VARE in Philadelphia nor Colonel SMITH in Chicago shows any sign of yielding to what they must think a weak and sentimental request. They have been regularly named by the party organization, and see no reason why they should retire under an irresponsible fire.

Perhaps they are looking a little further ahead than do their impetuous opponents. Suppose they should be excluded from the Senate, even if successful at the polls next November, what then? The objection is not to them personally, but only to the method of their election. Could they not go back to their States and remove that by a new election without the taint of the old one? If another Senatorial primary were ordered, it ought not to be necessary for them to spend a cent on it. They and their friends have already paid out enough to cover two contests. If, on the other hand, it should be a question of a temporary appointment by the Governor of the State, they might show that they were fully able to take care of that.

What really should give concern to the political managers is the fact that the scandal has already run far beyond the question of personalities or of the practices of two States, and has affected the popular judgment of the party that could countenance such mercenary methods. This is the thing that the Republicans have most to dread in this year's Congressional elections. Nor can there be much doubt that the prestige of the direct primary itself has been hit pretty hard. The majority of the Senators who have expressed an opinion about the primary still defend it as the best and purest organ of the popular will. Yet most of these same Senators are understood to be eager to vote to keep out both VARE and SMITH. The direct primary certainly does not seem to be justified of those two particular children.

MOTOR CASUALTIES IN NEW YORK

In January there were fifty-five fewer deaths from automobile accidents in New York State than in January, 1925." "It is encouraging to note," said Commissioner HARNETT, "that we got off to a good start in 1926. The figures for the first month of the new year prove conclusively that our campaign for safety is meeting with consistent results." But in that, unless greater care were taken by motorists and pedestrians, automobile casualties would increase during the Summer months. On Thursday the Commissioner reported for the first half of the year. Eight hundred and fifty persons had been killed by motor vehicles on the highways of New York. For the first half of 1925 the total was 800. As usual, the greatest havoc was among pedestrians. Five hundred and fifty-two were killed, and of that number 239 were children 14 years of age and under. From Jan. 1 to July 1 the injured in motor vehicle accidents were 27,251, and 15,138 of them were pedestrians. The fatalities among drivers who handled their cars so badly that collisions occurred with traffic signals, fire hydrants, poles, and even buildings, were sixty-nine. Forty-nine persons were killed in railroad crossing accidents.

Never did New York have so many miles of asphalt and concrete highways, never so many traffic policemen at crossings from one end of the State to the other. Invention has greatly improved the running and steering qualities of pleasure cars, and even heavy motor trucks are easier to handle. But the accident curve continues to rise not only in populous New York, but in nearly every part of the country. A table of fatalities in forty representative cities for 1924 and 1925 showed very few declines, and those small. The rise in casualties is due mainly, of course, to the greater use of motor vehicles, which must now be well over 20,000,000 in the United States, but the education of motorists and pedestrians has not produced the results expected. There are literally hundreds of thousands of drivers in the country who are either incompetent or reckless. If the average man or woman handled the wheel "with the feeling that the other fellow doesn't know how to drive," the accident curve might drop.

Commissioner STOECKEL of Connecticut maintains that the operation of automobiles for business or pleasure is made more hazardous by the increase of trucks carrying freight. In New Jersey it is now proposed that special roads be built for freight traffic, but the problem would be how to pay for them. What shall be the distribution of the tax? Eventually it may become necessary to diminish the number of vehicles on the highways by heavier taxation. To lessen accidents Commissioner HARNETT has urged mandatory revocations of licenses for other causes than intoxication. He advises against leniency for drivers who exceed the speed limit more than once. It is the fact that a majority of drivers frequently go faster than the law allows in the course of a day's ride. Yet few are arrested and summoned to court.

VIRGINIA DARE.

There has just been celebrated in North Carolina the anniversary of the birth of the first English child on American soil, VIRGINIA DARE. She was granddaughter of JOHN WHITE, the Governor of the ill-fated Roanoke Colony—a colony which, as THOMAS NELSON PAGE once wrote, "faded away into the mystic Land of Romance." WHITE went back to England after settling his little company of 120 souls, in order to set forth the needs of his colony. But the threatened Spanish invasion prevented his return to Roanoke until the destruction of the Spanish Armada left the sea open. Three years later, in the month of August, he found "some tracks of feeting" upon the sandy bank, some buried boxes containing books, &c., and three Roman letters "curiously carved" on a tree, C. R. O., giving a hope that the remnant of his colony, which had included seventeen women, among them the mother of VIRGINIA DARE, might be found on the neighboring island of Croatan. But WHITE was not permitted to find out, for the captain of the ship was prevented by a storm from going to Croatan.

So VIRGINIA DARE, dying an infant in all probability, has left but a name. Yet it is suggestive of the spirit of the womanhood of this new land. "What man dare, I dare," these mothers of America said. It was their patient, heroic spirit, daring to face any hardship, that bred in the pioneer descendants an individualistic quality of purpose that quails at nothing, that is ready to make experiment of new ways and that is not servile to environment. It has given America its "character," indefinable as it is. It is that, we are disposed to believe, which is enabling the United States, as Sir ESME HOWARD said at the unveiling of a monument at VIRGINIA DARE'S birthplace, to lead "the world into a new era and a better way of life." It is that which will bring to use his phrase, a "great spiritual rebirth" in the world at large. He pictured GEORGE WASHINGTON as carrying the torch of civilization into "uncharted parts of this continent," but first of all that torch burned brightly in the hands of those who bore it to these shores.

It seemed to burn for only a moment on that lonely Roanoke island and then to be quenched; but that a monument was raised shows that it is still burning, marking "a real place of pilgrimage for men of English speech from all parts of the world," and commemorating not so much the birth of VIRGINIA DARE as the significance of the coming of VIRGINIA DARE'S mother, the daughter of JOHN WHITE, the anguished founder of a colony that died in this "most plentiful, sweet, fruitful and wholesome land of all the world."

To be remembered with the mother of VIRGINIA DARE is the mother of the first child of the Pilgrim colony, PEREGRINE WHITE—the mother who became the second wife of Governor WINSLOW and the mother also of the first Governor of an American Commonwealth. And there should be mentioned, too, the mother of the Karlsefne child, born in Vinland in 1003, the very first child of European parentage born on this continent, famous not in American but in Icelandic and Scandinavian posterity, with qualities which characterize the children of pioneer mothers who remained on this continent. VIRGINIA DARE of Roanoke and Croatan, PEREGRINE WHITE of Plymouth and SNORRI KARLSEFNE of Vinland—their names will be remembered with a tender historical interest; but the name of VIRGINIA DARE, who left no descendants, is a generic name with which to christen American pioneer motherhood and the spirit we call "American."

BRITISH FILM TROUBLES.

Concern felt by the Government over the small numbers and poor quality of British films culminated in the formation of a joint trade committee. It has recently made a report of failure to reach an agreement. The Government would like to see an increase in British films screened in the United Kingdom and elsewhere; to establish the industry under British control; to encourage employment of labor at home and increase the prestige of the British name and institutions at home and abroad.

Manufacturers, renters and exhibitors were represented on the committee. A "quota" scheme was the only one of dozens suggested which came near winning united approval, but in the end it was rejected by the last named group. It provided for the obligation of renters to obtain a proportion of British films as a condition of renting foreign films, and a similar duty of exhibitors. Naturally this plan satisfied the manufacturers, who would thus be certain of disposing of their productions, and was equally acceptable to the renters, who would pass their obligation along to the exhibitors. But past failure at the box office of many British films has made the latter wary. Their lack of confidence in the home product as compared with the enormously popular foreign films, notably the American, prevents their joining in a scheme which they think contrary to their interest.

The tremendous liking for American films, not only in the United Kingdom but throughout the empire, provoked another plan. This was similar to the "Kontingent" system now operated successfully in Germany. There a ratio of one foreign film to one native film is maintained. But there is not sufficient domestic production in England to make this arrangement feasible. However, a reciprocity scheme between Great Britain and America is still regarded as highly desirable. A plan was submitted to American representatives in London, but before word was received from their principals the British exhibitors again united opposition. They have such confidence in the financial reward of showing American pictures that they are content to make blind bookings, in many cases taking the whole output of a concern without having seen one of the pictures in advance. They also fear an American monopoly of British distribution, and particularly want to avoid the definition of a "British picture."

In all these discussions it does not seem to have occurred to any one that better British films would automatically alter the situation. Some of their own movie and dramatic critics have bewailed poor direction and suggested the importation of foreign directors. If the producers protest at the expense of such an innovation, the answer must be that good direction is an investment that has paid well elsewhere. There is every reason to suppose that it would bring a good return to British producers.

TWO TONS OF HEALTH.

The most uncomfortable weather spell in years seems over and Summer will soon be gone. Yet the Association for the Improvement of the Condition of the Poor reports an even greater deficit than usual in its funds for sending overtired mothers and sickly youngsters to camps for a brief rest cure. The work has not been halted—it is work which cannot be stopped. The figures show that this year, like last, the total gain in weight of the children sent to the camps is two tons! Put thus in gross figures, it is formidable. Four thousand pounds of better boyhood! The average is about four pounds per youngster during a two weeks' stay, due primarily to good food, with plenty of "real" milk, and to cooling breezes and healthful play in the sunshine. The countryside, the air and the sun are easily enough furnished. But the food is another matter. The A. I. C. P.'s statistician has estimated that more than five tons of fresh fruits and vegetables, three tons of bread and a ton of prunes, not to mention 3,000 gallons of milk, have been consumed in order to add the four pounds to each child. When translated into current high prices, this means much money.

In sorry fact the fresh-air fund is $7,000 behind last year's schedule, and shows a total deficit for the year of $28,552. Many children and mothers will be sent out of the city during the next few weeks. Subscriptions are expected to continue to come in. But the deficit is large. Apparently many who have generously supported this work in past years have not realized this Summer's need. The seashore camp at Sea Breeze, on Staten Island, where mothers and babies can have special care, the girls' farm and the boys' camps, need help. Contributions may be sent to GEORGE BLAGDEN, Treasurer, 105 East Twenty-second Street.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Rangoon Isn't Washington.

The eagle-eyed Controller General of the Treasury has blue-pencilled an item of $11.20 for drinking water in the expense account of the American Vice Consul in Rangoon. Presumably the Controller thinks that if the water of Rangoon is good enough for the Burmese it is good enough for the American Vice Consul.

The official reason given for the Controller's action is that the use of bottled water was based only on fear of cholera, dysentery and other pernicious diseases rather than on actual proof of infection. Apprehension of such diseases makes Europeans and Americans refrain from drinking the ordinary water throughout the Far East and the tropics. It is based on the sad experience of those who have gone before them. Rarely indeed is it safe to drink the water from taps or wells in the disease-ridden countries of Asia.

Petty economies such as this do much to discourage Americans in the foreign service. They know from experience the dangers of local water. For Washington to refuse to furnish suitable water for the consulate necessarily appears to them unreasonable. Uncle Sam may save $11.20 for the moment, but it will hardly pay him if employes of the consulate drink the infected water and have to go on sick leave.

Ourselves as Others See Us.

The "shop assistants" sent to this country for a tour of observation by a London department store come as buyers here as well as sellers there. They provide an added market for grapefruit, maple syrup and cornbeef hash. They are going back to teaching Englishmen how to advertise and how to shop for everything under one roof.

Taking notes among us, they admit that they are learning much, but are not backward in saying that we have much to learn from them. American women do not know how to shop, it seems. They go to stores to find out what they want, rather than to buy what they know they need; they try on everything, and when they make a selection "do not know how to wear it properly." Fancy that from English shop girls!

American clerks are slow, it appears, but that is partly the fault of their finicky customers. Our men are worse than our women. Business men are all business; young men are not nearly so discriminating or dignified as the Londoners.

Travel and learn. Fifth Avenue can profit by a tour of the new Regent Street and both can exchange courtesies as well as criticisms.

"Resemblance" to "Mannequin."

With admirable freedom from irritation, Miss FANNIE HURST expresses nothing but sympathy for the "wronged geniuses" who complain that she steals their ideas. It is an amusing picture she draws of herself as they see her—one of the successful but "unscrupulous lady writers" who "climb their window-sills and steal manuscripts." But if Miss HURST remains cool under charges of thievery, what must be the feelings of the lady who presumably in all sincerity believes herself damaged to the extent of $600,000 by plagiarism of her story?

If her statement proves true, that "Mannequin" follows her story identically as to subject, plot, material, dialogue and structure, it is not surprising that she finds it impossible to believe that coincidence could stretch its long arm so far. Her scenario, fittingly titled "Resemblance," was of course accessible to the magazine holding the contest; so she shrewdly conjectures that certain motives prompted the attachment of a well-known name to a good story.

There have been a few successful suits for plagiarism recently. This has doubled the enthusiasm of obscure writers in trying to collect their alleged due. If the "selected and wicked writers" look upon "these poor, disturbed souls" as a "nuisance," the aggrieved must see the prosperous writers as both iniquitous and hypocritical.

Hail to Silent Riveters.

Great will be the relief of noise-racked New Yorkers if the "iron woodpeckers" can be driven out of the city and their work done by electric welding. From Washington come reports that recent tests indicate that the work now done by the fiendish riveting hammers in joining steel girders can be done as effectively and cheaply by an electrical process virtually silent.

This is almost too good to be true. To be sure, the new process can be used only on construction work. If it ever supplements the trip-hammer, there will still remain with us the cutter which is used in demolishing stone buildings and pavements and which makes a noise that is, if possible, even more penetrating than that of the "woodpeckers."

For years the din of building has appalled foreign visitors and returned Americans who have been long absent. Much of it is inevitable. The steady roar of traffic can probably never be completely quieted. To this, people become adjusted. But the nerve-mangling tap of the riveters has ever been a curse, to be endured because there is no avenue of escape. It is hated as bitterly as the dentist's drill. If silent welding can be made to take its place, a million New Yorkers will give thanks to the inventor.

PORTRAITS OF LINCOLN.

Some Additional Details of the $3,000 Artists' Competition.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial on "A Portrait of Lincoln" refers to the $3,000 appropriated by Congress for a portrait of Mr. Lincoln to be selected from competition. It states that a portrait submitted by G. P. A. Healy, an artist of some reputation, failed of selection, and in that connection Robert T. Lincoln is quoted by J. A. Truesdell as follows:

"It turned out that there was really no competition, and Healy's work never had the slightest chance of acceptance. Before the appropriation was voted by Congress, it was all cut and dried to take another artist's portrait."

There is an unfortunate error somewhere. The facts are as follows:

Congress made the appropriation. The portrait selected was by William Cogswell, a comparatively unknown artist, without connections that could have exerted an influence in the selection. The portrait was painted in Chicago, from sketches made by the artist when visiting Washington while Mr. Lincoln occupied the White House.

The artist was permitted to visit the White House and make sketches while Mr. Lincoln was attending to his customary duties. Many artists, at various times, were given the same privilege. Mr. Cogswell knew nothing about the appropriation until it was publicly announced. He sent the portrait to Washington for exhibition and entered it in the competition. Thirteen portraits were submitted. The Cogswell portrait was selected, sent to the White House and is there now. It shows Mr. Lincoln as the President. He stands full figure on the porch of the White House, his tall hat and cloak laid carelessly on a chair and in his hand a scroll. In the distance is seen the dome of the Capitol, thus associating the figure with the legislative and the executive departments of our Government, and displaying in this way the full significance of the Presidency.

A contemporary of the artist informed the writer that the other portraits submitted were of the conventional type and lacked the fine conception of Mr. Cogswell.

William E. Marshall's "Lincoln."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your editorial of Aug. 15, entitled "Portrait of Lincoln," there is no mention of William E. Marshall's well-known portrait of Mr. Lincoln. Among the many commendations received by Mr. Marshall, the late Robert T. Lincoln wrote: "I take pleasure in testifying to its excellence as a likeness. I cannot suggest any improvement."

Mr. Marshall also painted two life-size portraits of the "Great Emancipator." One is now hanging in Yale University, a gift of the late M. C. D. Borden, and the other has remained in the possession of the family of the artist. This one should be owned by the nation and hang in the Corcoran Gallery or in the White House.

William E. Marshall was a noted artist and his works in line engraving have been used as models in the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris. He engraved and painted the portraits of Grant and Sherman and of every Republican candidate for President since Lincoln. These noted works should be housed in some museum in memory of this distinguished artist, whom the late Albert P. Ryder called his master, where they could be seen and studied by art students and the general public.

Why "the Pig Woman"?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Why the constant repetition of the contumelious "pig woman," designating Mrs. Jane Gibson, the important witness for the State in the Hall-Mills case?

On her sixty-acre farm Mrs. Gibson raises wheat, corn, oats, garden truck, perhaps chickens and hogs. For four years since the crime was committed she has shown herself to be a woman of stamina and propriety as far as the reading public can see. In her testimony in court she shows as a woman of fair education and, to an impartial lawyer's mind, by her mannerism on the witness-stand emphasizes her conscientiousness and fidelity to truth. Why "pig-woman"?

OLD MOTHERS OF FRANCE.

They are so sprightly, accept life with joy,
Gay, light of fancy, so keen to romance,
Anxious all talents and gifts to employ—
Why must they sorrow, old mothers of France?

Taking their tasks with a quip and a laugh,
Shrewd in good fortune, so patient in woe,
Ready the cup of mild pleasures to quaff,
Making the most of the hours as they go!

Feeling rewarded to sit in the sun,
Chat on some quay, as they knit or they sew.
Youthful in spirit, though swift the years run,
Still stout of heart, though privations they know.

Finding their comfort in children, their pride,
Counting no sacrifice ever too great.
Murmuring prayers for those dear who have died,
Toiling and saving, both early and late.

Turning the bright side to greet a loved world,
Quickly responsive to all human claims,
Calm though the tides of disaster oft whirled,
Proving such faith as man's cowardice shames.

Shrining their country, as sacred, revered,
Sharper her hurts than the stab of a lance!
Soon may the clouds from their pathway be cleared,
Loyal, brave type—the old mothers of France!

"THE IOWA IDEA."

An Account of the Tariff Revolt of Iowa Republicans a Quarter Century Ago.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The death of Senator CUMMINS of Iowa recalls the part he played in giving voice to the protest against excesses of high protection a quarter of a century ago. In view of the present resurgence of that protest a special interest attaches to certain facts concerning the origin of "the Iowa idea," which I believe have never been published.

The Republican Party in Iowa had been founded by settlers from further east, largely followers of Henry Clay and believers in his protection policy. It was obvious that Middle West agriculture, selling its export surplus on the basis of world prices, could derive no more than indirect advantages from protection, and the Iowa Democracy persistently urged that these indirect advantages were illusory, while there were important and direct disadvantages to the farmer. Nevertheless, Iowa remained faithful to protection, though occasional Republican leaders would protest against high duties on the ground that the farmers obtained no adequate compensation for the increased cost of manufactured articles to them. Thus Senator ALLISON was a low tariff man in his early, career, and Senator James W. Grimes was at times bitter in his opposition to the policy.

On the whole, however, misgivings on the tariff did not strengthen a public man with the Iowa constituency. Other questions were the basis of insurgency in Iowa. The money question and railroads were uppermost in the hard times from 1873 to 1879, when General James B. Weaver led a revolt. He made no issue of protection. In the hard times of 1893-98 Bryan made numerous converts to free silver, but his tariff views rather repelled than attracted Republican support.

The insurgent movement led by the late Albert B. Cummins was primarily against the domination of Iowa politics by the railroads. It gained its momentum on that issue, and it was not until after CUMMINS had won the nomination for Governor in 1901 that the tariff question became prominent in it. Even then it was projected into the situation from outside the insurgent ranks. George E. Roberts, who previously had been a newspaper publisher at Fort Dodge, Iowa, but who in 1901 held the position of Director of the Mint by appointment of President McKinley, was a delegate from his home county in the Republican State Convention, held at Cedar Rapids Aug. 7, 1901. Roberts was not associated with the Cummins movement and in fact voted for George D. Perkins, who was the leading candidate against CUMMINS in that convention; but he was a tariff reformer of the moderate type, impressed with the idea that in the making of tariffs the influence of Iowa should be for moderation and restraint. His relations with both of the Iowa Senators, Allison and Dolliver, were intimate. The Tenth Congressional District had been accustomed for years to name him as its member of the convention Committee on Resolutions, and he had frequently written the platforms. He was named for membership for that committee at Cedar Rapids, and elected its Chairman. He had prepared a draft of the platform and shown it to both Allison and Dolliver before leaving Washington. He submitted it to the Resolutions Committee, and it was adopted by unanimous vote. Nobody else saw it until after it was adopted by the convention, which action likewise was without discussion.

This platform contained the declarations which Walter Wellman, staff correspondent of the Chicago Times-Herald, in his report of the proceedings, christened the "Iowa Idea." One of the resolutions was directed particularly to tariff policy and another to corporation control, the latter being just then a very live subject. The Democrats were asserting that the tariff was the "mother of trusts." The resolution on corporation control is to be read in the light of this situation. The tariff resolution reads as follows:

That we stand by the historic policy of the Republican Party in giving protection to home industries, and point for its ample vindication to the extraordinary rapidity with which our national resources have been developed and our industrial and financial independence secured. We favor such changes in the tariff from time to time as become advisable through the progress of our industries and their changing relations to the commerce of the world. We endorse the policy of reciprocity as the natural complement of protection, and urge its development as necessary to the realization of our highest commercial possibilities.

The declaration upon corporation control followed the foregoing and reads as follows:

That we assert the sovereignty of the people over all corporations and aggregations of capital and the right residing in the people to enforce such regulations, restrictions or prohibitions upon corporate management as will protect the individual and society from abuse of the power which great combinations of capital wield. We favor such amendment of the Interstate Commerce act as will more fully carry out its prohibitions of discrimination in rate making, and any modification of the tariff schedules that may be required to prevent their affording shelter to monopoly.

The last clause of the second resolution proved to have dynamite in it. Democrats said that it was an admission that the tariff was the mother of trusts, and stand-pat Republicans objected to it as placing the party on the defensive. It was a sensitive point with the party leaders. Although CUMMINS had not seen the declarations before their adoption, he promptly endorsed them without qualification, and reasserted and defended them in his campaign. His antagonists within the party, eager for any basis of attack, seized upon the "shelter to monopoly" as evidence that he was not to be trusted upon the cardinal doctrine of the Republican faith. Republican leaders generally disapproved of any linking of the tariff with the trust problem, and brought so much pressure upon President Roosevelt that he made a public declaration that the two had no relationship whatever.

In Iowa the controversy raged continuously until it ran over into the campaign of the following year, by which time the Cummins wing of the party was so worked up on the subject that, being in control of the State Convention, it proceeded to incorporate the two resolutions verbatim in the 1902 platform, just by way of rubbing them in. Obviously, this was an extraordinary endorsement, for no other language of the 1901 platform was repeated. The stand-patters regarded this as unmistakably meant for them, and one of the results was the impetuous action of the veteran David B. Henderson of Dubuque, who, though Speaker of the House of Representatives, declined a renomination to the House and retired to private life. He thought that the foundation of the temple had been undermined, and could no longer bear any responsibility for its safety.

By this act of reaffirmation the Cummins party explicitly and emphatically made the resolutions its own, although not originally responsible for them. Senator DOLLIVER afterward in public debate showed where he stood on the tariff question. Senator ALLISON'S relationship to the resolutions probably never was known, excepting to Senator DOLLIVER and Mr. ROBERTS, and they preferred not to involve the aged Senator in the controversy.

Senator DOLLIVER visited President McKINLEY at Canton shortly after the Cedar Rapids convention, and the President warmly commended the Cedar Rapids platform and said that he intended to follow a somewhat similar line in the speech which he was then preparing to be delivered at the Pan-American Exhibition in the following month. It is on record that at Buffalo he did make a notable declaration upon tariff policies, indicating that in his opinion the time had come to consider them not only with regard to domestic markets but with regard to foreign markets.

This is the history of the "Iowa Idea," never, I believe, made public before, but given out of my own knowledge as a newspaper man present at the 1901 convention and familiar with the entire controversy there begun. That controversy did not signify a revolt against the policy of protection, but the manner in which the Republicans of Iowa supported Governor CUMMINS then and afterward indicated that he gained rather than lost strength by the position which he took at that time.

Without question, the Republicans of Iowa have a very strong predisposition to protection, but they also have the feeling that they are not getting their share of the benefits. In the present agitation for farm relief, they are searching for some means to eliminate the influence of foreign prices upon their products. Here is presented the most fundamental challenge the protective system ever has had to meet. Will the United States undertake as a permanent policy to maintain a general price structure above that of the rest of the world? It means that either the industries that have been accustomed to protection must prepare for downward modifications for the benefit of consumers or they must accept measures, highly artificial in character, calculated to raise the prices of farm products above the world level, thereby increasing the cost of the common necessaries and carrying up all industrial costs, with certain obvious effects upon export business.

In Praise of Tolerance.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE NEW YORK TIMES has a talent for boldness that is unique in American journalism. Its logic cuts deeply, but so cleanly as to be almost a pleasant sensation as to the patient undergoing an operation for the removal of a life-menacing cancer. It is a paper fearlessly candid in its outspoken intolerance of any thought, word or deed that is anti-American. It is equally ingenuous in giving voice to its sympathy for the non-American within our boundaries whose holiest wish is ultimate participaton in the blessings of citizenship.

THE NEW YORK TIMES is not a Stars-and-Stripes-waving institution that caters to the applause of the emotional in a soap-box mood. It gives utterance to the soul of the nation's Constitution, perpetuating the influence of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln. It expresses the sentiment—not mere sentimentality—of lads Protestant, Catholic and Jew whose Cross of War was a death that raised them up to the heights of eternal glory where they thank God face to face for the defenders they left in such journals as THE NEW YORK TIMES. Joyce Kilmer (God rest him!), a TIMES man, is proud to be in heaven as the representative of editors who are fighting for peace with a pen mightier than the sword of the most intrepid.

Catherine the Great.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a very interesting article in the Magazine Section of THE TIMES of Aug. 8, F. W. Wilson says:

"Peter preferred to bequeath Russia to a young Livonian captive called Martha, of no family and no morals, but of an ability to reign as the Empress Catherine the Great."

Peter the Great was succeeded by his second wife, Martha Scavronsky, who reigned from 1725 to 1727 as Empress Catherine I, but she was not Catherine the Great.

Catherine the Great was not a Livonian captive, but Princess of Anhalt-Zerbst, wife of Emperor Peter III, and she reigned as Empress Catherine II, later called "the Great," from 1762 to 1796. She was born April 21, 1729, four years after the death of Peter the Great.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

At the beginning of a recent thunderstorm my maid told me that a bright ball had come through the open kitchen window and burst in the air with a loud report. She thought it was about the size of an electric bulb.

As I have never heard of any one else having had this alarming experience, it seems worth describing, and perhaps some one among your readers may care to explain the phenomenon.

GREEN ENDORSES PLATTSBURG CAMP

Labor Chief Tells Trainees Visit Makes 'Very Deep Impression' Upon Himself and Council.

WILL REASSURE WORKERS

And Convey to Doubters "a Better Understanding" of Citizens' Military Instruction.

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 20.—William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, informally placed the seal of the organization's approval upon voluntary military training of the nation's youth here today. President Green and seven members of the Executive Council are here as personal guests of Major Gen. Charles P. Summerall on an inspection of the citizens' military training camp at the invitation of Dwight F. Davis, Secretary of War.

After a colorful review of the 1,600 student infantrymen in honor of the visiting labor leaders, Mr. Green expressed his enthusiasm and indicated support of the training work. Considerable minority criticism of military training camps has been expressed at various federation conventions on the ground that they tended to influence youth along a "militaristic" trend.

Speaking from a field stand with the thirteen infantry companies of youths sitting at ease on the parade ground in front of him, President Green said:

"Speaking for myself and for my associates, the members of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, I can scarcely hope to convey in words the very deep impression made by this brief visit. We have been much interested in the great movement represented here at Plattsburg. I think I can truthfully say there has been a wrong impression prevailing in some quarters as to the work, training, purposes and objectives of the military training camps. I think the American Federation of Labor, through its organizations and its officers, can do much to acquaint the public mind with what General Summerall and his officers are doing toward the development of young men mentally, morally and physically.

"I promise that it will be our purpose to tell what we have seen and what we know as a result of our visit here. We shall go from here with a pleasant memory and a better understanding of you and your work in this citizens' military training camp. We promise you we shall go out and tell the people of what we have learned."

Stresses Camp Democracy.

"I have been thinking," he said, "of the thousands of young men working daily in the shops, mines, mills and factories of our country, and about the great opportunities here which they would be glad to embrace if permitted to know the facts.

"I have been thinking of the great democracy presented here. You young men come from all walks of life—from the work shop, the counting house and the village. What greater democracy than that, with all of you upon an equal status?

"I have been thinking about the melting pot you young men represent here. Our country is not a country of one race and one language; it has no distinctive nationality. It is a blend of all countries. And you are the offspring, and you, in connection with this work here, still further represent what we are accomplishing in this country in improving this blending. For surely you must go back home better than when you came; if I asked each one of you, I know you would bear witness that you did go home better because of the month's experience."

Says the Army Builds Men.

General Summerall in reply said in part:

"Mr. Green represents the army of industry which has made America what it is today. It is worthy and fitting that men who have risen by force of character to leadership in that great army should come to see what the army of the nation is doing. The nation's army does not build factories and skyscrapers, but builds what I call the greatest accomplishment on earth—builds men. Too many of our men have just grown. We train our lawyers. We train our skilled labor to do better with its hands, but never before have we attempted to train men for the greatest of all obligations—the obligation of citizenship.

"It has been asked why the army is given this obligation to care for. The army need only point to its history. The country owes its defense and its existence to its soldiers, who themselves represent the highest type of citizenship. The man who gives his life for his country makes its people safer and makes them prouder of their nationalism. The military code will bear the test of any philosophy or religion." • • •

Accompanying Mr. Green were the following members of the Executive Committee: Vice Presidents Frank Duffy, James P. Noonan, James Wilson, Martin F. Ryan and Daniel J. Tobin, Treasurer, and Frank Morrison, Secretary. Peter J. Brady, who is a Major in the Officers' Reserve Corps and is President of the Federation Bank and Trust Company of New York, also made the trip.

The labor leaders were entertained by the Elks Club last night and by the Rotary Club this afternoon.

BABY LEFT IN ST. PATRICK'S.

Healthy Little Girl, Well Clad, Is Taken to Foundlings' Ward.

A blue-eyed baby girl with black hair, wearing a white and pink knitted silk sweater and cap, and believed to be about three weeks old, was found in a pew in St. Patrick's Cathedral yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Frances C. Ardley of 1,637 Third Avenue, who left the child tugging at her skirt as she knelt there.

Mrs. Ardley carried the baby to the East Fifty-first Street Police Station, where an ambulance surgeon found the child in good health and well cared for. The baby's clothes were new and expensive.

Policewoman Mary Foley, a matron attached to the East Sixty-seventh Street Station, took the child to the Foundling Ward at Bellevue Hospital. The baby will remain there until claimed, or until a place is found for it in some home or institution.

Fernald Has a Restless Day.

WEST POLAND, Me., Aug. 20 (AP).—The condition of United States Senator Bert M. Fernald has shown little change in the last twenty-four hours, his physician announced tonight. The report added that he had spent "a restless day."

CLAIMANT TO MILLIONS FACES DEPORTATION

Rumanian Engineer Has Only $60 Cash—Can't Raise Bond to Stay and Seek Fortune.

Although he lays claim to Canadian mining properties "worth several million dollars" Vasile Stanescu, a Rumanian engineer, who arrived from South America three weeks ago, will probably be deported to Rio de Janeiro today on the Lamport & Holt liner Voltaire. He is unable to provide the $1,000 bond demanded by the United States Government, having only $60 with him.

On his arrival here on the Vestris on July 29 Stanescu said that the property had been left to his wife by an uncle, Nicolai Zahana, who died in Buenos Aires two years ago, but that the papers necessary to prove the bequest were in the possession of an aunt, Mrs. Josephine Ott, who is being held against her will in a sanitarium in Chicago.

He said that her son, Alexander Ott, had authorized him to look for her. When he found her he was to bring her to Bucharest, where the son resided, after which he and his wife would go to Canada to take possession of the property.

The immigration officials were not entirely convinced by his story, so they ordered him to Ellis Island. They then reported the case to Washington, where an order to attempt to find Mrs. Ott was issued. So far the search has been unsuccessful.

It was then decided to admit Stanescu for three months under a bond of $1,000, which he has been unable to furnish.

He came into the country on a pass issued by the Rumanian Consul in Rio de Janeiro. The American Consul there gave him a non-immigrant visa.

UPHOLDS CONEY 'BARKERS.'

Hirshfield Frees Three, Saying People Want to Hear Them.

The "barkers" at Coney Island are an institution and are there to stay. Such was the edict of Magistrate David I. Hirshfield in the Coney Island Court yesterday, notwithstanding the activity of the police to end "ballyhooing." In arraigning three men before the Magistrate, yesterday, the police charged them with violating a city ordinance—causing crowds to collect and obstructing traffic. Magistrate Hirshfield dismissed the case and said:

"What would Coney Island be without its barkers? For more than forty years they have been an integral part of Coney Island. Everybody who comes here wants to see and hear them. Our bright city fathers who wrote the laws did not intend that they should apply to Coney Island. The case is dismissed."

The prisoners were Thomas McNeill of 404 East 135th Street, Manhattan; Joseph Kingsley of 2,949 West Eighth Street, Coney Island, and Warren Jewell of 1,218 Surf Avenue, Coney Island. The police had served notice on all sideshows at the resort that barking no longer would be permitted. The management of the "Big Show" on Surf Avenue ignored the warning and the three arrests followed.

WILL DRAG CREEK FOR BODY

Posse Organized to Search for a Youthful Goat Tender.

SPOTTSWOOD, N. J., Aug. 20.—Manapan Creek is to be dragged again for a body, this time for that of Lawrence Rizzi, 14 years old, who has been missing since Wednesday night. Three weeks ago it was dragged in the course of the search for Joseph Hamer, an eighty-two-year-old berry picker, who has not been found yet.

Young Rizzi was a goat tender for Joseph Stanzo of Jamesburg. He took the goats to pasture on Wednesday and that night they went home without him. It was supposed the boy had gone to visit his father, Joseph Rizzi, in Kenilworth, but yesterday when he did not report for work Stanzo communicated with the father and learned that the boy had not been there. Today a posse was organized and a search of the swamp lands and the creek is to be made.

PRIVATE DETECTIVES TAKEN

Only "Out Scouting for More Ginger Ale," They Tell Court.

Edward S. Williams and Harold Meany, who said they had a private detective agency at 5 Beekman Street, Manhattan, were arrested early yesterday in Brooklyn on a charge of attempted unlawful entry. Arraigned later in the Flatbush Court, they denied the charge. Williams gave his addresses as the Hotel McAlpin, Manhattan, and 572 Prospect Place, Brooklyn and said he was a criminologist. Meany said he lived at 344 Eightieth Street, Brooklyn, and was a finger-print expert. They said they had done work for the Mayor of New Haven.

Patrolman George Rand said that at 3:30 A. M. yesterday he saw the men near a broken window in the home of Mrs. Anna Martin at 427 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, and that they fled over fences to elude him. They denied being near any broken window and being chased. They had been at a drinking party near the Martin house and had gone out "scouting for more ginger ale." They will have a hearing on next Wednesday.

BROOKLYN TEACHER KILLED

Miss Bromstein Dead and Miss Hook Hurt in Ontario Accident.

ORILLIA, Ont., Aug. 20 (AP).—Miss Elizabeth Bromstein of Brooklyn, N. Y., was killed and another woman was injured yesterday when an automobile containing five occupants swerved off the Provincial Highway near here and crashed into a telephone pole. The body of Miss Bromstein will be taken to her home after an inquest is held here.

Miss Lillian Hook, also of Brooklyn, was removed to a hospital, but her condition today was reported as not serious.

Miss Bromstein was said to have been a school teacher, as is Miss Hook.

C. C. STILLMAN'S FUNERAL TODAY

Financier's Body Arrives on the Aquitania, on Which He Died After Operation.

ILL BEFORE LEAVING PARIS

Complained of Severe Pain When He Went on Board Liner—Wished to Reach Home.

The Cunarder Aquitania arrived yesterday afternoon from Southampton via Cherbourg with the body of Charles Chauncey Stillman, financier and benefactor of Harvard University, who died in his suite on "B" deck on last Monday afternoon thirty hours after having undergone an operation for appendicitis. For a time he rallied and it was thought he might recover, but his heart was too weak. He was conscious a few minutes before he died and told his nurse that he was feeling very fit.

When Mr. Stillman boarded the Aquitania at Cherbourg on Saturday night he was suffering from acute pain and told Dr. B. Sydney Jones, senior surgeon of the ship, that he had felt it first on the previous evening at a hotel in Paris, but that he wanted to return home.

After a consultation with Dr. A. B. McGraw, who was accompanying Mr. Stillman to New York, Dr. Jones concluded that an immediate operation was necessary. It was performed by him at 10:30 A. M. on Sunday. Dr. Jones was assisted by Dr. McGraw, and Dr. A. Glen, assistant surgeon of the Aquitania, administered the anesthetic. It was a difficult operation, as Mr. Stillman weighed 240 pounds.

James A. Stillman, retired banker and brother of the late Mr. Stillman, met the Aquitania at her pier at West Thirteenth Street with another brother, Dr. Ernest Stillman. He said Mr. Stillman's death had been a great shock to the family, and added:

"He was in the best of health when I saw him last, a short time ago, and only 48 years old—far too young to die."

Mr. Stillman said the funeral services would be held this morning in the Church of the Incarnation, Thirty-fifth Street and Madison Avenue, and interment would take place at Woodlawn.

SHAM BATTLE AT PEEKSKILL

Seventy-first and Tenth Regiments Encounter Phantom Foe.

Special to The New York Times.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 20.—About 4,800 troops of the New York National Guard will participate in the movement of militiamen on Sunday at the State Military Camp here, including the arrival of the Fourteenth Infantry from Brooklyn and the departure of the Seventy-first Infantry for Manhattan and the Tenth for Albany. In addition to the Fourteenth, which will be led by Colonel Fred Baldwin, there will be about 500 troops from Long Island and 500 from Manhattan, the Bronx and Westchester County entering camp as the Twenty-seventh Division Special Troops, Twenty-seventh Division Trains and 101st Signal Battalion.

While Brig. Gen. Franklin W. Ward of Albany, Adjutant General of the State, was in camp on an inspection visit today the Seventy-first and the Tenth fought a sham battle against a phantom foe. The brigade into which the two regiments were merged for the occasion was commanded by Colonel Charles E. Walsh of Albany, commander of the Tenth. The Seventy-first was commanded by Colonel Walter A. DeLamater. The brigade may be reviewed before it breaks camp on Sunday by Brig. Gen. Merch B. Stewart, Commandant of the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Smoke bombs accidentally exploded in a guard house and officers said two privates of the Seventy-first were sprayed by the chemicals and burned slightly.

For the benefit of the brigade there was a demonstration of the firing of gas bombs by Captain Adrian St. John, United States Army instructor at the camp.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 20.—According to the newspaper Ekstrabladet this evening, King Christian is angry with the new American Minister, H. P. Dodge, owing to the fact that he several times has delayed his arrival at Copenhagen, thus forcing the King, who wished to honor him by being in the capital when he arrived, to delay his Summer vacation.

Mr. Dodge has been here three weeks, but the King is not yet willing to receive him in audience.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—State Department officials are inclined to discredit reports that H. P. Dodge, Minister to Denmark, has incurred the displeasure of King Christian by failing to keep an appointment. Mr. Dodge has just arrived at Copenhagen and doubt was expressed that he would fail in the observance of all properties.

ROBBERS GET $15,000 FURS.

Six in Bronx Kidnap Two Truckmen and Drive Off With Pelts.

Six men held up the driver of a truck loaded with raw pelts at 7 o'clock last night near Mosholu Parkway and Jerome Avenue, the Bronx, forced him and his helper into their automobile, while one of them drove away with the load of furs, said to be worth $15,000.

Anthony Moresco of 112 Maple Street, Yonkers, driver of the truck, owned by Berkowitz & Co., Inc., of Tuckahoe, told the police of the Alexander Avenue Station that the six had drawn abreast of him and with pistols drawn ordered him and Frank Smith of 41 Jefferson Place, Yonkers, off the truck. They were thrown into the Packard touring car of the robbers and told to lie quietly on the floor.

For two hours they were driven around with no idea of their whereabouts. At 9 o'clock they were left at 138th Street and Southern Boulevard. They communicated with the police and gave good descriptions of the robbers. The furs were being brought from the New York office of the Berkowitz firm at 139 West Twenty-fifth Street to Tuckahoe. A general alarm for the robbers and their car was sent out.

BRIAND MEETS ENVOYS ON TANGIER PROBLEM

Spain Is Believed to Have Put Forward a Demand for Control in Zone's Government.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—The Minister of Foreign Affairs, Aristide Briand, today interrupted his vacation in order to confer with the Spanish and Italian Ambassadors and the British Chargé d'Affaires on the problem of Tangier.

M. Briand was closeted for several hours with Señor Quinones de Leon, the Spanish envoy, who presented the official views of the Spanish Government. Señor Quinones de Leon is understood to have stated clearly that his Government was far from wishing to modify in any way the sovereignty of the Sultan of Morocco over the international zone of Tangier and would merely ask that Spain receive predominating influence in administering the port and hinterland in order to facilitate her action against the Riffians in rebellion against the Sultan's sovereignty.

In this manner Spain wishes to disprove the report that she wanted simple annexation of Tangier, the Ambassador pointing out that the Spanish Premier intended to act in full accord with the French and British Governments.

The French Consul in Tangier has wired to the Quai d'Orsay that order has at no time been disturbed in the city.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—General Primo de Rivera has followed up his recent statement in the newspapers, demanding incorporation of the Tangier zone in Spain's Moroccan protectorate, by a request, made through diplomatic channels to the British, French and Italian Governments, that they agree either to such direct incorporation or alternatively to the granting by the League of Nations to Spain of a Tangier mandate.

It is not known, says the diplomatic correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, whether Spain approached in this regard the other signatory powers to the Act of Algeciras—the United States, Holland, Belgium and Portugal.

Britain views the request in the light of how it would affect Gibraltar. Control of Tangier by any single power might constitute a menace.

Senator Fletcher Recovering.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Aug. 20 (AP).—Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida is recovering in the sanitarium here from a serious operation performed a few days ago, his physician revealed tonight. His condition has shown rapid improvement since the operation, his physician said. The nature of the Senator's illness was not disclosed.

EX-JUDGE ARCHBALD DIES AT 78 YEARS

Former Jurist of U. S. Court of Commerce Was a Native of Scranton, Pa.

WAS IMPEACHED IN 1912

Congress Investigated Charges That He Was Interested in Coal Land Litigation Before His Court.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 20 (AP).—Robert W. Archbald of this city, former Judge of the United States Court of Commerce, now defunct, died suddenly at the home of a niece in Martha's Vineyard, Mass., last night of a heart attack. He was 78 years old and a native of Scranton. His funeral will be held here next Monday.

He was graduated from Yale University in 1871. He entered a law office here soon thereafter and was admitted to the bar a year later, subsequently becoming a Judge in the County Court.

After serving in this capacity for several years he was named United States Judge for the middle district of Pennsylvania and in 1910 was appointed Judge of the United States Court of Commerce.

Charges that Judge Archbald had been concerned in influencing railroads to grant him certain favors in connection with coal lands and the settlement of cases involving coal properties resulted in his impeachment in 1912. He was removed from office by action of the United States Senate on Jan. 12, 1913.

Judge Archbald maintained that the business negotiations complained of were innocent in themselves and that he had not in any way misused his judicial powers. Shortly after his impeachment the court was abolished.

After his removal Judge Archbald returned to Scranton and resumed the practice of law, being active up to the time of his death. About a month ago he became ill and went to Massachusetts to visit a brother, James Archbald, and a niece. He collapsed on a bench last night after returning from a walk along the ocean front, and died before a physician could be summoned.

COUPLE, 82, DIE SAME DAY.

George Greer, Manufacturer, Goes First—Wife Unaware of His Death.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Aug. 20.—Less than twelve hours after George Greer, retired steel and tin plate manufacturer of New Castle, had died in a Baltimore hospital, his widow died in her home here last night without knowing of his death.

Mr. and Mrs. Greer were born here and had lived in the town all of the eighty-two years of their lives. They were married sixty-one years ago, and had been prominent in the civic and social life of the community until a few years ago.

Mr. Greer was Chairman of the Board of Directors of the La Belle Iron Works when he retired.

DIES BLEEDING FROM GUMS.

15 Physicians Fail to Stop Blood After Man Has Teeth Extracted.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 20.—Herman C. Cooper, a reporter for R. G. Dun & Co., mercantile brokers, died in a hospital here today, despite efforts of fifteen physicians to stop a hemorrhage of his gums.

The patient, who was 32 years old, went to the hospital on Aug. 9, complaining of bleeding gums. He said his trouble followed extraction of two teeth. Hospital physicians tried to stay the blood flow with every known antidote and device, but succeeded in arresting it for only a few hours at a time.

Mr. Cooper leaves a wife and a child. Burial will be at his parents' home, Nashville, Tenn.

Frank Oberrender.

Frank Oberrender, 65 years old, New York sales agent for the Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron Company, 143 Liberty Street, died at the Lenox Hill Hospital on Thursday following an operation. Mr. Oberrender lived at South Orange, N. J.

He had been sales agent for the coal and iron company for the last nineteen years and had been with the company for forty-five years. His wife and two sons, Dr. Girard Oberrender, 120 East Seventy-fifth Street, and William of East Orange, survive him.

Masonic funeral services will be held at his home Monday afternoon.

Dr. Paulina Shiff.

ROME, Aug. 20 (AP).—Dr. Paulina Shiff, the first woman in Italy to hold a professorship, died in Milan yesterday. She was one of the first champions of woman suffrage in Italy and a founder of the International Women's League. She held the Chair of German Literature at the University of Pavia for thirty-six years.

Mrs. MARY C. YANN, sister of Mme. Pauline L'Allemand, opera singer, died in Syracuse last night. Mrs. Yann was on the operatic stage many years ago, her husband, Martin L. Yann; her sister, a son and two daughters survive.

WILLIAM OWENS, VETERAN ACTOR, DIES

Prominent Shakespearian Player, Who Had Supported Many Stars, Had Been Ill a Year.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—The final curtain was rung down today for William Owens, actor of the old school, all but forgotten by the present generation of playgoers, but at one time a distinguished Shakespeare interpreter. Mr. Owens died at St. Luke's Hospital after a year's illness.

He will be remembered principally for his rôle of Shylock in support of Julia Marlowe when she made her starring tour in "The Merchant of Venice." He himself attained stardom in the leading rôle of Charles Rann Kennedy's success, "The Servant in the House."

He had played in support of Ada Rehan, Louis Morrison and Gladys Wallis (Mrs. Samuel Insull).

When the road companies fell upon lean days Mr. Owens found himself in Hollywood doing character bits for the movies. He came to Chicago from the movie capital about a year ago and until his health failed was an instructor in the Sherwood School of Music and Dramatic Art.

Born in New York in 1863, he spent his entire life in the world of makebelieve.

Funeral services will be held Monday at St. Simon's Episcopal Church and interment will be at Graceland.

REV. JOHN ACWORTH DIES IN CALIFORNIA

Assistant Minister of Church of the Heavenly Rest Succumbs to Car Injuries Suffered in June.

The Rev. John Acworth, 68 years old, assistant minister of the Church of the Heavenly Rest and Beloved Disciple, 63 East Eighty-ninth Street, died at San Jose, Cal., as a result of injuries suffered in a street accident in San Jose in June. The Rev. Acworth was crossing a street when he and his sister were run down by a trolley car. His sister died of her injuries and the Rev. Acworth had been confined to a hospital since. He had gone to California to visit relatives on his vacation.

A memorial service will be held at the parish church on Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The funeral service and burial will be at San Jose.

The Rev. Acworth was born in England, Sept. 30, 1858. He was educated for the ministry at Nashotah Theological Seminary. He came to the Church of the Beloved Disciple in 1894 and when that congregation was merged with the Church of the Heavenly Rest he remained as assistant minister.

LAMAR AND WRIGHT TELL OF STOCK DEAL

Change Their Attitude in State Inquiry and Promise to Answer Questions.

EXAMINED FOR TWO HOURS

Attorney General's Aids Refuse to Divulge Results — Market "Rigging" Is Alleged.

To avoid a public hearing, in which, it was expected by representatives of Attorney General Ottinger, developments in the recent alleged "rigging" in the market of stock of the Consolidated Distributors Corporation would be brought to the surface, David Lamar, "Wolf of Wall Street," and R. M. Wright, a member of the brokerage firm of Ayres, Wright & Co., 115 Broadway, yesterday consented to answer questions in the Attorney General's investigation.

Lamar and Wright were before the Magistrate two days before, when they declined to submit to questioning.

Deputy Attorney General W. R. Milholland told Magistrate Macrery in Tombs Court that it had been discovered that Lamar had desk room in the brokerage firm's office and that information had reached the Attorney General that the sudden dumping on the market several months ago of about 35,000 shares of the Consolidated Distributors' stock, which caused the stock to drop from about $4.50 a share to about half, had been engineered through the brokerage office. The Attorney General, he said, sought to question the two men particularly about this.

Lamar had been granted an adjournment of a week for a hearing by the Magistrate, but on the demand of Mr. Milholland Wright's hearing was set for yesterday. When Lamar and Wright appeared in court yesterday, however, their lawyers announced that they had agreed to make full statements, with the proviso that their testimony would be taken behind closed doors.

Mr. Milholland and Deputy Attorney General O. B. James agreed to this, and Lamar and Wright appeared an hour later in Mr. Ottinger's Bureau of Prevention of Frauds, at 66 Broadway. They were taken into a private office. When they came out a few hours later, Mr. James announced that the nature of the testimony would not be divulged for the present.

BENEFIT FOR POOR CANTORS

Jewish Actors' Union in Entertainment at Coney Stadium Tonight.

A benefit entertainment will be given tonight at the Coney Island Stadium, Surf Avenue and West Sixth Street, for poor and unfortunate actors, cantors and writers. Indications are that about 20,000 persons will witness the program, in the presentation of which the Jewish Actors' Union, the Jewish Writers' Club and the Jewish Cantors and Ministers' Association have cooperated.

Three hundred actors and actresses, including 100 members of the Hebrew Chorus Union, will participate in the musical program. Two hundred cantors have also consented to sing special selections. Another feature will be the appearance on the stage of the Brooklyn Wanderer Soccer Club, which has on its roster four stars of the Hakoah Soccer Club of Vienna. In case of rain the program will be presented in the stadium tomorrow night.

SAW BLADE FOUND IN COURT

A small saw blade was found on a window in the corridor leading to the prisoner's pen in Part 3 of General Sessions yesterday. Court attendants believed that a confederate had left the blade there, for one of the prisoners, in the hope the man would escape from the Tombs after sentence had been imposed on him.

William Hanna, Deputy Clerk of General Sessions, found the saw when he was making his daily inspection of the pen and its approach from the Tombs. The window is protected from the spectators' benches in the court by a heavy iron screen, but it was thought that the saw blade was shoved through one of the apertures to the sill at the close of the session of Judge Lavine's court on Thursday.

Influenza Is Epidemic in Samoa.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Symptoms of influenza have been found in an epidemic that has broken out in American Samoa, Captain H. F. Bryan, Governor of the island group, has reported to the Navy Department. The disease started Aug. 12. No deaths have occurred, but request has been made for permission to exceed medical appropriations to combat it. Fifty members of the naval personnel are affected, and the station has been quarantined. The Navy Department believes the medical staff and nurses at Tutuila will be able to control the situation.

GUY R. BOLTON SECRETLY MARRIED

Playwright and Miss Mary E. Radford of New York Wed in Baltimore.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 20.—Guy R. Bolton, playwright and writer, was secretly married in Baltimore yesterday to Miss Mary E. Radford of New York, it became known here today.

Bolton, whose home is on Long Island and whose divorce from Marguerite Namara, "the California Nightingale," was announced recently, came with Miss Radford to Baltimore yesterday morning. After obtaining a wedding license, they were married here at noon by the Rev. M. S. Banfield, Seventh Day Adventist minister. Bolton gave his age as 41.

The playwright was divorced in 1925 by Miss Namara, who has starred in opera in this country and in Europe. The public did not learn of the divorce, however, until many months after it was granted.

Bolton collaborated with P. G. Wodehouse and Jerome Kern in writing several plays, notably "Very Good, Eddie," "Oh, Boy" and "Oh, Lady, Lady."

The playwright and Miss Namara have a daughter, Peggy.

STOCK'S THIRD CONCERT.

Schumann Symphony Transcribed by Conductor Wins Applause.

For his third concert Frederick Stock had rearranged the positions of the musicians of the Philharmonic Orchestra at the Stadium last evening. The double basses were in a row at the back, with the brasses in another file in front of them. The effect was very good.

Mr. Stock began with a stirring delivery of Brahm's "Academie" overture, and then presented Schumann's "Rhenish" symphony, transcribed for modern orchestra by the conductor. The program notes explain that Mr. Stock "has done more than reorchestrate Schumanns symphony. He added a measure here and there, in order to give greater clarity to Schumann's thought. He replaced the coda of Schumann by another, in which, however, he employed Schumann's material." Mr. Stock also increased the number of instruments, thereby enriching the sound and giving a better carrying power, in the open air, especially. The symphony, under these conditions, was heard with ease, even in its delicate scherzo, and was received with such warm applause that the orchestra stood up at the conclusion.

The orchestra gave an extremely rhythmic interpretation of Ravel's interesting choreographic poem, "La Valse."

The Swedish Rapsody by Alfven, "Midsummer Wake," given for the first time at the Stadium, proved to be melodious and novel at the same time. Sibelius's tone poem, "Finlandia," fitly closed the program.

Mr. Stock's program for tonight has been changed to include two American novelties: "1914," a tragic overture by Edward Collins, and "Masquerade," by Carl McKinley. Mr. McKinley, a native of Maine, has written two earlier symphonies, an "Indian Summer Idyl" and "The Blue Flower," both performed by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, and the latter played last season by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra under Mr. Stock. Mr. Collins, who is a pianist as well as a composer, is a Chicagoan. His "1914," which is the first of his orchestral works to be heard in this city, won first prize in the North Shore Festival competition.

FINAL CAMPUS CONCERT.

20,000 Regret Goldman Season's Close at New York University.

The closing concert by the Goldman Band, under Edwin Franko Goldman, on the campus of New York University last night attracted an audience of more than 20,000. Chancellor Elmer E. Brown of the university congratulated the band and its leader on their success, hoped that the Guggenheim family, sponsors for the concerts, was listening in on the radio and also hoped the concerts would continue for many years.

The program began with the "Marche Slav" of Tchaikovsky and included favorite numbers by Goldmark, Wagner, Grieg, Liszt, and Mr. Goldman. Lotta Madden was the soloist. At the end of the program the audience insisted on hearing two of Mr. Goldman's most popular marches, "On the Farm" and "On the Mall."

Major Graff presented to Mr. Goldman a list containing thousands of names giving thanks for the concerts and asking that they be forwarded to the Guggenheim family. Then two little girls, on behalf of children who had attended the concerts, made a presentation to Mr. Goldman, a belt and a gold belt buckle bearing his monogram. The people would not leave, so the band played "Auld Lang Syne."

The last concert of the season will be tonight on the Mall in Central Park.

Pauline Lord in "Sandalwood."

Pauline Lord, who has not acted on the New York stage since her appearance in "They Knew What They Wanted," has been engaged for the star rôle in "Sandalwood," coming to Broadway late in September. Owen Davis has made the adaptation from Fulton Oursler's novel of the same name. The play is described as a "serious comedy in three acts" and will oe directed by Robert Milton. The production is being made by Mr. Milton in association with Hassard Short.

'La Prisonniere' at Empire Sept. 29.

"La Prisonnière," the play by Edouard Bourdet, which has roused considerable discussion in Paris and Vienna, will be the season's first production at the Empire Theatre, opening there on Sept. 29. Gilbert Miller is the producer and the cast will include Basil Rathbone, Helen Menken, Lyn Harding and Arthur Wontner, a well-known English actor, who will make his first American appearance.

PRISON HEAD BACK FROM STUDY ABROAD

Our Penal Institutions Best, Says Weinstock—Criticizes Dry Laws as Making Criminals.

GERMAN SENATORS ARRIVE

To See Our Prisons Preparatory to Building Europe's Finest in Hamburg.

Leon C. Weinstock, State Commissioner of Prisons, returned yesterday from Europe on the Hamburg-American liner Resolute, with Mrs. Weinstock, after spending three months visiting the principal cities in Great Britain and Europe. He said that the penal institutions abroad did not compare with those of the United States in efficiency and sanitary enviorenment of the prisoners.

The Commissioner said prohibition had caused an increase during the last five years of 700 per cent. in the drug and liquor addicts sent to State prisons.

"Our State prisons are crowded with criminals, who are, for the large part, by-products of the attempt to enforce prohibition," he asserted. "In lieu of alcohol, these men and boys were driven to drugs.

"I hold no brief for whisky. I am glad it is gone, but I do think we should have light wines and beer. For the entire time I was abroad, I cannot recall having been a drunken man among the working people.

"The prisons abroad are not cluttered with men whose conviction is due to alcohol. I think that the present crime wave in New York and other American cities may be traced directly to the prohibition law." Commissioner Weinstock added that he had held office as Commissioner of Prisons for fifteen years under six administrations, and was for this reason unwilling to discuss politics.

Arriving also on the Resolute were four Senators from the State of Hamburg who are here to study prison conditions. Hamburg, they said, is planning to erect the most modern prison of Europe, and before work is begun the commission wishes to make a survey of what has been accomplished in America. They will go to Sing Sing on Wednesday as the guests of Commissioner Weinstock. Their itinerary includes the chief cities of America. While in New York they will be at Times Square Hotel. The members of the party are Dr. Karl Struve, M. Liepmann, Christopher Ranck and Christian Koch.

Dr. Hans Much, head physician of the Eppendorfer Hospital of Hamburg, the largest hospital in Germany, with accommodations for 2,400 patients, arrived on the Resolute. It is his first visit to America. He comes, he said, on a private consultation, after which he will do some lecturing. An expert on mathematics, he observed of the skyscrapers of lower Manhattan: "The are geometry in stone."

The Resolute arrived flying the German flag, with a German crew, and brought back 200 officers and men who had been in her crew when she was owned by the United American Lines.

THEATRE UNION TO MEET.

Negotiations for 40% Wage Rise to Be Discussed Tomorrow.

Members of the Theatrical Protective Union, Local 1, who have asked owners and managers of New York's legitimate theatres for a 40 per cent. wage increase, will meet in Bryant Hall Sunday afternoon to hear the results of negotiations between their committee and a committee appointed by the International Theatrical Managers' Association. Samuel Goldfarb, a member of the group conferring with the managers' representatives, will preside.

On Monday there will be another joint meeting of the managers' and stage hands' committees after both have reported back to their organizations.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Two attractions will end their New York engagements tonight—"Passions of 1926" at the Shubert Theatre and "Craig's Wife" at the Morosco.

"Lucky Sambo," the negro revue which has had a Summer run at the Columbia, will also close tonight. The Columbia will open a week from today for the regular season.

Murray Phillips, the casting director, will produce Carlos de Navarro's "Champagne" in September in association with Fuguet, Inc.

Ashley Miller's play, "The Challenge of Youth," will be followed by Booth, Gleason and Truex with "The Sweet Buy and Buy," of which Louise Bascom Barratt and Helena Smith Dayton are the authors. The latter play will be published in book form in September.

Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby have been signed by Philip Goodman to prepare a new musical comedy, tentatively known as "The Duke of Delaware," which is scheduled to open in New York on Christmas Eve. Paul Poiret will make the costumes for the production. "The Ramblers," also by Messrs. Kalmar and Ruby, will have its premiere at Werba's Brooklyn Theatre on Aug. 30 with the Manhattan opening at the Lyric on Sept. 20. Clark and McCullough, Marie Saxon and Georgia O'Ramey are in the cast.

Two Marcus Loew Theatres in Greater New York will be opened during the next fortnight. They are the Premier Theatre in East New York, which will have its opening on Aug. 30 and the Hillside Theatre at Sutphin Boulevard and Jamaica Avenue, on Sept. 2. During September Mr. Loew will also open three houses in Baltimore and one in Evansville, Ind.

OBERST GANG STARTS TERMS IN SING SING

Twenty-five Years for Hecker, Seventeen to Thirty-five for Four Others.

KEPT OUT OF JAIL IN QUEENS

Trick of Taking Sentences Quickly Prevents Them From Being Arraigned.

WRITS TO BRING THEM BACK

District Attorney Disappointed, but Hopes to Have Them on Trial Next Week.

The weight of the new Baumes Crime law fell heavily yesterday on the five youthful members of the Oberst robber gang when they were sentenced by Judge James M. Barrett in the Bronx County Court to long terms in Sing Sing for their hold-up of the Liccione private bank in that county, of which they had been convicted on Thursday, but, in the language of one of the gunmen, they "put one over" on the authorities of the Bronx by calling for speedy sentences.

Under the law the gunmen were entitled to forty-eight hours before imposition of sentence, and this, it was said yesterday, probably would have meant that they would not be sentenced until Monday morning, as their time allowance would not have expired until 6 o'clock tonight. It appeared yesterday forenoon, however, after Leo Hecker, one of the five, had been sentenced to a flat term of twenty-five years in Sing Sing as a second offender, and each of his confederates had received a sentence of from seventeen and one-half to thirty-five years, that they could not be arraigned in the Queens County Court on next Monday morning on indictments charging them with two holdups in that county.

Hecker boasted as he and his companions were being led, handcuffed, from Judge Barrett's court for a trip to the Queens County Jail, that "We have put one over on them," but neither the seven deputy sheriffs nor the ten detectives in charge of them sensed the meaning of his remark. It was not until they had been led into the office of Warden George Fox in the Queens County Jail and their pedigrees were about to be taken, preliminary to placing them in cells, that its significance dawned on the officials.

District Attorney Richard S. Newcombe of Queens, a short- time previously, had received a telephone message from District Attorney John E. McGeehan, who prosecuted the gunmen in the Bronx, that the youths had been sentenced and were on their way to Queens.

Warning for Warden.

Mr. Newcombe telephoned to Warden Fox not to receive the prisoners and advised that they be taken immediately by the Deputy Sheriffs to Sing Sing. He explained that it was illegal for them to be incarcerated in any other prison once sentence had been imposed on them.

The gunmen were in high glee at the discomfiture of the deputies and the detectives by Mr. Newcombe's announcement.

Hecker, who appeared to have engineered the scheme to induce Judge Barrett to impose the sentences on them fifteen hours after their conviction, led his confederates in the singing of popular songs on the way from the Bronx in a prison van and on their return to Manhattan for the trip to Sing Sing.

But it was evident that the gunmen did not know that District Attorney Newcombe could offset their coup by obtaining a writ of habeas corpus in the Supreme Court after they had been handed over to Warden Lewis E. Lawes in Sing Sing, and, through this procedure, bring them back to Queens for trial on the two robbery indictments there. Mr. Newcombe, before the five had left Long Island City, announced that he purposed to obtain such a writ and intimated that he would have the young gunmen facing trial before Judge Adel in the Queens County Court before the middle of next week.

Agreement of Prosecutors.

Mr. Newcombe made no attempt to conceal his disappointment that an "agreement" made by him with District Attorney McGeehan at the time of the round-up of the gang, not to have sentences imposed in the Bronx until the indictments against the robbers had been disposed of in Queens, had been broken.

In a statement he said that when the five were apprehended by Bronx detectives for the hold-up of the Liccione private bank at Arthur Avenue and 167th Street on July 22 last, when one clerk was shot and the gang was driven off without loot by the pistol fire of another clerk, he had acceded to the demand of District Attorney McGeehan that the robbers first be placed on trial in the Bronx for that hold-up.

It was through confessions obtained from the five when they were taken into custody for the Liccione hold-up that their connection with the Loft and Kenny hold-ups was revealed, and the Bronx indictment having been the first to be returned, Mr. Newcombe agreed that the Bronx had first call on them.

"Under a conviction in Queens," Mr. Newcombe's statement continued, "the defendants could receive twice the sentence that could be imposed on them in the Bronx. It was the plan of District Attorney McGeehan and myself that after convictions in both counties sentences would be imposed that would not run concurrently, so that at the expiration of one the other would commence. In that way the defendants would suffer the maximum penalty for their series of crimes.

"I had intended to try these defendants immediately after their conviction in the Bronx, but in view of the premature sentencing of the defendants, the trial in Queens cannot proceed because it will be necessary for me to sue out a writ of habeas corpus. Until that is granted, my hands are tied.

"I feel further that the premature sentencing of these defendants has greatly impaired and prejudiced the prosecution in Queens County on the indictments pending against them."

Promise of Appeal.

That the five gangsters had in mind taking advantage of any technicality arising through their being taken to Queens before their incarceration in Sing Sing was indicated by the statement of James A. Turley, who defended Peter Mahoney, chauffeur for the gang, while Edward O'Brien was counsel for Hecker and the other three, Bernard Frankel, alias "Frenchy"; Frank Kerrigan and Philip Oberst, leader of the gang. When Mr. Turley was asked, after sentence had been imposed, whether the five contemplated any further legal move in connection with their conviction, he said:

"All I can say is that the defendants have told me that they intend to appeal this case, and that they will fight every other accusation made against them."

It was noticed as the gunmen faced Judge Barrett yesterday morning that, with the exception of Mahoney, they appeared to be little concerned on the penalties the Court was about to impose.

Hecker and Frankel appeared to be amused by the extra precautions that had been taken by the police and the Sheriff of Bronx County in policing the court. Ten uniformed men had been stationed at the entrance to the Bergen Building, in which the court is situated, and fifteen rookie patrolmen and twenty detectives under Acting Captain of Detectives Bruckman, whose men rounded up the robbers, were scattered, with ten deputy sheriffs, among the crowd in the court room.

The formality of imposing sentence was brief after District Attorney McGeehan and the lawyers for the prisoners had announced their readiness.

Praise for Prosecutor.

Judge Barrett began by praising Mr. McGeehan, saying the prosecutor had "earned and merited the gratitude of all respectable citizens by your diligent, energetic, capable and relentless prosecution, not only of these defendants but of all the criminal element that invades the territory of your fellow-citizens." Then the Court added: "The Bronx is proud of you."

Turning to the prisoners, the Court said:

"The verdict of guilty was not only a condemnation of you five defendants but a vindication of the District Attorney's part in the drama.

"By that verdict these twelve men have sent a warning to thieves and highwaymen that the Bronx never has and will not now tolerate crimes against the persons of its citizenship.

"Moralizing with desperadoes accomplishes nothing. Severity of punishment is the only language they understand. There will not be any time wasted by this Court in giving expression to any maudlin sentimentality. By my sentence here this morning I am sending a message to the underworld that there will be no compromise and that they will receive no consideration at the hands of this Court.

"Society is well rid of you and it is the one regret of this Court that the punishment cannot be more severe."

The gunmen waved their hands to friends who had gathered in court, as they were being led to the prison van. As the van started for Long Island City, Mrs. Frankel, mother of the most youthful of the five, ran after it about twenty feet, calling, "Bernie, Bernie, I want you back."

REWARDS FOR POLICEMAN.

Broderick, Who Fought Oberst Gang, Gets Vacation and Equipment.

For the first time since he was shot down by gunmen when he interrupted the hold-up of the Loft candy factory in Long Island City early last month Probationary Patrolman James A. Broderick appeared at Police Headquarters yesterday. Until a short time ago he was in St. John's Hospital, near the scene of the shooting. Today he will start for the police camp at Tannersville, N. Y., for a thirty-day vacation granted yesterday by Commissioner McLaughlin.

The Oberst gang of robbers was indicted for the hold-up, principally on Broderick's testimony before the Queens County Grand Jury. Broderick, without a pistol and wearing a shield on his civilian's coat, attempted to capture them with the aid of a nightstick.

After obtaining leave of absence, Broderick went yesterday to the police equipment store of Oscar Herold at 7 Centre Market Place to purchase a pistol and a police whistle. Several patrolmen there recognized him and told Herold who he was. Broderick selected a .38-calibre pistol, bullets, a holster and a whistle, and then asked: "How much do I owe you?"

"So you are Broderick," replied Herold. "Well, young fellow, you don't owe me a cent. You just take those things with my compliments. Any young fellow who has the nerve to stand up before wild-eyed gunmen as you did is welcome to anything I've got."

TWO RESCUED AT CONEY.

Guards Battle Undertow and Waves to Get Women Bathers Ashore.

Two women were saved from drowning yesterday afternoon by four life guards while bathing at Coney Island. After bringing one woman to shore the life guards, with the aid of four policemen and Dr. Epstein of the Coney Island Hospital, worked over her for an hour and finally revived her. She then was taken to the hospital in a serious condition.

There were few in bathing when Mrs. Rose Siegel, 26 years old, of 3,034 Ocean Parkway, and Mrs. Mary Saltipter, 25 years old, of the same address, went into the surf near the foot of West Third Street. A strong undertow was running and the waves were higher than usual.

Mrs. Saltipter heard Mrs. Spiegel scream and then she screamed also as she saw her friend disappear under a big wave. Several persons ran toward the two women. Among them were Chief Life Guard John Macsonigle and Life Guards James Barsin, Joseph Manley and John Farrell. The last two got hold of Mrs. Saltipter and brought her ashore. The others went after Mrs. Spiegel. She was unconscious when rescued. They worked over her on the beach.

AMBUSHED AND BEATEN.

Three In Auto Attacked by Six on Lonely Road in New Jersey.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 20.—Six masked and armed men in an automobile bearing a Cape May County license ambushed and severely beat three of the five occupants of another automobile on a lonely stretch of highway in Petersburg today. The victims, Jacob Pettit of Belle Plain and his two sons, Henry and Thomas, were unable to assign a motive for the attack.

The six men dashed away following the attack without harming the two other occupants of the Pettit machine. The latter were Frank Polace and a man known as "Tony." State troopers think the attackers were out to settle a grudge.

KAUTZMANN GUILTY IN MILK GRAFT TRIAL

Conviction of Former Head of Health Squad Is the Third Since Inquiry Began.

TO BE SENTENCED SEPT. 7

Ex-Official Faces 10-Year Term for Taking Bribe to Release Unapproved Cream.

Frederick W. Kautzmann, former head of the special service squad of the Health Department, was found guilty yesterday in General Sessions of accepting a bribe. It took the jury just four hours and twenty minutes to convict Kautzmann of accepting part of $2,000 paid by Samuel Doner, a wholesale cream dealer of 505 West Fortieth Street, for the release in January, 1924, of fifty-six cans of cream seized by Kautzmann as it was being brought into New York without the sanction of the Health Department.

The prisoner faces a penalty of ten years in prison or a fine of $5,000, or both, on each of two counts in the indictment upon which he was found guilty.

Twenty minutes before the jury returned its verdict it asked to have read part of the testimony given by Kautzmann at the trial of former Assistant Corporation Counsel William H. Kehoe, who was convicted about two weeks ago. This testimony, which was admitted to the records, had to do with the release of the fifty-six cans of cream. At the Kehoe trial Kautzmann testified that it was customary for the inspector who made a seizure to release the milk or cream later if it was expedient to do so. In the case of the release of the cream for which he was charged with having received part of the bribe, he said he could not remember.

After Fred J. Martine, the foreman of the jury, had announced the verdict, Kautzmann stood at the bar, showing no signs of its effect upon him, and answered the usual questions in a low tone. He said he was 47 years old, lived at 191 Walnut Street, Lynbrook, L. I., and that his occupation was a milk inspector. He said he was married, a citizen of the United States, of temperate habits and never had been convicted before.

Mrs. Kautzmann, who was present during the trial, was not in the court room when the verdict was announced. She had been led from the room in tears shortly after the jury returned to have the evidence read. After the jurymen had been polled Judge Levine remanded Kautzmann to the Tombs for sentence on Sept. 7.

The conviction of Kautzmann was the third since Health Commissioner Harris began his investigation into the milk graft ring. Kautzmann was indicted with Thomas J. Clougher, secretary to former Commissioner of Health Dr. Frank J. Monaghan. The charge against both grew out of the $2,000 bribe Doner said he paid to Harry Danziger to obtain the release of cream shipped to Doner. Clougher was convicted. Both Doner and Danziger testified for the State. The latter said that the $2,000 was split up between himself, Clougher, Kehoe, Kautzmann and another person still not identified.

WILL APPEAL BANK CASE.

Backers of Cos Cob Trust Company Will Go to Connecticut Court.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 20.—Appeal to the Superior Court of Fairfield County is to follow last night's adverse decision of the State Banking Commission on the petition of Don C. Seitz and others of Greenwich to establish a State bank in the Cos Cob section of the town.

Walter M. Anderson, one of the proposed incorporators, said tonight that their principal opponent was the Putnam Trust Company of Greenwich. According to Mr. Anderson a group connected with this bank hopes to establish a national bank in Cos Cob, and they are now awaiting action in Washington on their application. It was said at the hearing that those who want a trust company applied for a Connecticut charter before the proposed national bank organizers submitted their application to the Federal authorities.

The Cos Cob Trust Company incorporators were to be Don C. Seitz, Associate Editor of The Outlook, and former business manager of The New York World; Frank T. Palmer, head of the Palmer Engineering Company of Cos Cob, who was to be President of the bank; R. Harold Cox, B. Eugene Shubert, William Carrington, Reginald H. Heard, Elbert F. Lockwood, Robert B. Sullivan, Edward L. Tracy and G. Ernest Gieser.

Those who have applied for the Federal bank were Benjamin H. Mead of Greenwich and Michael Taylor, R. R. Houston, Lewis G. O'Donnell and Lyman M. Ferris of Cos Cob.

IN COURT OVER STOLEN SUIT

New Rochelle Tailor Finds He Wrongfully Accused Elk Official.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Aug. 20.—William Crowell of 18 Webster Avenue, esteemed leading knight of New Rochelle Elks Club, was in court this morning on charges of stealing a suit from I. Copper, a tailor, but it was a case of mistaken identity.

Max Katz, an employe of the tailor, said that on July 3 Mr. Crowell got a suit from the tailor by declaring that it was paid for although there were $70 due on it.

When the defendant appeared in court this morning Katz threw up his hands and exclaimed, "That's not the man!"

Mr. Crowell said he never saw Katz before and knew nothing about the suit. Katz said that a man who represented himself as Crowell had taken the suit.

NEW JERSEY DAY IS AUG. 31.

Moore Names Date for State's Celebration at Sesquicentennial.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 20.—It was announced today that Governor Moore had set aside Thursday, Aug. 31, as New Jersey Day at the Philadelphia Sesquicentennial Exposition. He has called upon the Mayors of all cities in the State to urge residents to attend the exercises incident to that day.

Aug. 31 was chosen because on that date 150 years ago William Livingston was elected first Governor of New Jersey, after the Colonies declared their independence.

The Governor, together with State Controller Bugbee and members of the New Jersey committee, have planned an elaborate program.

Francis D. Gallatin, Park Commissioner, Weds; Fails in Attempt to Keep Ceremony Secret

Francis Dawson Gallatin, President of the Park Commission for the last six years, and Miss Dorothy C. Brady, a former newspaper woman and publicity agent, were married yesterday noon in the little chapel of the Marriage License Bureau of the Municipal Building by Michael J. Cruise, City Clerk.

The wedding was a complete surprise. Mr. Gallatin leaving his associates on the Park Commission about 10 o'clock with only a terse statement that he needed a rest and was going away for a vacation. He arrived, unheralded and unexpected, at the Municipal Building at five minutes to 12, and waited for the rest of the party.

Next to arrive was Vincent E. Scott, a publicity man with whom Miss Brady has been associated, and a witness of the wedding ceremony. Promptly at noon came the bride. The party went to the express elevators, from which Mr. Gallatin formerly was wont to smile at shy couples looking for the Marriage License Bureau. The Park Commissioner's office was at one time on the tenth floor. The party was taken to the second floor.

City Clerk Cruise said he was not surprised to see his newest customers and treated the affair as a matter of course. He said, however, that Mr. Gallatin was worried, because he knew that directly overhead were lurking newspaper reporters, any one of whom might take a sudden notion to drop down to see if anything were going on in the Marriage License Bureau, and thus end any chance for a secret ceremony.

Nothing unexpected happened, however, and the Park Commissioner was able to get his bride safely to the street and away, leaving with the City Clerk a statement that all reporters who wished to see him in the next few days would meet with difficulties. Where Mr. and Mrs. Gallatin are spending their honeymoon could not be learned. When they return, in about three weeks, they will live at the Hotel Surrey.

Miss Brady is the daughter of Mrs. Frances F. Brady of 551 West 157th Street and the late Edward J. Brady, Professor of Romance Languages at the University of Vienna. Commissioner Gallatin, who lives at 119 East Thirty-eighth Street, is the son of the late James Gallatin and Mrs. Elizabeth Dawson Gallatin, who now lives at Southampton, L. I. He is a great-grandson of Albert Gallatin, one time Secretary of the Treasury of the United States. He is a graduate of the Columbia Law School and is a member of Delta Phi, the American and New York Bar associations, Lotos Club and Century Club.

HORSE KILLS BABY UNDER ITS HOOFS

MOTHER TRIES TO SAVE HIM

Peddler's Efforts to Rescue Little Son of Mail Clerk Also Fail —Women Hysterical.

Reaching vainly toward fruit that glistened in the sun shining on a peddler's wagon in Brooklyn yesterday, a baby upset his carriage while his mother bargained with the huckster and, tumbling out, fell near the hoofs of the horse and was kicked to death by the frightened animal.

The baby was Albert Rimrus, 1 year old. The peddler stopped his wagon near the Rimrus home, at 648 Miller Avenue, Brooklyn. Mrs. Rimrus wheeled the baby out in the carriage and, leaving it near the front of the wagon, went toward the rear to discuss prices with the peddler. Several other women stood about the wagon.

While the mother was intent on her bargaining the child saw the array of fruit and reached for it. In doing so he leaned over and fell out of the carriage. As the child rolled under the horse the animal began to kick. The mother screamed, and Harry Goldberg of 180 Van Sicien Avenue, the huckster, ran forward and tried to calm the animal while Mrs. Rimrus made a desperate effort to rescue her child. The attempts of both were in vain. The horse continued to kick and one hoof struck the baby on the head and killed him instantly.

Mrs. Rimrus, whose husband is a clerk in a Manhattan postoffice, became hysterical, as did other women who had witnessed the accident. Detectives of the Liberty Avenue Station made an investigation and concluded that it was an accident.

WOMAN, 75, IS KILLED BY A RUNAWAY HORSE

Knocked Down and Run Over by Wagon as She Tries to Run From Peril.

Galloping into a large crowd crossing a street at a busy corner in the Bronx last night, a runaway horse attached to a laundry wagon ran down and killed a woman 75 years old, who became confused in the excitement.

The woman was Mrs. Vincenzo Burrello of 486 East Tremont Avenue. She was in Tremont Avenue and was crossing Washington Avenue when the runaway horse appeared. The horse was drawing a wagon owned by the Starlight Laundry of 2,077 Washington Avenue. It had bolted when Nathan Frankel of 1,214 Vyse Avenue, the driver, came out of the laundry and stepped on the wagon. Frankel was thrown off and the horse galloped down Washington Avenue.

Many other persons were crossing the street when the runaway animal raced toward Mrs. Burrello. There were screams as women leaped for safety. Mrs. Burrello ran first one way and then another, and before she could get to safety the horse knocked her down, struck her with its hoof and dragged the wagon over her.

The horse was stopped a short distance beyond by a patrolman of the Tremont Station, who arrested Frankel on a homicide charge after a doctor from Fordham Hospital had pronounced the woman dead.

GENEVA, Aug. 20.—A huge bombing airplane, constructed in France for the Polish Army, arrived in Basle yesterday on its way to Warsaw. Twelve similar machines are being completed by French airplane builders. A month ago five other military airplanes passed through Switzerland on the way to Poland. The planes will be distributed along the Russian frontier.

LINNENKAMP SUIT DROPPED BY WOMAN

She Declares She Is "Too Ill" to Press Action for $15,700 as Expenses of Child.

SPECIFIC CLAIM WAS ASKED

Court Ordered Her to Give Data on Wedding, Annulment and the Artist's Promise to Pay.

The suit brought in the name of Eleanor G. W. Linnenkamp, also known as Eleanor G. W. Anderson, individually and as guardian for Eleanor Elizabeth Linnenkamp, against Ernst Linnenkamp, noted Viennese artist, to recover $15,700 was discontinued by Supreme Court Justice Valente yesterday at the request of the plaintiff. Norman L. Marks, her attorney, made the motion on the ground that he had received a letter from her in which she said:

"In reply to your letter of the 29th inst. I beg to repeat in writing that I wish the case of your firm placed on the calendar of the Supreme Court (Linnenkamp vs. Linnenkamp) discontinued, as I am too ill."

Mr. Marks said he had requested Gibboney, Johnston & Schlechter, attorneys for Mr. Linnenkamp, to consent to the discontinuance, but they preferred to have it done by making the present motion, which they did not oppose.

The application to discontinue the suit followed the signing of an order by Justice Crain a few days ago, requiring the plaintiff to file a new complaint, making more definite and certain her allegations upon which her claims for $15,700 were based. The attorneys for the artist submitted to the Court her complaint, in which she alleged that she had been married to the defendant in December, 1906, and that the marriage was thereafter annulled in "December, 1906." She asserted that the issue of the marriage was a daughter, Eleanor, "born on or about Sept. 15, 1907." She alleged that she had furnished necessities, consisting of food and clothing for the child, and that the defendant had promised to repay her, but had failed to do so.

Counsel for the artist asked that the plaintiff be compelled to state in her complaint where and when she married the defendant; the name of the court in which the marriage was annulled and the date of the decree; the date when she became guardian for Eleanor E. Linnenkamp and the name of the Court which appointed her; when she furnished the alleged necessaries at the request of the defendant; when he promised to repay her, and the date and place where she demanded repayment.

Mr. Linnnkamp filed no answer in the suit because his time had not expired when he applied to compel the filing of a new complaint.

POLICE DOG BITES DETECTIVE

Capt. Gorman, Looking for a Wife Deserter, Is Driven From House.

New York's most recent police casualty is a Captain of Detectives who was bitten in the leg by a police dog, as he was trying to find a wife deserter yesterday afternoon.

Captain of Detectives Thomas Gorman of the East Thirty-fifth Street Station had been asked to arrest a certain Paul Hopkins, wanted in Connecticut for leaving his wife and child. Hopkins was said in the telegram to be living at 154 East Twenty-eighth Street.

The Captain went to the address and was met by the owner of the house, Mrs. Bertha Redman. She spoke no English. Then along came Bernhart, 17-year-old son of Mrs. Redman. Asta, an eleven-year-old German police dog, also came to the rescue of the household.

Captain Gorman retired to Bellevue Hospital to get a leg cauterized and Asta was sent to the cellar to await the arrival of health authorities to determine whether it had rabies.

Hopkins was not known at the address.

DWYER AND COHRON RELEASED ON BAIL

Judge Manton Orders Them to Be Freed—Finds a Reversal of Conviction Possible.

HITCH ARISES OVER BONDS

Refusal of Cotter to Accept Them From One Concern Keeps Pair in Tombs Several Hours.

Application made last Wednesday by Benjamin F. Spellman, attorney for William V. Dwyer, head of a $40,000,000 liquor syndicate, and E. C. Cohron, described as his "pay-off man," now in the Tombs, to have them released on bail pending the hearing and determination of a writ of error issued by Judge Charles M. Hough of the United States Circuit Court, was granted yesterday by Federal Judge Martin T. Manton. At the same time he provided that the case be set down for argument in the third week of November.

Dwyer and Cohron were released from the Tombs shortly before 11 o'clock last night, after United States Commissioner Cotter, who earlier in the day had refused to accept two $25,000 bonds of the Equitable Surety Company for Dwyer, came to the Tombs from his home in Flushing to accept other bonds. These bonds, $50,000 for Dwyer and $25,000 for Cohron were supplied by the New Amsterdam Surety Company.

The afternoon was marked by feverish activity on the part of Howard H. Spellman, youthful attorney and son of Benjamin F. Spellman, and Attorney Louis Halle, who arrived at Commissioner Cotter's office in the Federal Building just before 4 o'clock to apply for an order releasing Dwyer and Cohron from the Tombs.

Federal Attorney Objects.

While papers were being prepared by Frank Ferdon, Deputy Clerk of the United States District Court, Assistant United States Attorney William E. Stevenson rushed into the clerk's office waving aloft a packet of papers.

"Wait a minute," he called to Ferdon, "Mr. Buckner doesn't want * * *" and the remainder of the conversation was finished in a whisper.

Bail for Dwyer had been fixed for $50,000 and for Cohron at $25,000. The Equitable Surety Company had arranged to furnish Cohron's bail, but as the company was licensed to make out bonds only in denominations of $25,000 or less, they could not furnish all of Dwyer's bail. So another $25,000 bond had been obtained from the New Amsterdam Surety Company.

After consulting with Mr. Stevenson, Ferdon went to Commissioner Cotter's office and advised the Commissioner that United States Attorney Buckner was opposed to accepting bonds of the Equitable Company as bail. At this juncture Attorneys Spellman and Halle arrived.

Mr. Spellman wanted to know just what Mr. Buckner's objection was. Mr. Halle insisted that the United States Attorney had no right to object except as to the form and sufficiency of the bond. Commissioner Cotter said he wanted to know just what Mr. Buckner's objections were, and telephoned to Mr. Stevenson.

A few minutes later Mr. Stevenson entered the Commissioner's office, and with him came Assistant United States Attorney Richard B. Watts. The two attorneys and the Commissioner held a whispered conversation, after which Commissioner Cotter announced that he could not accept the Equitable bonds.

Mr. Spellman wanted to know why. Neither Mr. Stevenson nor Mr. Watts would tell him. Commissioner Cotter said that the reasons must be kept secret, but admitted that they concerned an investigation which was being conducted by a Government department at this time.

Mr. Spellman charged that the objections were made by Mr. Buckner's representatives to compel Dwyer and Cohron to spend another night in the Tombs.

"I can furnish bond," interrupted a voice, and all eyes in the hearing room with the bondsman. They rein front of the Commissioner's table a few feet from Mr. Spellman.

"For $50,000?" asked the Commissioner, and the bondsman nodded affirmatively.

"There you are," said Commissioner Cotter to Mr. Spellman.

"But I haven't been asked yet," said the bondsman.

A hasty consultation ensued, and Attorneys Spellman and Halle left the room with the bondsmen. They returned a few minutes after 5 o'clock and announced that negotiations were off. But they brought with them Harold R. Cronin of the Equitable Surety Company. He complained to the Commissioner that his compa y was being discriminated against by United States Attorneys here and in Boston, and said that he had taken the matter up with Treasury Department officials there and had retained as his attorney Charles E. Hughes.

Prisoners Have to Wait.

After another consultation Attorneys Spellman and Halle, believing then that further attempts to obtain bail would be futile, announced that Dwyer and Cohron would "just have to wait until tomorrow."

"But we'll surely get them out in the morning," the attorneys declared.

Dwyer was released from the Tombs for four hours last night in the custody of Deputy United States Marshal Raymond Mulligan to have an infected foot treated at his doctor's. Then he was taken back to his cell.

In his opinion Judge Manton said: "This is an application for admission to bail pending review of the conviction by the Circuit Court of Appeals. The writ of error has been allowed. The assignments of error are numerous. While appeals taken on frivolous grounds and merely for delay may be discouraged by the denial of bail pending appeal, still judicial discretion should not be exercised against a defendant where it appears that there are debatable questions presented in the assignments of errors, which are supported by the opinion of reputable counsel that they are of the belief that the judgment of conviction will be reversed on appeal. Bail has been denied by the trial Judge, and application is now made to a Circuit Judge who may be called upon to review the legality of the conviction.

"Because of this possibility I deem it unnecessary to discuss the various points assigned. It is sufficient for all purposes to say that within the case there are debatable questions which at least formulate a reasonable doubt as to whether the conviction appealed from will stand. Reputable counsel has certified that they are acting in good faith in the discharge of their professional duties in expressing an opinion that there are reasons to expect a reversal of the judgment of conviction.

"I do not deem this to be a case in which a review is sought not with the hope of a new trial, but on frivolous grounds merely for delay. Rather, I think the case falls within the sound exercise of judicial discretion, and that it would be wrong to require the defendants to be imprisoned or to begin the service of their sentences while the writ of error is pending."

Horse Stolen in Hempstead, The First in Fifteen Years

Special to The New York Times.

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., Aug. 20.—There is a horse thief on Long Island. When Edward Wilson of 80 Bennet Avenue reported the loss of his horse to police headquarters here old-timers in the department scanned the records and found that it was fifteen years since a horse was stolen here. Nothing but automobiles now, they said.

There was a time, though, when truck farmers hauled all their supplies all the way to New York in carts and wagons. In those days horse thefts were not as infrequent.

But there is a horse missing now. Wilson's white horse, with a star in its forehead, disappeared from Wilson's stable last Tuesday and no trace of it has been found. The stable door was latched and it appears impossible to the Hempstead police for the horse to have wandered off, especially as it would have had to latch the door behind it.

BOY OUTLAW SHOT BY DENVER OFFICER

Leslie Gonce, 14, Near Death After He and His Brother Terrorized Wide Area.

REFUSED TO SURRENDER

Lad Is Fired On as He Reaches for His Pistol—Older Youth Gets Long Prison Term.

PUEBLO, Col., Aug. 20 (AP).—The efforts of a youth of 21 and his brother, 14, to emulate Western "bad men" of a bygone day ended at noon today with Leslie Gonce, the younger of the pair, lying in a hospital at the point of death, while his older brother, Forrest, was in the county jail waiting to be taken to the State penitentiary to serve twenty to thirty years for highway robbery.

Leslie was shot by Deputy Sheriff Charles Fiscus when he refused to surrender, and, according to the officer, attempted to draw a revolver.

The child, sought by posses for a week, was located in the business district here just before noon. A special deputy sheriff and a deputy Federal prohibition agent talked with him, endeavoring to persuade him to surrender. The boy refused to do so.

Officers from the Sheriff's office arrived and Fiscus demanded Leslie surrender. Instead of complying, the boy reached into his open shirt for a revolver, Fiscus said. Before he could fire the Deputy Sheriff shot three times, the bullets striking the lad in the chest and neck.

Forrest Gonce, arrested here last night when he slipped into the city to visit his home, warned officers at the time that Leslie would shoot if they "attempted to get rough with him."

Forrest, arraigned this afternoon, pleaded guilty to two charges of highway robbery. He was sentenced to twenty to thirty years in prison on each charge, the sentences to run concurrently. The charges resulted from holding up under Sheriff Daniels and Deputy Sheriff Fiscus when the officers attempted to arrest the boys.

The wounding of the boy and the arrest of his brother came as the climax to a series of depredations perpetrated by the pair in this vicinity, which started when they shot their way to freedom after being arrested at Garden City, Kan., for the robbery of a filling station.

They next appeared on the outskirts of Pueblo, where they held up and robbed Deputy Sheriff Fiscus, the officer who today wounded the younger of the pair, and escaped in his automobile.

Posses immediately were organized and started in pursuit. Eluding capture, the youths held up a Y. M. C. A. Summer camp and took refuge in an abandoned mine shaft near Rye, a Summer resort. An aviator equipped to drop tear bombs was pressed into service, but while he was scouring the country the youths escaped from the mine.

Forrest was taken into custody last night without a show of resistance after relatives had tipped the police he was in the city to visit his parents.

Leslie was recognized as he sauntered about the streets here today and the shooting followed.

POSSE COMBS WOODS FOR GIRL'S ASSAILANT

Negro Flees After His Intended Victim, 14, Fights Him Off in New Jersey.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 20.—An armed posse of nearly 100 men were beating the woods tonight about Vineyard Road in Raritan Township below New Brunswick, in a search for a negro who attempted to attack a 14-year-old white girl this afternoon.

The girl, Elizabeth Balint, was returning to her home after a visit to a neighbor when the negro jumped out from behind a large oak tree. In one hand he held a handkerchief which had been soaked with chloroform. With one arm he held Elizabeth and then tried to place the handkerchief over her face. As his hand came near her mouth she bit him and then struggled away. He disappeared into a thicket and she ran home and gave the alarm.

William Davis, Chief of the Raritan Township Police, assigned all of his available men to search the woods and swore in more than sixty-five special deputies. All doctors and hospitals nearby have been notified to be on the lookout for the negro, who may seek medical attention.

A third squad visited another club near by, but found it closed.

DENIES UNION MEN LOAF ON BUILDINGS

Head of Trades Council Tells State Commission Charge Is "a Lot of Nonsense."

HIS ASSERTION CHALLENGED

Witness Says He Has No Figures and Cannot Speak of Bricklayers' Practices.

GARMENT WORKERS HEARD

Woman Advocates More Regulation of Wages and Working Season —Hearings Suspended.

The workman's side of the building industries situation was placed before the State Industrial Survey Commission yesterday at the last of its public hearings in the Bar Association Building, 42 West Forty-fourth Street. John Halkett, President of the New York Building Trades Council, entered contradictions of many statements made on Thursday by Christian G. Norman, Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Building Trades Employers' Association of New York City.

Mr. Norman had said there was a shortage of help in the building trades created by refusal of unions to permit men from other cities to work on union jobs. He had said labor received more than its share of the receipts in the building field and that increases in wages had been accompanied by a steady decline in the amount of work accomplished.

"A lot of nonsense," was Mr. Halkett's description of this charge of loafing by workmen. He had no record of complaints of inefficiency on the part of workmen, he said, and he denied that union members set any maximum for the amount of work to be done in a period of time.

No Figures of Efficiency.

Merwin K. Hart of Utica, who represents the employers on the Survey Commission, tried in vain to obtain from Mr. Halkett figures to support the latter's denials of Mr. Norman's statements. Mr. Norman had said that bricklayers who laid 1,600 to 1,700 bricks a day when receiving a wage of $5.50 now laid 700 a day while receiving $14 a day. Mr. Halkett, denying this, admitted that he had no figures.

"Do you mean to say that you, holding the highest position among the building workmen in the city, are so ignorant of conditions in your field as to be without any knowledge of the amount of work a bricklayer does in a day?" asked Mr. Hart.

Mr. Halkett replied that the bricklayers were not associated with his organization and that he did not desire to enter into a controversy.

Mr. Halkett said that union workers always conferred with employers before going on strike, but later admitted that this agreement had been violated by carpenters who quit without warning when non-union-made wood trim was introduced on a job. Such instances were few, he said.

Needle Trades' Problems.

The needle trades were represented for the first time when Miss Elsie Gluck of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union told of conditions in the dress and underwear and cloak and suit fields. The principal problems, she said, were the short period of employment, the sub-contractor who passed out of business after a brief existence, the low wage scale and unsanitary and dangerous working conditions.

She recommended that the commission seek legislation regulating the number of factories in a loft and establishing the forty-eight hour week for women and State unemployment insurance. Pressed for details of conditions in the industry, she said sweatshop conditions had been eliminated but that sub-manufacturers working on contracts for jobbers were crowded into buildings where the fire hazard was great and health conditions were poor.

Henry D. Sayer, Executive Secretary of the commission, asked about the threat of manufacturers in the industry to move to other cities because of high costs in New York.

"We always hear that threat in strike time," Miss Gluck replied. "But they are back again, you always find, when the strike is over. The reason is that efficient labor is to be found here."

Factory Inspector Criticized.

Proper factory inspection was requested by Jerome B. Keating, State President of the Metal Trades Council. He charged that many of the State inspectors were incompetent and that the staff was too small to cover the field.

Assemblyman Frederick L. Hackenberg suggested that the State could not employ efficient inspectors at the wage it offers.

Clarence A. Crane, Secretary of the General Contractors' Association, agreed with the charge of Mr. Norman relative to loafing by laborers. The tendency of labor on construction work was to shift from place to place, he said, and employers constantly were breaking in new men. He dealt largely with problems of contractors on municipal and State work.

The commission adjourned until the middle of September, when further details of industrial conditions will be studied. The commission hopes to recommend to the Legislature methods of improving conditions in the State.

Round of Entertainments to Be Given for Tennis Stars Throughout the Tournament.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 20.—The largest dinner dance of the season thus far was that given at The Breakers tonight by General and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt. Nearly 125 guests were at the dinner. A supper was served as the evening wore on and there was a buffet for the many guests who came in late in the evening for the dancing from other dinner parties. More than 300 guests were present when all had assembled, among them being many yachtsmen from the New York Yacht Club's fleet, which is in port on its annual cruise. Mrs. Vanderbilt was assisted in receiving by her daughter, Miss Grace Vanderbilt.

A few spotlights illuminated the fountain, the terrace on the ocean side of the house and the pagoda. In the villa there was a profusion of floral decorations. A dozen or more tables were used at the dinner, the largest of which seated forty guests.

Two large orchestras furnished almost continuous music for the dancers. A feature was the presentation of boutonnieres to the guests, including those who came only for the dance. These were distributed from trays by a group of young women. The vivid white of gardenias and the deep blue of bachelor's buttons in the little bouquets made a pleasing contrast.

Among those who gave dinners tonight were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goelet, at Gravel Court; Mrs. James B. Haggin, at Villa Rosa; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parish, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Binney and Mr. and Mrs. William Fahnestock. The dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Parish was in honor of thier guests, Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Robbins and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Mrs. Reginald Rives also entertained today, and Mrs. Charles B. Hillhouse gave a luncheon.

Starting on Monday night with a dinner at the Embassy Club by the Tennis Committee of the Casino, there will be an almost constant round of entertaining for the tennis players next week. On Tuesday there will be a luncheon at Aspen Hall at which Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Drexel Biddle Jr. will be hosts. That evening Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Cameron Church Jr. will give a supper dance at Dudley Place. On Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart Cushman will give a tennis luncheon at their home, Avalon, and in the evening Miss Elizabeth Robinson will be hostess at a supper dance at Hearthcase, the Summer home of her mother.

On Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James will entertain the players with a luncheon aboard their yacht Aloha at noon. Miss Julia Berwind on Friday night will give a dance at the Elms and on Saturday night the feature will be a débutante party to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Williams Burden at Oakwood in honor of Miss Martha B. Kountze.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Walters will give a dinner at Sherwood tomorrow night.

The feature entertainment tomorrow night will be the fancy dress dancing party of Lieutenant and Mrs. Benjamin R. Holcomb at Gull Rock, which will follow a round of dinner parties. There are also to be several luncheons.

PACIFISM IS OPPOSED AT PEACE CONFERENCE

Armies Are Defended by French at Bierville From Resolution Against Conscription.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BIERVILLE, France, Aug. 20.—Confusion ruled today's session of the International Democratic Peace Congress because of unbridgeable differences between the elder delegates, supporters of the League of Nations, and younger delegates, allied with delegates of peoples who are under allen rule, who insist on a stand for real pacifism.

A resolution condemning compulsory military service and approving conscientious objectors was strongly opposed by the French delegates, led by Professor Giraud of the Univers y of Paris. He argued that compulsion is necessary for armies to defeat an aggressor in an unjust war and to enforce international decisions in case of a just war—the justice or injustice depending on the decision of the League of Nations. Professor Giraud obtained the insertion of an amendment approving military compulsion for just wars, despite the strenuous opposition of the youths, supported by the American delegates.

In the discussion of the resolution of the Indo-China delegate recommending liberation of oppressed peoples, Rene Valfort of the French Socialist Party, of which Alexandre Varenne, the present Governor General of Indo-China also is a member, unsuccessfully suggested the insertion of "progressive" liberation.

The Asiatic resolution, supported by American youths, "condemns colonization on account of its injustice and its violation of the right of peoples to self-determination, and also causes wars and recommends that all colonies without exception be put under the control of the League of Nations, in which they will be represented independently with a view to complete liberation." This encountered fierce opposition, resulting in its postponement until tomorrow.

The Asiatics pointed out that the decline of pacifism in Asia is due to the belief that liberation from European rule and exploitation is possible only by means of force, and therefore urged that delegates be instructed to act in their respective countries to prevent bloodshed by working for the liberation of Asiatic peoples.

The congress is expected to end on Sunday after its plenary session.

SUMMER COLONISTS SHINE IN "FULL O' PEP"

Quogue Field Club Gives a Musical Revue at Clubhouse in Aid of Charities.

Special to The New York Times.

QUOGUE, L. I., Aug. 20.—Summer colonists from all parts of the Hamptons turned out tonight in full force at the opening performance of "Full o' Pep," the amateur musical revue that the Quogue Field Club is staging at the clubhouse for the benefit of local charities. An additional performance will be given tomorrow night, to be followed by dancing.

Seldom has an amateur revue been staged here on such an elaborate scale as "Full o' Pep." The committee spared no expense to give the revue every appearance of a professional Broadway production, although every member of the cast was an amateur. "Full o' Pep" has two acts and fifteen scenes. Every number on the program was enthusiastically applauded and many encores were given.

Among those who took part in the revue were the Misses Cornelia Fabian, Florence Follmer, Mary Thomas, Ruth Bower, Halette Ransom, Marion Somerville, Marguerite Greeff, Caroline Munnittrick, Arline Belcher, Florence Read, Kappie Fay, Casilda Clark, Betty Buechner, Charlotte Boettger, Margit Boettger, Helen Greeff, Mary Schroeder, Edna Redmond, Dorothy Bughee, Natalie Follmer, Sally Joost, Zella Crook, Marjorie Koster, Natica de Acosta, Betty Smith, Constance Read, Julia Stebbins, Doris Koster, Viola Calder, Dorothy Fabian, Katherine Cerf, Stephanie Plum, Janette Rebele, Mrs. Mary Longman, Henry Stebbins, Arthur Stebbins, Stanley Andrew, Edward Greeff, Charles Kelsey, Jack Cornwell, Robert Rebele, Ronald Clark, Livingston Pell, Donald Greeff, Douglas Froeb and William Fish.

PROPHECY SESSION CLOSES.

Pastor at Stony Brook Scores Non-Believers in God's Power.

STONY BROOK, L. I., Aug. 20.—The conference on the study of sacred prophecy, interdenominational in scope, which has been in session here since last Sunday, closed today with an address by the Rev. Dr. William N. Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Dallas, Texas. Two hundred clerical and fifty lay delegates attended.

"People today will believe absolutely anything in the world except the word of God," Dr. Anderson said. "The uncertainty of the power of God is one of the most harmful things in our civilization. But the demonstrated power of God is the best answer to non-believers."

ASTORS GUESTS OF SCHIFF.

Viscount and Viscountess at Dinner Party on Financier's Yacht.

BARK HARBOR, Me., Aug. 20 (AP) —Viscount and Viscountess Astor, who are nearing the end of a three weeks' visit with Lady Astor's sister, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, wife of the artist, of Seven Hundred Acre Island, were the guests tonight of Mortimer L. Schiff of New York at a dinner party on his yacht in the harbor. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson and their daughter, Mrs. George Post, were among the guests.

The Astors and their children will leave Sunday for a visit at Lady Astor's birthplace in Virginia.

Rev. Dr. McDowell a Grandfather.

The Rev. Dr. John McDowell of New York and East Orange, Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions, became a grandfather yesterday morning when a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cortelyou Cory of 52 Berwyn Street, East Orange. Mrs. Cory, before her marriage a year ago, was Miss Phoebe McDowell, only child of Dr. and Mrs. McDowell. The infant, who has been named Anne Cortelyou, was born in the Orange Memorial Hospital. Last evening Miss Anne had a call from her great-grandmother, Mrs. Phoebe T. Fowler, who makes her home with Dr. and Mrs. McDowell at 46 South Arlington Avenue, East Orange.

"Real Property"

Real Property has been defined as real estate. Yet there are many securities that in soundness, yield and marketability are to be preferred to land as an investment. They represent Real Property and in addition stabilized guaranteed earning power. We are glad to advise on investments which fall within this category.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Drift Moderately Lower in Listless Trading—Wheat Up on Increased Foreign Demand.

Yesterday's market fluctuations were very similar to those which have occurred on previous days this week, which is to say that the market drifted about aimlessly, reflecting a great deal of confusion, but that generally the trend was toward moderately lower levels. There was apparently no especial haste to get out of stocks, but nevertheless the confident manner of bidding up stocks, to which Wall Street has become accustomed during the rousing markets of midsummer, was no longer in evidence, and when offerings appeared, as they did liberally, they were taken at concessions. There were some half-hearted attempts to bid up stocks at the end of the first hour and just before the close, but it was quite well understood that these were little more than attempts of professional operators to repurchase stocks which they had sold for the decline, and were without particular significance as indicating organized market support.

The best resistance to the pressure of liquidation was shown by the railroad stocks, as has been the case most of this week. Some of the railroad issues which have advanced vigorously during the past three weeks were quite heavy, but in their place new leaders were brought forward and moderate gains were established by a handful of them. The first of the July railroad statements, published yesterday, indicated that earnings for the month will be fully as satisfactory as those of June, a reflection, of course, of the active rate of freight distribution this Summer, resulting in the rolling up of eleven consecutive weeks in which car loadings of the first class railroads of the country aggregated more than 1,000,000 cars per week.

The weekly trade reviews continue to testify to the comfortable position of business and emphasize the fact that in most lines the outlook is extremely promising. Dun's Review stated that "competition for orders in most departments is keen, but this is resulting in greater efficiency in distribution and production and less complaint is heard regarding possible reduction in profit." Bradstreet's said that "doubt as to the ultimate crop out-turn and prices is still a checkrein on Fall buying, but that the trend is in the direction of improvement in wholesale trade." It was added, however, that "present prospects for the farming industry are said to be for a reduced money value—4.5 per cent., perhaps—for the crops, most of this in cotton, owing to lower prices ruling for that staple." The commodity markets yesterday were featured by a sharp upswing in wheat prices due mainly to increased inquiry from Europe, whose buying all week has been of impressive sort. Cabled news from abroad about the crop situation contained the statement that there will be a considerable shrinkage in the wheat out-turn in France as compared with preliminary expectations. It has been estimated that European buyers have contracted for at least 1,000,000 bushels of wheat per day on practically every market day this week.

BOARD STRIKES SNAG IN RAIL PAY DISPUTE

RESUME HEARINGS TUESDAY

Both Sides Hold Firm in Wage Controversy—Present Case Regarded as a Test.

The newly created Federal Board of Mediation has encounted a deadlock in its first attempt to solve a railroad wage dispute, according to information disclosed in railroad circles yesterday. This is held to be the explanation for the suspension of hearings in the case begun Aug. 10 at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Discussions between the board and representatives of the Conference Committee of five Eastern railroads, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Order of Railroad Conductors ceased on Aug. 14. It was then announced that hearings would be resumed Aug. 17. They have, however, been further postponed to next Tuesday.

Since the last hearing, members of the Mediation Board have conferred with the railroad excutives and with the union representatives, according to well-informed circles, and it is said that both sides have held to their respective positions. Railroad men are particularly interested in the outcome of the present negotiations, since it is held that they will provide an authoritative test of the Mediation Board's ability to adjust disputes of this nature.

It was held in railroad circles that the two unions involved in the controversy have everything to gain and nothing to lose by accepting the offices of the Mediation Board, but that the unions have not accepted any compromise plan that would affect their demands. It was said also that, although the fact was not generally known, the Conference Committee is empowered without further authorization of the railroads to reject finally the demands of the labor men or to decline any further profer of services by the Mediation Board. It is considered most likely, however, that the committee would report to the managements of the railroads before taking final action.

Colonel Samuel E. Winslow, Chairman of the Mediation Board, is out of town. Other members of the board are not expected to return until Tuesday's meeting.

SILZER'S BANK TO OPEN AT 59 LIBERTY STREET

Interstate Trust Company Will Have Capital of $2,000,000 and $600,000 Surplus at Start.

The Interstate Trust Company, with former Governor George S. Silzer of New Jersey as its President, is preparing to open for business in the Wall Street district, it was learned yesterday. It will occupy quarters in the ground floor of the Chamber of Commerce Building at 59 Liberty Street.

The new company will have a capital of $2,000,000 and surplus of $600,000. It is the first new trust company to obtain a charter for operation in downtown New York in seven years, the last having been the American Trust Company. The site of the new institution is regarded as one of the most desirable banking locations in the financial district. It is across the street from the Federal Reserve Bank and within a block or two of the largest financial institutions in Wall Street. One of the purposes of the new company, it is stated, is to be a "bank for bankers."

The directorate of the new trust company will cover a wide range of banking and business personnel. Among those mentioned in connection with the organization of the company are John W. Doty, Chairman of the Foundation Company; Eugene P. Thomas, President of the United States Steel Products Corporation; Ralph Wolf of the law firm of Hays, Hershfield & Wolf; Isaac Alpern, President of the Perth Amboy Trust Company; Curtis Fetterolf, Vice President of the Interntaional Mercantile Marine Company; Samuel J. Bloomingdale of Bloomingdale Brothers, Inc.; John W. Burrows, President of the American Woolen Company, and De Witt Millhauser of Speyer & Co.

Subscription books of the new company were opened this month, and it is understood that the capital was oversubscribed three or four times. The 20,000 shares of capital stock of $100 par value were offered at $130. Mr. Silzer was Chairman of the Organization Committee, and associated with him on it were Messrs. Thomas and Wolf.

CHELSEA BANK EXPANSION.

Increase In Stock to Result From Opening Two Branches.

Edward S. Rothchild, President of the Chelsea Bank, announced yesterday that expansion plans, which include the opening of two new branches, will result soon in an increase in the capital stock. The size of the increase and the question whether the present 6 per cent. dividend rate would be maintained or increased, he said, have not been decided.

One of the new branches, for which a permit has just been issued, will be located at Claremont Parkway and Third Avenue. Temporary quarters will be used there, pending completion of permanent quarters in the Fall. The second branch will be located at Bedford Avenue and Fulton Street, Brooklyn.

The new twenty-four story bank building at Thirty-sixth Street and Eighth Avenue is nearing completion, and the Chelsea Bank will occupy banking rooms there about Christmas. All the branches have safe deposit facilities. Lewis H. Rothchild, Vice President of the bank, is sailing for Europe today on a six-weeks visit.

Denatured Alcohol Price Up 1 Cent.

An advance of 1 cent a gallon in the price of completely denatured alcohol, Formula No. 1, was announced yesterday by the Kentucky Alcohol Company. The advance was made necessary, the company said, by a heavy increase in price on denatured grade methyl alcohol, which forms a large percentage of completely denatured, Formula No. 1. This quotation makes the price of completely denatured, Formula No. 1, 188-proof, for September-December delivery in tank cars, 31½ cents a gallon, and in drums in car lots, 33½ cents a gallon.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

French, Belgian and Spanish Currencies Higher—Sterling Is Unchanged.

French and Belgian francs furnished almost the only movements among the European exchanges yesterday, both displaying a firm tone. The French unit, at 2.84¾ cents, closed at a net gain of 6¾ points for the day, while the Belgian moved up to a net advance of 4¾ points, at 2.74 cents. There was improved sentiment toward francs, both in the New York and European markets, based partly on the further progress made by the Poincaré Government in its plansfor stabilization.

Sterling remained unchanged and the Scandinavian currencies were virtually stationary. The Spanish peseta continued firm and closed with a net gain of .7 points. The Japanese yen continued its upward movement and closed at 48.125 cents. Silver currencies were weak. The Canadian dollar was firm in the neighborhood of the gold shipping point.

BANK CLEARINGS UP 1.3% IN 23 CITIES

Kansas City, Louisville and Pacific Coast Show the Greatest Gains.

Bank clearings at twenty-three leading cities in this country, including New York, again increased this week over the same week last year, the total being $8,209,159,000, or 1.3 per cent. in excess of the $8,106,947,000 reported for the week ended Aug. 20, 1925. New York City clearings aggregated $4,780,000,000, a gain of 0.6 per cent. over last year, while those in the other cities were $3,429,159,000, a 2.2 per cent. gain.

Sixteen cities showed increases, the best gains being in Kansas City, Louisville, Portland, Seattle and Los Angeles, while losses were shown at Philadelphia, Baltimore, Buffalo, Omaha, Minneapolis, Richmond and Atlanta.

Following is a table showing the figures for this week, the corresponding week last year, and the average daily bank clearings since the first of this year:

EXPLAINS NEW ISSUES OF PIERCE-ARROW STOCK

Forbes Says 8% Debentures Will Be Retired and Back Dividends on Preferred Liquidated.

Myron E. Forbes, President of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company, made the followjng announcement yesterday regarding the decision of the company's directors to increase its common stock from 328,750 shares to 500,000 shares and to create 40,000 shares of second preferred.

"It is expected at the proper time to offer the additional common shares, giving each holder of two shares of present common the right to subscribe to one new share and devote the proceeds to the retirement of $3,950,000 8 per cent. debentures outstanding. The other issue of 40,000 shares of second preferred will be convertible into two and one-half shares of common stock and will be entitled to cumulative dividends of not exceeding $7 per share and callable at not exceeding $102.50 plus accumulated dividends. The second preferred will be used to liquidate the $4,000,000 of arrears of dividends on the company's present preferred stock.

"When the plans are carried out the company will have no bonds outstanding and its capitalization will consist of $10,000,000 of 8 per cent. preferred stock, $4,000,000 of second preferred stock and 500,000 shares of common, or, if the second preferred stock is converted, of $10,000,000 of 8 per cent. preferred stock and 300,000 shares of common."

DENIES BANK CHARTER.

Connecticut Banking Commission Won't Sanction Cos Cob Trust Co.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 20 (AP).—Application of the Cos Cob Trust Company for a charter has been denied by the State Banking Commission because "at the present time public convenience and advantage will not be promoted by the establishment of a bank in the Cos Cob section of Greenwich."

Although there were no personal appearances in opposition at the hearing when the petition was denied, Walter M. Anderson, representing the petitioners, declared that the directors of the Putnam Trust Company of Greenwich had opposed the new bank and were "seeking through agents a charter for a national bank in the same locality."

Further criticism of officials of the Putnam Trust Company was protested by Bank Commissioner J. B. Byrne as "irrelevent." He declared that it was not the commission's province to determine who should apply for a national bank charter.

GERMAN BANK STOCK PRICE.

Dillon, Read & Co. to Distribute Paper of Disconto Gesellschaft.

The 10,000,000 reichsmarks of capital stock of the Disconto Gesellschaft recently purchased by Dillon, Read & Co. are expected to be sold privately rather than by public offering. The 7,500,000 reichsmarks of Disconto stock sold by the same house last year were placed privately, being distributed in units on a dollar basis.

The new stock comprises 25,000 American trust certificates, each certificate representing 400 reichsmarks of capital stock. These units, it is expected, will be sold at a price equivalent to 155 per cent. of par exrights, which figure compares with the current quotation of 165 per cent. with rights on the Berlin Boerse. The difference in price is attributed to the fact that stock now traded in in Berlin has valuable subscription rights which are not applicable to the American stock. The latter represents part of the recent increase in the bank's capital stock.

Want Extra Labor Day Holiday.

A petition is being circulated among members of the New York Stock Exchange requesting that the Board of Governors declare the Saturday before Labor Day a holiday. At the close of business the petition had 316 names signed to it. The Board of Managers of the New York Cotton Exchange has designated Aug. 23, as a day for a vote on the proposal.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Confused price movements, mainly to lower levels, occurred on the Stock Exchange yesterday. While there were a few strong points, notably in the railroad list, the drift of prices in the industrial section was plainly toward lower levels. Losses ranged from fractions to as much as four or five points in the stocks under most severe pressure. There was a quick rally, however, just before the close, which brought many issues back to their opening prices. United States Steel common was under particular pressure, although the net loss of the day was not large. The spread between the high and the low of this stock, as in many other active speculative leaders, was almost four points. The market seemed to be entirely professional. Among the stocks which were able to withstand selling pressure and show gains for the day were Westinghouse Air Brake, Ward Baking, General Asphalt, Northern Pacific and Delaware & Hudson.

The Movement of Market Operators.

Just how professional the stock market has become was demonstrated rather aptly yesterday when Wall Street made a marked factor of importance out of the fact that William C. Durant was going to sail for Europe next week. This was seized upon as indicating that he is not now heavily long of stock, which may or may not be true.

***

Prospects for Northwestern Roads.

Agricultural conditions in the Northwest are highly favorable to operation of the railroads there within the next few months, according to opinion in railroad circles. Grain and fruit crops promise heavy traffic. Livestock possibilities are excellent. Aside from the direct benefit to the roads in increased agricultural traffic, it is held that prosperity among the farmers will mean a quickening of trade that will bring still further traffic. No car shortage is expected, since all roads have prepared for a large crop movement.

Unusual Movements of Gold.

Additional shipments of gold to Germany by the New York Federal Reserve Bank this week raised the total of such transfers to $15,000,000 for the present movement, which began three weeks ago. This drew attention to the somewhat unusual movements of gold which have taken place this month. The shipments to Germany represent use of the ear-marked gold held here for the Reichsbank. Such transfers are not unusual, but the present movement is the largest in months. The New York Federal Reserve Bank is about to receive from San Francisco $30,000,000 of Australian gold to be held here for the account of the Bank of England. There have been fairly heavy shipments of gold to Canada from this country, an unusual development for this time of year, and accounted for by recent financing here for Canadian industries. It had been expected that in the next few months London would send gold here as a result of commodity purchases, but it is now believed that the necessity for this will be obviated by the receipt of the Australian gold.

General Motors Sells Ex.

In view of the fact that the quarterly dividend of $2.62½ was no longer payable on General Motors shares, the stock showed strength in yesterday's market. News that the shares were selling ex dividend created considerable confusion in brokerage houses, where it was necessary to explain that the "ex" referred to the cash and not the stock dividend.

***

More Foreign Loans Coming.

The impetus given to foreign financing by the flotation of $30,000,000 of foreign bonds this week will be reflected in further activity along the same lines in the remainder of the present month. The Republic of Chile has sold a $10,000,000 bond issue to a New York banking group, and a large volume of Hungarian financing also is likely to reach the market soon. Recent foreign bond offerings have been readily absorbed by the investing public, and a large portion of the new offerings has been made up of foreign and public utility securities. These issues as a class have been furnishing one of the firm spots of the bond market recently.

Speculative Bonds Rise.

The bond market yesterday developed more activity than has been general in the last few weeks and the movement of prices for the most part was upward. This was particularly marked in parts of the foreign list. German industrial issues such as the Rheinelbe Steel and the German General Electric bonds advanced in response to the strength in their related stocks, which added to the value of the stock purchase warrants attached to the bonds. In the domestic list also the most marked strength was in the more or less speculative issues, notably the convertibles, which usually follow the stock market. An example of this was furnished by Skelly Oil 6½s, which closed at 146¼. While this represented only a fractional gain for the day, it followed a steady upward movement from a low point of the year of 112 for this issue.

Chicago & Alton.

Delay in reorganizing the Chicago & Alton has caused some conjecture as to developments in that quarter. One suggestion made is that some railroad group may contemplate including the road in a merger. The Loree merger in the Southwest naturally has been made the subject of some reports circulated in this connection. Apparently those who have given the reports serious consideration have believed that Mr. Loree's proposed system could advantageously use a line from St. Louis to Chicago. However, well informed circles hold that there is no likelihood of such a step in furtherance of the Loree merger. They base this opinion on the belief that acquisition of such a line would bring problems in rivalry and competition from other roads that would offset any advantages.

***

Canadian Trade Outlook.

Encouraging reports as to the prospects for trade in Canada have come in and their general trend demonstrates that business is progressing more or less in parallel in the Dominion to that of this country. There has been some slackening of activity in many lines, but the recession has not been as pronounced as was anticipated in the earlier months of the year. Crop reports, like those of this country, show that the inclement weather still holds out some uncertainty as to the ultimate figures, but that there is promise in the crops on the whole. Business is on the upward at the leading cities of the Dominion, wholesalers and retailers are expressing confidence in the outlook and industry is definitely quickening.

The Textiles.

Following a number of months of inactivity and poor business the textile trade is now looking up, and with the approach of Fall and Winter there has come an almost definite promise of a considerable betterment. The initial indication of this promise comes with the news that a number of Southern cotton mills have gone on full time. While this is to be expected with the completion of the first cotton crop, it was not anticipated that the return toward normal would come so soon or in so widespread a degree as it has. Fairly large volumes of business are reported in sight in almost all the various textile lines, and with the passing of two or three more weeks textile men anticipate a substantially more favorable position for the industry.

MONEY.

FRIDAY, AUG. 20, 1926.

The fact that some amounts of call money are available in the "outside market" at 4¼ per cent., as compared with the Stock Exchange rate of 4½ per cent., demonstrates the ease in the money market at the moment. Rates were unchanged yesterday from the previous day, and despite that funds borrowed yesterday were to be retained until Monday, the demand was light. A good supply of funds was at the "money desk" all day.

APPLY FOR LISTING OF NEW SECURITIES

Nine Corporations and One Country Seek Trading Rights on Exchange.

BRAZIL $60,000,000 BONDS

Curb Admits Several to Unlisted Privileges—Issues Rulings on Others.

Applications were made by nine companies and one country to list securities on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday, and the Committee on Stock Listing may act upon them at its next meeting. A number of rulings were handed down by the Subcommittee on Securities of the New York Curb Exchange involving admission of securities to and expulsion from unlisted trading privileges and deliveries against contracts.

The Stock Exchange applications follow:

United States of Brazil, $60,000,000 of 6½ per cent. external sinking fund gold bonds of 1926, due Oct. 1, 1957; Mortgage Bank of Chile, $20,000,000 of guaranteed 6% per cent. sinking fund gold coupon bonds of 1926, due June 30, 1961; B. MORE GOLD TO GERMANY.

A $5,000,000 Shipment Sent by Federal Reserve Bank This Week.

An additional $5,000,000 in gold was shipped to Germany this week by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, making a total of $15,000,000 of such transfers since the present movement began about three weeks ago. The gold was part of the ear-marked supply held here as an external reserve of the German Reichsbank and subject to call as desired by the German authorities.

The ear-marked supply was established at the time of the flotation of the $110,000,000 Dawes plan loan in 1924 and there have been accumulations as a result of trade settlements and other factors. It is not known what balance is now held here by Germany. There have been other shipments at times, but the present movement is the largest that has developed in months. Further shipments of gold to Canada are expected within the next few days, as Canadian exchange remains at a premium of five thirty-seconds of 1 per cent., at which gold shipments are profitable.

GUM AND MICA MERGER.

Seven Companies of United States and Canada Consolidated.

Consolidation of seven gum and mica products companies in this country and Canada was announced last night with the news of the formation of the National Gum and Mica Company. The companies merging are the National Gum and Mica Company of New York, the National Gum and Mica Company of Canada, Ltd., the General Adhesive Manufacturing Company, Inc., of New York, the General Adhesive Manufacturing Company of Boston, Spear, Simmons & Co., Inc., of Philadelphia, Finishing Compounds, Inc., of New York, and Meredith, Simmons & Co., Ltd.

Alexander Alexander is President of the newly formed concern and the other officers are Eli D. Cohen, Vice President, Secretary and General Manager; George M. Simmons, Second Vice President, and Frank Greenwald, Treasurer. The company has branch offices at Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Charlotte, N. C., San Francisco, London, Berlin, Paris, Calcutta and other points in the Orient.

Oudin, Vice President, International General Electric Company; W. W. Nichols, President, American Manufacturers Export Association, and B. L. Winchell, President, Remington Typewriter Company.

WEEK'S NEW BONDS TOTAL $46,709,000

BONDS READILY ABSORBED

Other Large Foreign Offerings Will Be Put on Market Soon—Chile Places $10,000,000 Here.

New bond offerings this week totaled $46,709,000, compared with $33,975,000 last week and $49,054,000 in the corresponding week of last year. Foreign loans furnished the greatest part of the week's activity, and several important issues in this division are scheduled for the market soon. The offerings, by groups, of this and last week follow:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Foreign	$29,500,000	$
Public Utility	12,700,000	22,900,000
State and Municipal	3,209,000	7,825,000
Industrial	800,000	3,250,000
Farm Loan	500,000
Total	$46,709,000	$33,975,000

Three important foreign issues were brought out during the week, a $16,000,000 loan to Peru, an $8,000,000 issue of the Savings Banks and Clearing Association of Germany, representing a consolidated municipal loan, and $5,500,000 bonds of the Havana Electric Railway Company. This was the greatest activity that has taken place in foreign financing in weeks. All the issues were readily absorbed.

The National Power & Light Company furnished the largest issue in the public utility division with the sale of $9,500,000 bonds, and smaller amounts were issued by two other utility concerns. The industrial financing of the week consisted of two issues by coal mining companies, while in the municipal field the largest issues were sold by the cities of White Plains and Yonkers. There was one farm loan issue.

Announcement was made yesterday that a $10,000,000 loan for the Republic of Chile had been purchased by Blair & Co. Negotiations for this loan had been in progress for weeks. Public offering probably will be made early next week. The coupon rate and maturity of the loan have not yet been determined. At present, Chilean Government 8 per cent. bonds are selling on the New York Stock Exchange around 104¾, and its 7s are selling at 101. Proceeds of the new loan will be used to meet Government obligations.

Other foreign loans being negotiated include a considerable volume of Hungarian financing. Speyer & Co., who have arranged more Hungarian financing than any other American firm, are understood to be preparing for a total of $20,000,000 loans, to be divided between the city of Budapest and a group of Hungarian cities and towns. The Speyer firm advanced $2,000,000 last June to Budapest under a plan that contemplated later refunding into a long-term bond issue. In July, 1925, the Speyer firm brought out a $10,000,000 Hungarian consolidated municipal loan and it is understood a similar transaction is contemplated now. There also are discussions of a $5,000,000 loan for Belgrade, and a report that Tokio will borrow $25,000,000 here has been revived.

GAINS IN OUTPUT OF POWER

Reported by Associated Gas and American Water Works Systems.

Gains in power output were reported yesterday by the Associated Gas and Electric and American Water Works and Electric systems.

The Associated system reported that in the four weeks ended Aug. 13 total electrical output was 54,647,385 kilowatt hours, an increase of 6,135,373 kilowatt hours, or 12.6 per cent. over the same period last year. Net power output of American Water Works for July was 113,792,305 kilowatt hours, an increase of 10,240,062 kilowatt hours, or about 10 per cent. from July, 1925. Output for the first seven months of the year totalled 831,838,657 kilowatt hours, an increase of 93,323,379 kilowatt hours, or 12½ per cent. from the same period last year.

Chemical Market Less Active.

Because of the seasonal position of manufacturing industries, the consuming demand for chemicals has been less active in recent weeks, but prospects for the latter part of the year are promising, Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering reports. Higher prices have been reached by tin salts, copper sulphate, copperas, methanol and formaldehyde, but the weighted index number declined under the influence of lower quotations on sulphate of ammonia, sal soda and various coal tar chemicals, and settled at 113.33, as against 113.66 in July.

Florida Power and Light Net Up.

July net earnings of the Florida Power and Light Company and its subsidiaries were $416,393, or an increase of 42 per cent. over those for the same month last year. Gross this year reached $1,196,459, a gain of 57 per cent. over July, 1925. For the seven months to July 31 the net aggregated $3,467,585, or 49 per cent. above the same period last year.

DOMESTIC COTTONS IN HIGHER ESTEEM

American Mills Now Surpass Foreign, Says Representative of Textile Merchants.

DROP IN IMPORTS OF CLOTHS

Increased Favorable Balance for Textile Trade for Last Fiscal Year Reported.

An increased favorable trade balance for the cotton textile industry is demonstrated for the last fiscal year against the preceding year, according to figures obtained from executives of the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York. Estimates of the exports and imports for the fiscal period show that the trade balance for the last immediate period increased by 11 per cent. over that of the previous comparable period.

While both exports and imports of cotton cloths declined during the year, imports experienced a much greater recession than exports. The result was a favorable balance last year, approximately 50,000,000 square yards greater than the favorable balance of the year before. Exports of cotton cloth during the fiscal year 1925-26 reached approximately 450,000,000 square yards more than imports, while for the preceding fiscal year they were only 400,000,000 square yards.

"The decline in exports during the year was relatively small and was directly in line with the year's total export movement from the United States," an executive of the association said. "The decline in imports, on the other hand, was not only unusually large, but also contrary to the total movement of the country's imports. The fact that imports of cotton cloths decreased, while total imports increased, is viewed as a direct result of the greater demand for products of the domestic cotton mills.

"The decline in imports further denotes the successful efforts of American manufacturers to produce materials superior in quality to the foreign products. American buyers are finding that American mills can not only compete in quality of goods with foreign manufacturers, but can surpass them. Department of Commerce figures for the first five months of this year show an increase of 1.8 per cent. in billings, and an increase of 4.5 per cent. in shipments of domestic finished goods, as compared with the corresponding period in 1925, while in orders received for gray yardage an increase was reported amounting to 6.2 per cent."

Plumbing and Heating Market.

Several price changes featured the plumbing and heating market this week, one large pottery manufacturer advancing the prices of staple washdown bowls and tanks to levels which existed before the generous reductions of last June, Domestic Engineering reports. The range-boiler market fell off again with the announcement of a further decline of 5 per cent. Prices of cast iron screwed and flanged fittings increased. Other markets continued firm and for the most part unchanged.

Westchester & Boston Net Rises.

Gross earnings of the New York, Westchester & Boston Railroad in July were $165,356 against $142,431 in July, 1925, and net earnings after taxes were $48,302 against $36,378. Gross earnings for the first seven months were $1,067,271 against $931,562 last year and net earnings after taxes were $277,934 against $205,812.

UTILITIES OPEN FIGHT TO GET TAX REBATES

First of Suits Against Towns in Westchester Starts in Albany Today.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, Aug. 20.—The first of a series of more than 600 actions, brought by the Westchester Lighting Company and Northern Westchester Lighting Companies, to collect rebates of special franchise taxes alleged to be due on account of excess assessments, since 1911, will be started in Albany tomorrow. A certiorari action in which the Westchester Lighting Company asks for a referee to hear one case against the City of New Rochelle will be fought in the special term of the Supreme Court before Justice George Russell.

New Rochelle will be represented by B. C. Turner of Oswego, a former Deputy Attorney General, who also represents Ossining and other Westchester communities in the actions, and by Corporation Counsel Charles A. Van Auken.

The lighting companies are seeking to recover several hundred thousand dollars from the various tax districts in Westchester. Mount Vernon is considering compromising for $30,000 an action that might cost the city $90,000.

Tarrytown, the Pelhams, together with New Rochelle and other communities have decided to fight the actions. Opinions differ as to the chances of the lighting company collecting, if the case is brought to court. It is estimated that there is a total of about $700,000 in special franchise taxes in Westchester which may have to be refunded.

GASOLINE CONSUMPTION UP.

Thirty States Used 886,508,000 Gallons in June, Survey Shows.

Gasoline consumption in thirty States, where collection of gasoline taxes or operation of inspection makes such data available, shows 886,508,000 gallons used in June, an increase of 50,191,000 gallons, or 13.9 per cent., over consumption in June of last year.

Consumption of 45,011,000 gallons for Texas, according to figures compiled by the American Petroleum Institute, was the largest of any State on the list. It showed a gain of nearly 5,000,000 gallons over June, 1925, and 2,000,000 over May this year. Indiana was second, with 28,616,000 gallons, gaining more than 3,000,000 over June last year and nearly 5,000,000 over May, 1926.

Florida's gain continued the largest of any State. June consumption of 22,234,000 gallons was more than 8,000,000, or about 58 per cent., larger than June last year. In the first half year Florida consumed 152,605,000 gallons, compared with 88,064,000 in the first half of last year, an increase of 64,601,100 gallons, or 71 per cent.

HARLEM BANK TO EXPAND.

Increase of Capital From $200,000 to $500,000 Proposed.

Directors of the Harlem Bank of Commerce, which commenced business on May 2, 1925, with a capital of $200,000, announced plans yesterday for an increase of 150 per cent. in the capital stock. The proposal, to raise the stock to $500,000, will be submitted to the stockholders next month.

The bank also declared its first dividend, placing its stock on a $6 annual basis. The dividend is a quarterly one of 1½ per cent. and is payable on Oct. 1 to stockholders of record of Sept. 15. Benjamin Weeks was elected a Vice President of the bank.

WEEK'S TRADE FAIR; INDUSTRIES ACTIVE

Dun's and Bradstreet's Report Progress Satisfactory and Outlook Good.

INDUSTRY SPEEDING UP

Activity Most Marked in Cotton and Autos—Wholesale Business Improving.

Further satisfactory progress in trade has been noted this week, and although retail sales have been retarded slightly in some sections by inclement weather, business on the whole has been good, and wholesale trade has recorded a definite improvement. With the close of the vacation period at hand, business men in all parts of the country are looking forward to an increase in business activity in all lines.

Industry is gaining momentum, with automobile production schedules increased and some Southern cotton mills going on full time as the leading indications. The coal trade has been aided by continuance of the British strike and the current lumber trade equals that of a year ago. Crops are regarded with some doubt, but not sufficient to cause any alarm.

Dun's Weekly Review of Trade says:

"Bank clearings for August, which measure the volume of bank settlements, are unprecedented in amount and approach closely the heavy aggregate for the early months of the year. The July foreign trade statement, both as to imports and exports, reflects further expansion in the merchandise movement abroad. Manufacturers are bettering their schedules and wholesale distributive trade shows signs of improvement. Purchasing for Autumn requirements already has commenced and the present outlook is very favorable. Sales during the week were retarded in some sections by the uncertain weather, but notwithstanding, department store business thus far this year is in excess of the same period last year.

"There is still some irregularity as to commodities, but even in those lines which have not shared equally in the forward movement, the outlook is more promising. The steady buying of iron and steel, which shows every indication of being maintained for some time to come, reflects the confidence of consumers in the future and constitutes a reassuring phase of the general business situation."

Bradstreet's comments as follows:

"Doubt as to the ultimate crop outturn and prices is still a checkrein on Fall buying, but the trend is in the direction of improvement in wholesale buying. In the Spring-wheat Northwest, threshings are very irregular and buying goes ahead conservatively. Copious rains have helped late corn and made for a better tone, especially in the eastern half of the belt, with favorable reflection on rural buying for the Fall. The cotton crop situation is, as a whole, good, and where picking and marketing have begun, wholesale trade is expanding. Retail trade has been of a good Summer volume, with sales of light-weight goods resulting in a fairly good business.

"Among the industries, steel leads, with capacities ranging from 75 to 85 per cent., or about 10 per cent. above 1925, with implement and automobile makers the chief buyers. Buying of rails and cars by railroads is only moderate. The coal trade finds more occupation because of the British coal strike, and this country's shipments to Britain or to Britain's customers are heavy. The automobile industry is increasing its schedules, and at the leading centre employment is said to be nearly normal."

AWAIT HUPP STOCK ISSUE.

Bankers Feel That New Shares May Go on Regular Dividend Basis.

The recent action of the directors of the Hupp Motor Car Company increasing its capital stock from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 shares has created conjecture in the financial district as to the method in which the new stock will be issued. It is regarded as unlikely that the directors will follow the General Motors plan of issuing a 50 per cent. stock dividend.

Bankers feel that it would be more in line with the present policy of the company to put the outstanding shares on a regular stock dividend basis and thereby retain ample working capital for 1927. It is said in some quarters that the initial stock dividend might be in the neighborhood of 10 per cent.

McIntyre Mines' Net Declines.

The McIntyre Porcupine Mines, Ltd., of Toronto, Canada, shows for the year ended June 30 earnings of $1,153,131, after taxes, depreciation, &c., equal to $1.44 a share, par $5, on 798,000 shares of stock, against $1,253,766, or $1.57 a share the year before.

STEADINESS HOLDS ON COUNTER MARKET

Trading Satisfactory, Several Issues Rising One to Five Points in Day.

BANK SHARES ACTIVITIES

Liberty National Scores Increase on the Rumor of a Proposed Merger.

Trading and inquiry proceeded at a satisfactory pace on the over-the-counter market yesterday. Steadiness prevailed throughout the day, several issues were up from 1 to 5 points on light dealings and fair inquiry, and some stocks displayed activity at current high levels.

The industrial section was featured by an early rise of 5 points in Armstrong Cork, while Singer Manufacturing, United States Trucking and Winchester first preferred advanced several points each. Phelps-Dodge continued in active demand at practically the high on the current advance. International Silver held firm and was up fractionally. Zieley Processes, National Baking Units, Johns-Manville and Industrial Finance eased off from 1 to 5 points. Woodward Iron ran up sharply in the late trading.

Among the bank issues Hamilton National held firm and rose 5 points. Irving Bank-Columbia Trust scored an additional gain, and Liberty National came in for a 5-point rise on rumor of a merger.

McLellan Stores was the prominent performer of the chain stores group, adding another 5 points to its recent gain. Other chain store stocks remained quiet. Public utility shares were unchanged, sugar and tobacco stocks were quiet, insurance shares were dull and bonds very quiet.

Miller Rubber Earns $744,101.

The Miller Rubber Company reports for the opening six months of this year a net income of $744,101, after depreciation, Federal taxes, &c., equal, after 8 per cent. preferred dividends, to 95 cents a share earned on 260,089 shares of no par common stock.

DENIES END IS NEAR IN GARMENT STRIKE

BUSIEST MONTHS AT HAND

Head of Workers Points to Influx of Buyers and Asserts Jobbers' Shelves Are Empty.

Following a get-together meeting in the Hotel Pennsylvania last week, there was a report that chances for peace in the garment industry were brighter. The meeting, it was reported, was called at the instance of Raymond V. Ingersoll, impartial Chairman in the industry. It was his first public appearance since the beginning of the strike. Those who attended the conference would not discuss it.

Peace is still far off, it was said yesterday, by Henry H. Finder, President of the Industrial Council of the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, Inc.

"It is regrettable but true that all prospects of peace are made remote by a factional fight in the union," Mr. Finder said. "It is unfortunate that this $300,000,000 industry, the greatest in this city, must suffer irreparable losses while two factions of labor strive for ascendancy.

"We stand ready to place the issues in the hands of the Governor's special commission, but there apparently is no official spokesman for the union. A radical group, which takes its counsel from Benjamin Gitlow and others, is seeking to oust the faction with which we treated when the Governor's commission was formed and which was in power then."

Mr. Finder said the statement that the industry might be forced to move outside of New York was not an empty threat, as the union has branded it. He said that each day manufacturers received invitations from communities within a hundred miles of New York to establish plants in them.

"While we are disgusted," he said, "we are not disheartened, but we are determined not to yield to the demands of the union."

Morris Sigman, President of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, said:

"The truth is that the jobbers have no garments, and as the peak of the producing season approaches, they find their shelves clear of stocks which they may have accumulated from previous seasons. Buyers who are crowding the market now will want more than a promise of delivery. They want merchandise."

Three strikers were arrested at Thirty-eighth Street and Seventh Avenue for blocking the sidewalk. They were Isaac Shapiro, 32 Willard Street; Abraham Selig, 309 Ocean Parkway, Brooklyn, and Max Moskowitz, 149 Madison Street.

WOOL MARKET CONFIDENT.

Prices Move In Narrow Limits, With Most Holders Firm.

BOSTON, Aug. 20 (AP).—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"The wool market is moving along within narrow limits at the moment and prices are no more than steady, although most holders are very firm. Confidence in the future of the market is as unshaken as ever and September is expected to bring a broader, more intense demand.

"Interest in the new lightweight openings of goods is reported as fairly keen. Most of the business placed, however, during the past month has been in the way of late repeat orders for the heavyweight season.

"Foreign markets are decently active and Bradford has done a big business this week and is feeling much better.

"Mohair is steady and without any material change in prices.

"The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from Jan. 1, 1926, to Aug. 19, 1926, inclusive, were 121,239,000 pounds, against 109,021,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from Jan. 1, 1926, to Aug. 19, 1926, inclusive, were 267,922,957 pounds, against 225,449,300 pounds for the same period last year."

BRITONS TURN TO ICE CREAM

Consumption Now 30,000,000 Gallons a Year, Says A. H. Goss.

Great Britain is rapidly becoming a nation of ice cream devotees as a result of electric refrigeration, says A. H. Goss, President of the Electric Refrigeration Corporation of Detroit, who has just returned from a business tour of England. From a consumption that was practically negligible five or six years ago, the British populace has developed one of more than 30,000,000 gallons of ice cream a year, Mr. Goss reports:

The prospects for electric refrigeration in England, as well as in other parts of Europe, were responsible for the establishment of a British subsidiary of the Electric Refrigeration Corporation, to be known as Kelvinator, Ltd., of London, Mr. Goss says. Sales-handling contracts were made also in six Western European countries. Kelvinator, Ltd., will be capitalized at $200,000 of preferred stock and $145,000 of common stock, all of which will be owned by Kelvinator, Ltd., of Canada, another subsidiary of the Detroit corporation.

FISHER LUMBER CORP. FORMED BY MERGER

Fisher Hurd and Pritchard Wheeler Consolidated—New Officers Named.

Preliminary announcement of the merger of the Fisher Hurd Lumber Company and the Pritchard Wheeler Lumber Company, the new concern to be known as the Fisher Lumber Corporation, was made last night by William A. Fisher, President of the Fisher Body Corporation. Mr. Fisher also announced changes in the officials of both the merging companies.

Edward F. Fisher has been elected President of both companies, replacing O. P. Hurd, who resigned, and James M. Clements of Memphis, Tenn., was made Vice President of both companies to succeed Charles T. Fisher, who resigned. Officers of the Fisher Lumber Corporation will be Edward F. Fisher, President; Mr. Clements, Vice President; Keith M. Spurrier, Treasurer, and Thomas S. Merrill, Secretary. Directors, in addition to these officers, will be William A. Fisher, Alfred J. Fisher and Clarence R. Bitting.

Mr. Fisher also announced that the Fisher Body Corporation, through its subsidiaries, recently acquired 60,000 acres of virgin hardwood timber in Louisiana and Arkansas, which additional holdings, together with extensive timber lands previously acquired by Fisher Hurd and Pritchard Wheeler in both Northern and Southern hardwood forests, give Fisher Body ownership of more than 1,500,000,000 feet of standing timber. The lumber cut from these tracts is used by Fisher Body, which was recently acquired by the General Motors Corporation, in the manufacture of bodies for automobiles produced under General Motors' direction.

FIX WATER RATE INQUIRY.

Utility Commissioners to Hear Complaints on Sept. 8.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 20.—The Board of Public Utility Commissioners fixed Sept. 8 today as the date to hear complaints received from customers of the Middlesex Water Company that water rates were unjust and unreasonable. The hearing will be held in the board's Newark quarters.

The history of the rates of the water company is a stormy one. The utility board in 1924 fixed a schedule of rates for the company to which it objected. It appealed to the United States District Court. The Federal tribunal granted an injunction prohibiting the utility board from putting into effect the rate schedule.

Subsequently the board appealed the injunction to the United States Supreme Court, and the case is still pending.

Imports 40,000 bales, against 36,000 the week before, of which American 7,000 bales, against 5,000.

Forwarded, 38,000 bales, against 43,000 the preceding week, of which American 23,000, against 26,000. Exports 5,000 bales, against 7,000 a week ago, of which American 1,000, against 5,000. Sales 35,000 bales, against 31,000 the week before, of which American 18,000, against 16,000.

RAIL OPTIMISM IN WEST.

Great Northern Head Cites Big Crops to Be Moved Soon.

An increase in Great Northern Railroad earnings this year compared with last year is expected by Ralph Budd, President, according to advices from St. Paul. Earnings of the road established a record last year.

A 50,000,000-bushel grain crop in Montana, generally good conditions in North Dakota and a large fruit crop in Washington were cited by Mr. Budd. He said his road planned to haul 20,000 cars out of the Wenatchee Valley in Washington this year, compared with 18,000 last year. Live stock conditions in Montana and North Dakota are excellent and prosperity among the farmers will help lumbering, according to Mr. Budd. There will be no car shortage, in his opinion.

DECLARE ARMOUR DIVIDENDS

The directors of Armour & Co. declared the regular quarterly dividends yesterday on the 7 per cent. preferred stock of Armour & Co. of Illinois, and of Armour & Co. of Delaware, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 10.

President F. Edson White advised the board that the company's domestic business had shown improvement in the last ninety days but that there had been no particular improvement in the South American situation.

CURB PRICES STEADY AT DAY'S CLOSING

Market Marked by Backing and Filling—Dealings Run With More Snap.

UTILITIES RISE TOWARD END

Industrials Pick Up After Dullness in the Morning—Standard Oil Securities Remain Inactive.

In a market that was characterized by a good deal of backing and filling, prices met support in the late dealings in the Curb market yesterday and closed rather steady. Transactions were conducted with a little more snap than on the previous day, with representative securities forging to the fore during the final rally. During the early session quotations for public utilities were rather slow in maturing, but the group played a prominent part in the afternoon rise with such stocks as Associated Gas, Commonwealth Power preferred, which made a new high, German General Electric and the new Columbus Electric and Power prominent.

A majority of industrials showed to advantage in the afternoon following a morning period of easiness and inactivity. In some cases recoveries did not quite bring values above the closing levels of Thursday, but several important issues managed to mark up substantial net gains.

Standard Oil securities continued to show an apathetic tendency and prices in the group failed to do much to better their positions. Even reports of further advances in prices of kerosene, believed to be a forerunner to a rise in gasoline, did not exercise an influence. The bond market continued inactive. Price movements were diversified but changes were extremely small both in the domestic and foreign sections. American Water Works 6s, Cities Service "D" 6s and Saxon Power Works 6½s did manage to move up to high levels, however.

FOR GAS TAX TO AID ROADS.

Jersey League Official Offers Plan to Finance Developments.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 20.—Sedley H. Phinney, Secretary of the State League of Municipalities, said today that he favored expansion of the New Jersey highway system by the development of a network of auxiliary and connecting routes, as has been proposed, and that it should be financed by a tax on gasoline and not by another issue of bonds.

Mr. Phinney's views were set forth in a letter to Senator Arthur N. Pierson of Union County, who last week declared in favor of a bond issue approximating $60,000,000 to raise money for more roads. Mr. Phinney said that a gasoline tax would yield about $6,000,000 a year and would place the burden upon the motorist, who derived the greatest benefit from highway improvements.

The suggestion to increase the assessment of real estate on the theory of enhanced value was often unjust, Mr. Phinney said, since there are many instances in which the added traffic, noise, dirt and other disadvatages were a detriment to property. He said that New Jersey was next to the lowest of any State in the amount of average taxes paid by motorists.

McCULLOUGH WILL CONTEST

Widow of Denver Man Fights Jurisdiction of Court Here.

The tangled affairs of the estate of Frank A. McCullough, who died in Denver, where he had lived since 1897, will be heard in the Surrogate's Court on Oct. 14 next, when his widow, Mrs. Elma N. McCullough of Denver, will contest a will filed by her husband's two sisters here. Mrs. McCullough, who has been granted letters of administration on the estate by a Denver court, contends that the New York court has no jurisdiction over the will, which was filed for probate by Compton & Delaney of 501 Fifth Avenue.

The sisters, Miss Isabelle B. McCullough and Mrs. Adele B. Damman, who are now living abroad, submitted a will, which they allege is the decedent's, two days after Surrogate O'Brien had granted ancillary letters of administration to Franklin A. Wagner, an attorney, of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., representing the widow.

The contested document is dated March 6, 1906, and gives one-half of the estate to the two sisters and the other half in trust for life to the widow. She asserts that the entire estate, real and personal, is in Denver and for that reason this court has no jurisdiction.

HARRY B. JAMES LEFT DEBTS OF $150,652

WILLED ALL TO HIS WIDOW

But She Will Get Nothing Because of Insolvent Affairs—Turned Over $150,000 in Bonds.

Harry B. James, an authority on harbor transportation, said to have been associated in business enterprises with former Congressman George W. Loft, had an estate of $98,729 when he died at his home at Plandome, L. I., on June 7, 1921, but left debts of $150,652, according to the appraisal of his estate filed yesterday. An affidavit filed with the report also says that after the estate had been liquidated the executors collected $86,692, against which there were conceded claims of $149,477 and additional claims of $200,000 which were disputed in whole or in part.

Mr. James, who was President of the Interstate Lighterage and Transportation Company, which failed after his death, was also director of several ferry companies and of the Harbor Motor Trucking Corporation and the Seaboard Warehouses. His will gave his entire estate to his wife, Anna Cleveland James of Waterville, N. Y., whom he married a year or two before his death. Although she will get nothing under his will because of the insolvency of the estate, he gave her $150,000 in stocks in 1920, three months after their marriage, which were not included in the taxable assets. He also transferred to her his elaborate country place at Plandome, which cost him $275,000 at the time of his marriage, but at his death $87,000 was due on contractors' liens, and a suit to foreclose a mortgage on the property had also been brought. The widow transferred the property to the holders of the liens to avoid liability, but a foreclosure decree was entered, resulting in a deficiency judgment for $26,507 against his estate.

The claims against the estate included $14,427 by the Federal Government for income tax in 1919 and $154,000 by the Mechanics National Bank of Trenton, N. J., on notes of himself and the Interstate Company. He owed $47,385 to the Fidelity & Deposit Company on a bond given to the Federal Government and $103,920 to the Carman Ottland Corporation.

AMERICANS ABROAD SPEND $500,000,000

EXCEEDS DEBT PAYMENTS

In 1925 Debtor Nations Paid $187,000,000 and Got From Americans $440,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Unofficial estimates prepared by the Department of Commerce forecast an expenditure this year of $500,000,000 by American tourists in Europe and $190,000,000 as the amount that probably will be spent by Americans visiting Canada, bringing the total to this item, classified as an "invisible export," to $690,000,000.

The amount may reach a much higher figure, as foreign travel this Summer was increased by low third-class steamship rates.

It is too early to determine, officials said today, whether the alleged mistreatment of American tourists in Paris and the criticisms heard in France and England arising out of the interallied debt situation have seriously affected the outward movement of Americans. Officials were inclined to believe that the troubles experienced by American tourists in France have not discouraged other Americans who plan to take their vacations abroad.

While American tourists are now spending about half a billion dollars a year "seeing Europe," the annual expenditures of foreign visitors in the United States go a little above $100,000,000, more than one-fourth of this amount coming from Canada.

Europe in 1925 paid only $187,000,000 in principal and interest on its debts to the United States, while American tourists that year spent at least $440,000,000 in Europe, according to figures prepared by the department.

In 1925 more than 356,155 Americans left the United States, exclusive of those who visited Canada. This was an increase of 18 per cent. over the number that went abroad in the previous year.

According to the department report, the average amount spent by travelers varies, but can be roughly estimated, while the minimum of expenses can be given with reasonable certainty. The report points out that computations of tourist agencies fixed the average expenditure for each American in Europe at $1,250 in 1923 and $1,300 in 1924.

"These travelers are not only a source of profit to European merchants and hotel keepers," the report says, "but also an important source of revenue to European Governments, especially all of the Continental nations which levy taxes on tourists. The rates very from 4 to 25 per cent. of the hotel bill, with frequently an additional charge of 10 to 25 cents a day, and in most countries a passport charge of $10.

"To the total spent by American tourists in Europe, Canada and elsewhere, estimated at $690,000,000, may be added $30,000,000 for the expenditures of Americans residing abroad more or less permanently. The net debit on account of tourists is thus estimated at $560,000,000.

"This item has for many years been a unique feature of the balance sheet of the United States," the department concludes. "Even in the first half of the nineteenth century Americans spent large sums in foreign travel. In the period since 1900 the annual debit total of this invisible import has exceeded $150,000,000, except during the war. No other country, except England, spends nearly so much money in this way. On the contrary, tourists' expenses are a credit item, or invisible export, for most European nations."

ALLOY STEEL ELECTION.

Officers Chosen for New Central Company—Dividends Declared.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 20.—At a meeting held this afternoon the new Board of Directors and permanent officers of the Central Alloy Steel Corporation were elected, as well as members of the Executive Committee and Operating Committee.

They are as follows: Officers—F. J. Griffiths, Chairman of the board; C. E. Stuart, President and Treasurer; B. F. Fairless, Vice President and General Manager; J. M. Schlendorf, Vice President and Director of Sales; C. W. Krieg, Vice President and Secretary; George H. Freeborn, Assistant Treasurer and J. Paul Moseley, Assistant Secretary.

Directors—F. J. Griffiths, C. E. Stuart, B. F. Fairless, J. M. Schlendorf, C. W. Krieg, W. M. Prescott, D. T. Croxton, W. G. Mather, I. M. Taggart, Harry Coulby, C. S. Eaton, J. O. Eaton, Philip Wick, Bayard Dominick and Elton Hoyt.

Executive Committee—Harry Coulby, F. J. Griffiths, C. E. Stuart, W. G. Mather and C. S. Eaton. Operating Committee—F. J. Griffiths, C. E. Stuart, B. F. Fairless, J. M. Schlendorf and J. O. Eaton.

The regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. was declared on the preferred stock and the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common stock. It was further announced that the new blast furnace under construction at the central plant, Massillon, would be blown in on Sept. 23.

CONSUL NOVAK RETURNS.

Says He Never Saw Czechoslovakia in Better Condition.

Dr. Jaroslav Novak, Czechoslovak Consul General in New York, arrived yesterday from a two months' vacation in Europe. He spent most of the time in Czechoslovakia, where he witnessed the gymnastic games which are held at Predin, near Prague, every five years.

"I was tremendously impressed with the games," he said. "As many as 14,600 men, the same number of women, and 20,000 children participated in them. They were held in a stadium which accommodates 150,000 spectators. Frequently as many as 15,000 persons took part in a single rythmic exercise which was executed flawlessly in time to strains of music."

Dr. Novak said that although rains had flooded the rivers, which would have a bad effect upon the crops, he never had seen his country looking better. "A commercial treaty is being negotiated with Hungary," he said, "which is in line with Dr. Benes's policy of establishing economic relations among the Danube States."

To Improve East Chester Creek.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST CHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Representatives of Congress having frontage along East Chester Creek here have formed a committee to present data to the proper governmental officers showing why the creek ought to be improved as a traffic outlet to Long Island Sound. This committee is headed by R. J. Jennings, formerly a school trustee here, who is affiliated with the Westchester Lighting Company.

COTTON PRICES HOLD TO NARROW LIMITS

Impending Semi-Monthly Report Causes Volume of Trading to Contract Sharply.

Most of yesterday's cotton business was transacted within limits of 5 points, and final quotations showed a gain of 2 to a loss of 2 points to the day. The volume of trading contracted sharply under the influence of an approaching semi-monthly report, so that the list failed to move far in either direction. Though foreign prices lost ground at one time, Liverpool recovered and closed at a slight net advance. Evening-up operations accounted for uncertain fluctuations, while the absence of new outside business left an unusually quiet month. The average of private condition figures was 65.3, as compared with 69.3 two weeks ago, and the average indicated crop, 15,231,000, as against 14,942,000 for Aug. 1.

Among the private reports issued yesterday estimates of production were raised in some and reduced slightly in others. The Houseman-Gwathmey Company placed the condition at 68.2 and the indicated crop at 15,500,000, or an increase of 225,000 over the previous estimate. On the other hand, The Memphis Commercial Appeal reduced the indicated crop 68,000 bales to 14,908,000 on a condition of 62.3. The Daily News Record raised the figures nearly 1,00,000 bales to 15,860,000 on a condition of 63.4.

Aside from the rainfall covering the greater portion of Arkansas and Tennessee, where complaints of too much moisture have been received the last few days, little rain fell during the twenty-four hours. Virtually no precipitation was reported in either Texas or Oklahoma, while many points in both States experienced a maximum temperature of 100 degrees. Predictions were for unsettled weather in Arkansas but fair in Texas for today.

Week-end figures showed 139,000 bales in sight, against 174,000 a year ago, making 313,000 for the season, as compared with 367,000 last year. Spinners took 194,000, against 161,000 last year, and for the season 560,000, against 487,000 a year ago. The visible supply decreased 55,000, against a decrease of 13,000 last year, leaving the supply 2,042,000, as compared with 1,005,000 a year ago.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

GOOD TRADING RULES ON RUBBER MARKET

September, October and December Are Active Months—Fair Factory Demand Reported.

Good trading prevailed on the futures market of the Rubber Exchange of New York yesterday, and among the active months September advanced 30 points to 39.80, October went up 20 points to 40.20 and December remained unchanged at 40.90. Business was narrow in the more distant positions, and at the close the best bid on January was 41.10, down 30 points. May also ended the day with a 30-point loss.

A fair factory demand was reported and one large rubber company came into the market more heavily than it had in some months. The total volume on the Exchange amounted to 201 lots, 197 new contracts and four old. The London market closed ¼d down in all positions, except January and March, which was off ¼d. There was fair activity in the outside market here, reflecting an improved inquiry from manufacturers.

	High.	Low.	Close.	Thurs. Close.
January	41.40	40.90	41.10b	41.40

Current Sales Below but Road Sales Above Year and Week Ago.

Special to The New York Times.

—CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Marshall Field & Co. in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods failed to reach either last week's volume or that of the same week a year ago.

"Road sales showed an increase over the total recorded a week ago and were well ahead of last year's volume.

"There were more customers in the market than during the corresponding week a year ago.

"Collections were about equal to the same period last year."

I. R. T. Orders Safety Devices.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company has ordered electric pneumatic interlocking devices with seventy-five levers, including twenty-one automatic train stops and seventy-two signals from the Union Switch and Signal Company. The Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad also ordered electric interlocking devices with twenty-three working parts.

The Southern Railway will install automatic electric signals and lay eighty-five-pound rails on the 262 miles of line of the Georgia Southern & Florida Railway between Macon and Jacksonville. It also will lay the heavier rails on 134 miles of line between Valdosta, Ga., and Palatka, Fla. Bridges and other structures between Chattanooga and Macon are being strengthened to carry the heaviest locomotives.

SEPTEMBER WHEAT RISES TWO CENTS

LIVERPOOL NEWS HELPS

Export Reaches a Million Bushels—Good Buying Lifts Corn—Oats and Rye Gain.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Wheat values were on the upgrade from the start with cash and the September leading the advance, the latter at the top showing 3⅜ cents over the finish of Thursday and 5¼ cents over the inside figure of Tuesday. The finish was at net gains of 1⅝@2⅝ cents, the latter on September, profit taking and selling against offers being the main influence in making the closing reaction.

Sellers of offers were forced to protect themselves at the opening, as general buying made its appearance, due to the unexpected upturn in Liverpool which was up 2¼@3⅜ on the commercial estimate placing the French crop at 220,000,000 bushels, or 43,000,000 bushels less than recently and 109,000,000 bushels less than last year.

Export sales in all positions aggregated 1,000,000 bushels, largely hard and red Winters to the Continent, making 2,000,000 bushels taken in the past two days. Cash basis at the Gulf and seaboard was ½@1 cent higher, while choice hard Winters here were 1@1½ cents higher as compared with September and red was unchanged to ½ cent higher.

Wet weather continues to delay harvest and threshing of Spring wheat and cables told of too rank growth in Argentine due to rains.

Locals were inclined to fight the upturn part of the day, but were run in after having sold on what they regarded as a good bulge. The removal of hedges against the export sales has more than taken care of the fresh hedging sales.

The revival in the foreign demand has not been altogether a surprise, in view of the small stocks held abroad and the disappointing threshing returns.

Local cash handlers recommend that the country stop shipping damp wheat as it is hard to handle and sells at big discounts under the September and they feel that producers would save considerable money by keeping the grain back on the farm if possible.

Primary arrivals today were 1,529,000 bushels; week ago, 2,729,000; last year, 1,321,000. Shipments were 1,637,000 bushels; week ago, 1,282,000; last year, 778,000.

Corn was influenced largely by the action of wheat and, with a large trade, the close was ⅛@¼ cent higher with a little short covering in evidence. Spot basis today was unchanged to 1 cent better with contract grades in demand. Primary arrivals today were 402,000 bushels; week ago, 423,000; last year, 805,000, and shipments, 372,000 bushels; week ago, 299,000; last year, 294,000.

Oats were ¼@⅜ cent higher with a fair class of commission house buying, but the bulk of the trade was in spreading between the various deliveries. There was no material pressure on rye. Closing trades were at gains of 1½@1⅞ cents.

EXPORT TRADE AIDS WHEAT.

Local Market Is Active, With September in the Lead.

Another advance in prices occurred yesterday on the wheat futures market of the New York Produce Exchange, caused by a large export demand for domestic wheat. The market was active and strong throughout the day, with September closing at the top. A big demand for September deliveries was responsible for the heavy volume of sales in the local and other futures markets. Early cables were bullish, indicating that foreign crops of wheat will be materially less than estimated.

Profit-taking was in evidence when September reached 1.41⅛ and December 1.45¾, their high points of the day, but this caused only fractional recessions, all offerings being readily absorbed. Professional selling was in evidence on the bulges, most of which was absorbed by commission-house buying.

Exporters are finding some discomfiture at the slow movement of wheat in some sections and the majority of them have sold large quantities for August-September shipment in anticipation of a heavier movement.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Grains Gain Further—Lard and Pork Off—Rest of List Holds Firm.

Further increases in the grains featured the cash market yesterday, wheat, No. 2, red, leading the field with a gain of 3¼ cents. Lard declined 15 cents and mess pork went off 50 cents for the worst loss of the day. In the miscellaneous section rubber advanced 20 cents and the other products held firm, as did groceries, dairy products and metals.

Yesterday's closing wholesale cash prices for commodities, in the New York market unless otherwise noted, were:

EXPERTS ADVOCATE SUPER HIGHWAYS

Wider Roads to Cut Traffic Losses Urged by National Commission.

FAVOR TWO-DECK STREETS

Projects Here and in Chicago Are Commended, as Is Michigan's Ambitious Plans.

Construction of wider highways to reduce the loss from inadequate traffic facilities, estimated to amount to more than $3,650,000 a year in the United States, is urged in a report of a committee of the National Conference on Street and Highway Service, which was promoted by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover. The report was made public yesterday.

"The adoption of wider highways is pronounced in some States, many roads known as 'super highways' being projected with at least four one-way traffic lanes and sometimes six or eight with the heavy trucks separated from the lighter automobiles and with better provision for highway safety," the report reads.

"In New York City a double-decked street is being projected south along the Hudson River docks from Riverside Drive, and in Chicago another double-decked street, known as the Wacker Drive, is already under construction, the lower level, paved with granite blocks, being for heavy truck traffic and the upper level, paced with asphalt, being set aside for automobile traffic. Like the new asphalt boulevards that traverse Grant Park on the lake front in Chicago, Wacker Drive is intended to relieve downtown traffic congestion by transporting the through traffic around the Loop and across the city.

The Michigan State Highway Department is building a super-highway from Detroit to Lansing, and one is proposed to run along the west shore of Lake Michigan to Milwaukee. Cook County, Ill., is undertaking a vast program of widening her existing roads.

"Commercial losses from traffic congestion are becoming serious in the large cities. Records kept by a Philadelphia taxicab company shows that its cabs lose on an average of $2.50 per day each because of traffic congestion. The loss in one year represented 9.5 per cent. of the working time for a fleet of 836 cabs. Applying half the loss shown by the Philadelphia cabs to the 900,000 automobiles registered in New York City, the committee arrived at an estimate of more than a million dollars a day lost in New York alone.

"For the entire United States it was conservatively estimated that the loss runs up to an average of $10,000,000 a day. The fuel, loss and the wear and tear on cars and trucks due to stopping and starting at street intersections, it is considered, is comparable to the loss in time.

"Highway officials, engineers and traffic experts are also moving for the improvement, with the less expensive types of hard surfacing, such as asphalt penetration macadam, of the secondary roads everywhere, so as to relieve the trunk line highways, which must necessarily bear the through traffic, of the purely-for-pleasure sort, this to relieve congestion and afford the higher pleasure vehicles more room in which to cruise on hard road surfaces."

LIVE STOCK AT CHICAGO.

Hogs In Active Demand Early—Lambs Higher—Cattle Steady.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Hogs were in active demand and the market was 10 to 15 cents higher early, but the demand later fell off and heavy butchers and sows were as much as 25 to 50 cents under Thursday's late market. The top was $14.10, while the day's average was $11.90, as on Thursday. The bulk of the 140 to 200 pound averages sold at $13.55 to $14, with 240 to 280 pound buchers at $12.35 to $13.10, with 290 to 350 pound kinds at $11.50 to $12 and packing sows at $10.35 to $10.75.

Packers bought 13,500 and shippers 4,000, with 5,000 left over. Receipts were 16,000, with 4,000 expected tomorrow.

Fat lambs were generally 25c higher, with a top of $14.65 on natives, and the bulk of the sales at $14.25@$14.50. Sheep were steady, with the bulk of the sales at $6@$6.50. Receipts were 8,000.

Cattle were steady, with choice offerings absent. The bulk of beef steers sold at $8.25@$9.25. Receipts were 2,000.

BUSINESS IMPROVES OVER A YEAR AGO

Cash Trade and Car Loadings Increase During Second Week of August.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The dollar volume of trade as shown by check payments was larger during the second week of August than during the corresponding period a year ago, according to today's weekly statement of the Department of Commerce. The distribution of goods, as measured by car loadings, was likewise larger than a year ago.

The production of bituminous coal and beehive coke also recorded increases over the corresponding week of 1925. The production of crude petroleum during the second week of the current month continued to increase, both as compared with the previous week and the corresponding week of last year. New building contracts awarded were larger than in the first week of the month, but smaller than a year ago.

"Wholesale prices continued to decline," the department's summary said, "the general average for the second week being lower than at any time in the last two years. Loans and discounts of Federal Reserve member banks increased both as compared with the previous week and the same week of 1925. Interest rates on time money averaged higher than in either the previous week or a year ago, while discount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York was advanced to 4 per cent.

"Call money rates, although showing no change from the previous week, were higher than in 1925.

"Bond prices continued to strengthen. Loans to brokers and dealers by Federal Reserve member banks in New York City increased over the previous week, while the Federal Reserve ratio for the second week showed a decline from both the previous week and the corresponding week of 1925. Business failures, although less numerous than in the first week of August, were larger in number than a year ago."

FRANKLIN SIMON OPTIMISTIC

Predicts Prosperous Fall Business as He Sails for Europe.

All indications point to good business during the coming Fall, according to Franklin Simon of Franklin Simon & Co. "I do not look for boom prosperity," he said yesterday just before sailing for Europe on the Olympic, "but I do anticipate healthy retail conditions and most business men I have talked to have expressed the same views. My expectation is based on the present soundness of business, the large deposits in the savings banks, the healthy condition of inventories and the satisfactory employment situation, together with the prospects of bumper crops during the Fall.

"I feel conditions should be particularly favorable with regard to the women's ready-to-wear and allied industries. This Fall, it appears to me, offers a wonderful opportunity for that trade to capitalize on the 'trade up' movement sponsored by the National Garment Retailers' Association. This movement, I am convinced, is one of the timeliest that has ever been attempted in the ready-to-wear trade."

Mr. Simon will be in Europe about two months on a combined business and pleasure trip.

DEPUTY WITH PISTOL HELD.

Has No Right to Carry Arms Outside His Territory, Says Court.

A Special Deputy Sheriff of Kings County, Abraham Goldberg of 8,894 Eighteenth Avenue, Brooklyn, was held in $10,000 bail for the Grand Jury yesterday by Magistrate Henry M. R. Goodman in Jefferson Market Court on two charges of violation of the Sullivan law.

The Magistrate held that such an officer, created for a special purpose, was not a peace officer and had no more authority than "a dance hall bouncer," out of his own territory.

Goldberg was arrested Aug. 14, at Eighth Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street, the police saying that they found a revolver and a billy on his person. He was escorting garment workers, who are disregarding the strike, to their homes.

Assistant District Attorney Louis Wasser explained that Goldberg, when arrested, had contended he held a permit from a Judge of Binghamton, N. Y. This proved to be false, Wasser said.

It was also shown that Goldberg had a police record.

ENJOINS STRIKING PRINTERS

West Virginia Judge Distinguishes Between Forms of Picketing.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 20. (AP).—A modified injunction against striking members of the Typographical Union was granted today by Judge Morgan Owen to two Charleston newspapers, The Daily Mail and The Gazette.

Judge Owen granted that part of the injunction dealing with intimidation in picketing. He refused to enjoin alleged interference with newsboys and advertisers, holding that no evidence had been presented to show any such acts.

The Judge drew a careful distinction between "vigorous convincing language," which he ruled was proper in strike picketing, and the exercising of coercion through fear, whether actual force or violence be used or not.

The union men went on strike when they failed to reach a new agreement with the papers. The publishers then announced operations on an open shop basis.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday...4¼ per cent. for the best names Thursday...4¾ per cent. for the best names The quotations are for six months' paper.

Better Inquiry for Coal.

A better inquiry for anthracite coal is reported by wholesale houses, Saward's Journal will say today, although sales do not always result, on account of the credit situation. Domestic sizes are in greater demand. Stove is leading, while the calls for egg and nut are increasing. The pea coal situation has not improved, however. Little change has occurred in the price situation in the local market. Not much benefit has accrued to the market from the strike situation. Soft coal has grown firmer as a result of the gains in exports.

Gray Goods Market Quiet.

There was little activity in the gray goods market yesterday. Buyers seemed disposed to delay their commitments until the publication of the Government cotton crop estimate on Monday, except where there was a pressing need for goods. A few sales of 38½-inch 64-60 printcloths, spot delivery at 7⅞ cents were made in the morning, but it was rather difficult to get the goods at this price later in the day. For spot 39-inch 72-76s buyers paid 9½ cents, while 6¼ cents was the quotation for 38½-inch 60-48s, September delivery. Sheetings also were quiet, with these sales being recorded: 37-inch 3.50-yard goods, spot, 9¼ cents; 36-inch 5.50 goods, near-by delivery, 6¾ cents; 36-inch 3.25-yard, quick delivery, 10 cents. Sateens were unchanged at 10¼ cents for 37½-inch 64-88 4.70 goods, Southern make, later delivery. For spot goods of the same construction, Fall River make, buyers paid 10½ cents.

Shortage of Dress Woolens.

Scarcity of better grade woolen goods is one of the features in the dress industry at the present time. Not only are domestic woolens difficult to obtain when wanted, but also the imported fabrics being sought. The shortage of the domestic variety is generally ascribed to the New Jersey textile strike, but for the situation in foreign cloths no other explanation can be given than the vigorous demand. Imported reps and novelty goods are among the most desired materials. In some cases inability to get the needed fabrics is delaying deliveries of garments, and no relief for the situation is in sight.

Spring Underwear Buying Lags.

Orders for Spring underwear are still being received slowly by manufacturers, who ascribe this lagging tendency to the effect of the recent Government cotton crop estimate. In some instances fair business has been booked on balbriggans and ribbed goods for both men and women. In the main, however, orders have been of the sample variety, for jobbers seem fearful of a drop in cotton goods and are consequently unwilling to stock up. Manufacturers, however, say that their prices are attractive enough now, and that in many cases they have discounted any possible drop in cotton prices by the new low underwear levels.

Call for Novelty Linens.

Novelty linens in a large variety of fancy patterns are in excellent demand for the Spring, wholesalers report. The goods wanted include bridge sets with 36-inch tops and four napkins, refreshment sets of 54x54-inch tops with six napkins, as well as separate cloths of 45x45-inch and 50x50-inch dimensions. The demand for linen damasks is expected to be fully as large as last Fall, which was an excellent season for these goods.

Orders for Men's Spring Cloths.

Reports in the men's wear woolen trade agree that a fairly satisfactory volume of business is being placed in new Spring weaves by manufacturing clothiers. The orders placed are not overlarge, it was said, but they do reflect an improvement over recent seasons. With prices generally attractive throughout the trade, buyers are said to be devoting more attention to styling than to hunting price concessions. In a number of cases the buyers are picking out the fabrics they are interested in and are taking sample swatches home for further reference. This tendency of "not knowing what they want" appears to some degree but one selling agent said that on the present price basis for cloths it was like taking $5 gold pieces home to try them.

Coating Production Is Limited.

The women's wear mills are continuing to curb their Fall production in accordance with the disturbed condition in the coat and suit trade. Deliveries are being delayed in compliance with the wishes of the cutters-up and also with the mills' own policies on credit and other elements arising from the labor disturbance. It is held likely that there will be both a short supply of fabrics and higher prices for them when the coat strike is settled. The higher grade coatings, particularly the suede type and the favored pile cloths, are expected to have the greatest shortage.

Steady Prices on Men's Suits.

Indications are that there will be no marked changes in the price levels of men's suits for next Spring and Summer. Reductions in the prices of fabrics are likely to be absorbed by manufacturers to the end that better workmanship and finishing may be put into the production of merchandise. Lines of tropical suits will be ready early next month, with regular lightweights following immediately thereafter. The outlook for tropicals for the coming season is regarded as particularly good, owing to the fact that there is little, if any, carry over of this merchandise.

Women's Worsteds for Spring.

With several lines of women's wear Spring worsteds already opened by the mills, it is evident that the trend will again be toward the sheer or gossamer type of fabric. Worsteds have been growing lighter in weight for a number of seasons past, but the lightest weight yet achieved is being featured for next Spring. The novelty types of worsteds again stress artificial silk decoration, although not to the extent that it was featured this Spring. The number of colors being offered in both the staple and fancy cloths is larger than ever. According to one well-known selling agent, however, the demand is usually for colors at the start of the season, with navy having the biggest call later on.

More Activity In Fall Silks.

Broad silk wholesalers are inclined to believe that the Fall demand has now definitely turned for the better and a considerable volume of new business is expected, particularly from retailers, during the next few weeks. The trade still has to combat the strong emphasis on price, and every effort is being made to impress on buyers the stability of the prevailing quotations on finished goods. Production of broad silks, according to the wholesalers, continues to be somewhat restricted, although with the advances of the season there is more activity now than was the case a month ago. Crêpe satins and cantons dominate in the fabrics that are selling. In the higher priced cloths there is activity in novelty velvet brocades and chiffon velvets. The latter fabrics are finding wide usage in garments for both street and formal wear.

THE WEEK'S PRICE TREND.

More Declines Than Advances, Though Few Were Important.

Although, as a rule, changes were comparatively slight, there were again more declines than advances in Dun's list of wholesale commodity prices this week. Seasonal recessions were largely responsible for a total of thirty-seven declines in the current list, against twenty-two advances. Last week there were thirty-five reductions and twenty-seven increases.

The following table gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They are corrected to yesterday. With them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

†Nominal.

In the foodstuffs there were sixteen declines against ten advances. Some of the declines were in foods of minor importance, but some basic commodities also dropped sharply. In the local provision list there was another general break in flour prices. Spring patent flour and Winter soft straights each dropped 40 cents a barrel. A decline of 15 cents was recorded in the fancy grade of Minnesota flour for family use.

At Chicago, advances took place in live hogs and beef steers. Bacon and short ribs, however, were lower, while lard, pork and live sheep were unchanged.

In the local dairy products, advances were recorded in butter and eggs. Creamery butter advanced 1¼ cents a pound on top of its increase last week. Both fancy near-by eggs and fresh gathered firsts advanced, the former being up 3 cents a dozen and the latter a cent. Only minor changes were recorded in cheese, advances being balanced by declines. Prices in this part of the list are still lower than those of a year ago.

Fresh and dried fruits were unchanged. Mixed trends were noted in the vegetables, cabbage and potatoes advancing, while choice white kidney beans reacted sharply from their advance last week. Other beans were unchanged. The beverage list showed a decline of an eighth of a cent a pound in No. 7 Rio coffee. Tea and sugar were unchanged. In the spices several decreases were listed. Cloves and three varieties of pepper declined. In the grains, mixed trends were noticeable, although the declines outnumbered the advances by four to two. Wheat and hay rose, while No. 2 yellow corn fell nearly 7 cents. Declines were also recorded in oats, rye and barley.

Four declines occurred in hides, but No. 1 extremes advanced. Leathers were unchanged in price. The listed building materials did not change, but three advances were made in metal prices, against two declines. Antimony and lead fell, while copper, tin and zinc were marked up.

The changes in the combined list of drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils were without feature. They totaled only twelve, of which seven were downward, a repetition of last week's trend. In naval stores, an advance in resin was balanced by a drop in the quotations for turpentine. Few changes were recorded in the miscellaneous list. Japanese raw silk declined, while plantation rubber advanced.

In the textiles an easier tendency was noted in unfinished cloths, in sympathy with the weaker tone in the raw cotton. Burlaps were weaker as a result of heavy shipments from Calcutta and the tendency of buyers to delay commitments. In the woolen fabrics, declines of 10 per cent. occurred in women's lines for the Spring, while reductions of 5 to 9 per cent. were made in men's wear goods.

Antin & Epstein Dispose of Contract on Davidson Avenue Flat—Other Bronx Deals.

Brisk trading marked the Bronx real estate market yesterday, with the demand divided between improved and vacant properties. In the Gun Hill Road section a building client of Nat E. Fink purchased the apartment house site on the west side of Hull Avenue, 182 feet south of Gun Hill Avenue, from the 165th Street Arcade Corporation for improvement with an elevator apartment house, at a cost of about $350,000. Plans for the improvement are now being prepared.

A client of the Arcon Realty Exchange has purchased from Lawrence Bakstetter a plot on Arnow Avenue for improvement. The same brokers also sold to a building client a vacant parcel 300 by 100 feet on Glen Road near the Bronx River Parkway for improvement with twelve one-family houses.

They also sold to William Higgins for occupancy the residence at 1,980 Crotona Avenue. M. Blumenfeld was the seller. An investing client of the same brokers purchased from Moses Prince a business plot on Westchester Avenue at the Middletown Road subway station.

The five-story flat on the southeast corner of Hughes Avenue and 180th Street has been sold by the Ruskow Realty Corporation through the A. Michaelson Company as broker. The property rents for $17,000. The same brokers also sold for the Solkow Realty Corporation the southwest corner of Clay Avenue and 173d Street, a five-story tenement with stores showing a rental of $18,500. A resale of this property is now pending.

Samuel Shlionsky has sold the six-story walk-up apartment on a plot 155 by 100 feet at 1,021 Avenue St. John to M. Proppst. The broker in the transaction was Charles M. Baum.

Deals by Operators.

Benjamin Antin and Richard I. Epstein, operators, purchased from the Bessam Realty Corporation the five and one-half story apartment house, on a plot 56 by 90 feet at 2,062 Davidson Avenue, through Scott, Caminetti & Co. as brokers. The buyers immediately resold their contract through Charles Pellery to Carmela Niglio.

The Nelvan Construction Company has sold the one-story business building at the northeast corner of Elder Avenue and Westchester Avenue, on a plot 80 by 103 feet. Harry T. F. Johnson negotiated the sale.

Angelo L. Frumento sold for Mrs. Lena Wolizer the three-story house at 1,932 Belmont Avenue, on plot 27 by 100 feet, to Lucia Comforte.

Samuel Arnow sold for Catherine Whirtley a plot on Houghton Avenue, near Olmstead Avenue, to a client for improvement.

Louis M. Weiss & Co. sold the two-family dwelling at 1,137-39 Underhill Avenue for David Vanhanen to S. Velte.

HOTEL GREGORIAN LEASED.

G. C. Brown of Park Avenue Hotel Secures the Property.

The Hotel Gregorian, in Thirty-fifth Street between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, has been leased for a term of fifteen years by the Kenlee Realty Corporation, of which T. F. Lee is President, to George C. Brown of the Park Avenue Hotel.

Possession of the Gregorian, which contains 135 rooms and 135 baths, in addition to a tea room restaurant and soda-luncheonette, was taken yesterday.

Mr. Brown formerly operated the Martha Washington Hotel and is at present operating the Park Avenue Hotel. The lease was negotiated by John S. Buzzini.

The Park Avenue Hotel property has been purchased by Abe N. Adelson, one of the largest and best-known men in the wholesale millinery trade, who plans to improve the site with a twenty-four-story structure.

The project will involve about $10,000,000 and the work of demolishing the old structure, which was erected by A. T. Stewart as a hotel for working women, will be started this Fall.

MANHATTAN BUILDING PLANS

Total Cost of Two Upper Manhattan Flats Will Run to $650,000.

HOME BUILDERS BUY GARDEN CITY TRACT

Twenty-Acre Holding of Former Merillion Estate to Be Improved With Dwellings.

DEAL IN FAR ROCKAWAY

Fox Company Buys 25 Homes—Sales in Westchester and New Jersey.

Interest in the Long Island real estate market shifted to Garden City yesterday, where a twenty-acre tract was sold to Preferred Homes, Inc., for improvement with a colony of high-class small homes.

The property, which is a part of the Merillion estate, is adjacent to the Clinton Road and Life Press stations of the Long Island Railroad. It was sold by Warren B. Ashmead, who recently purchased the entire estate holding. The purchasers, through Paul Fager, President of Preferred Homes, Inc., announced that they would immediately improve the entire tract with a number of high-class small homes, each house to be build on a plot 60 by 125 feet.

In the Nassau Boulevard section of Garden City, James B. Hefferson sold to E. D. Hill a seven-room new Dutch Colonial house with a two-car garage on a plot 120 by 100 feet. Oliver Chichester was the broker who negotiated the sale. The same broker also sold in the same section a plot 100 by 132 feet on the east side of Whitehall Boulevard, south of Stewart Avenue, to Andrew Anderson for improvement, and a plot 80 by 100 feet, forming the northwest corner of Chester Avenue and Euston Road, to Theodore Aten.

In Far Rockaway, John R. Fox & Co., represented by Samuel Hershenstein, purchased for investment from the Jarvis Lane Gardens, Inc., twenty-five recently completed one-family brick dwellings. The houses are built on both sides of Meehan and Lanett Avenues, 100 feet east of Jarvis Lane, on a tract of twelve and one-half acres. Mark Eichenberg was the broker who negotiated the transaction.

The Hub Realty Company sold for the Garden Development Corporation the four new cathedral front two-story stores and apartments on the east side of Steinway Avenue, 106 feet south of Broadway, Astoria.

The New Jersey Market.

The New Jersey real estate market was featured by sales in Newark yesterday. Samuel Isaacson of Manhattan purchased as a site for a small home for occupancy the vacant plot at 82 to 86 Chancellor Avenue from Claus Ehrich. The plot measures 140 by 100 feet. Plans for the improvement, which will cost about $22,000, are now being prepared. The E. J. Maier Corporation was the broker.

The same brokers also sold an irregular plot on the east side of Dey Street, 150 feet from the corner of Central Avenue, for Louis Koplowitz to W. E. Karton. The plot measures 38 by 100 feet, with an inside plot 40 by 120 feet.

The Maier Corporation also sold the one-family dwelling on a plot 50 by 100 feet at 138 Hawthorne Avenue, Glen Ridge, for William and David Mate to the Berwyn Realty Company, who bought for investment.

James Mooney, Inc., have sold for the Rushden Company a plot 113 by 150 feet at the southeast corner of Peck Avenue and Newark Turnpike, Pompton Plains. The property was purchased by the Orange Lumber Company.

Deals in Westchester.

R. E. L. Howe Jr. has sold for Leila B. Aarons her estate consisting of fifteen acres, improved with a large Colonial house, in Sunnyside Park at Irvington, overlooking the Hudson.

Paul F. Hansen has purchased for occupancy a Dutch Colonial residence on Greenwich Avenue, White Plains, through the office of David W. Cornell. The County Furnace Corporation was the seller.

DECLARES A GERM IS CAUSE OF CANCER

Dr. E. F. Smith Tells Congress of Plant Scientists in Ithaca of His Experiments.

IS LIKE VEGETABLE TUMOR

He Describes Great Advance in Research in Last Fifty Years, Predicting Greater Progress.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 20.—The kinship of all forms of life, both vegetable and animal, was stressed here tonight by Dr. Erwin F. Smith, plant bacteriologist, in the statement that he believed tumors in plants were closely related to human cancers and caused by almost identical bacteria.

Micro-organisms taken from human cancers, said Dr. Smith, had produced typical vegetable tumors in plants and had produced malignant cancers in rats. Dr. Smith admitted that the weight of medical opinion still was that cancer was not produced by parasites, but said research was accumulating in support of the theory held by him and several other investigators that a specific bacterium was the cause, perhaps in combination with other factors.

Dr. Smith is a pioneer in the field of vegetable pathology and has conducted researches in this field for many years in the Department of Agriculture. He also is a former President of the American Association for Cancer Research.

Discusses Fifty Years' Work.

Dr. Smith spoke tonight before the entire body of the International Congress of Plant Sciences in session at Cornell University. The title of his address was "Fifty Years of Plant Pathology." But Dr. Smith included in his recapitulation the outstanding triumphs in the war on animal and human ailments as well.

"Throughout this whole fifty-year period," he said; "strenuous efforts have been made to discover the cause of cancer in man, but so far unsuccessfully. The need is very great the world over. In the United States alone carcinoma [one type only of cancer] destroys more than 80,000 persons every year.

"Cancers in some the lower animals, however, have been connected with the presence of parasites, tapeworm larvae and, in the case of the chicken sarcoma, with a filterable virus, which Gye and Barbard believe to be an organism. Crown gall, or cancer in plants, if it may be so called, is due to bacterium tumefaciens. Blumenthal and his associates in Berlin have also isolated what appear to be strains of this organism from human tumors and with them have produced malignant tumors in rats.

Most Blame Local Irritations.

"Very recently Dr. Kaufman of Koch's Institute for infectious diseases in Berlin has isolated an organism, said to belong to the tumefaciens group, from a carcinoma of the mouse. The bulk of medical opinion at present may be said to favor the view that malignant tumors are due to a variety of long-continued local irritations-rather than to any specific parasites.

"Favoring this view, which I do not share, is the fact that cancers may be produced in experimental animals by tar-painting, by extracts of soot and by other chemical substances applied repeatedly. One fact brought out clearly during the last decade is that the tendency to cancer in mice, and probably also in man, is an inheritable factor."

Dr. Smith carried his discussion of the cancer problem no further in his address. But in a supplementary interview he asserted his belief that the mystery of cancer's origin would be solved within a generation. He made it clear that in his opinion the only remedy for cancer at present was surgery in the early stages of the disease, though he said X-ray and radium were valuable palliatives.

"Most students of cancer believe that the disease is not caused by a parasite but by normal cells getting beyond the normal control which the human body exercises over its parts and running riot. A minority, among whom I list myself, believe a bacterium is the cause. It may be that extraneous substances—that is, acids and alkalis thrown into the tissues as by-products of such a parasite—upset the cell chemistry and produce an oxygen hunger which stimulates the cells to subdivide and thus multiply in order to avoid suffocation.

Plant and Animal Tumors Studied.

"There is now a growing body of evidence to support my belief that plant tumors and animal tumors are similar in nature and cause. The disease known as crown gall is quite common in the vegetable world, afflicting sunflowers, tomatoes, hops and other plants. I have made extended experiments with plant tumors and some years ago found a micro-organism which I believe to be the cause and to which I gave the name Bacterium tumefaciens. By injecting this organism into other plants I produced typical cases of crown gall.

"Then in Berlin Miss Paula Meyer, an assistant in the cancer research laboratory of Dr. Ferdinand Blumenthal, found in a human breast cancer an organism which appeared to be identical with bacterium tumefaciens of crown gall. Cultures of this actually produced crown gall in plants, and other cultures from the same source produced malignant tumors in rats.

"Thus far I have not been able to make bacteria tumefaciens produce cancers in animals, because the blood temperature seems to be too high for them. Thus it does not seem likely that bacterium tumefaciens of crown gall is the same organism as the one I believe produces cancer in human beings, but it is probable that the two are very closely related."

Points to Advance in Research.

In his address Dr. Smith contrasted old conditions in pathological research with conditions in the same field today.

"Fifty years ago there were no systematic works of any consequence on the smaller plant and animal parasites," he said. "Very little was known as to the cause of human or animal diseases or as to remedies for such diseases.

"Fifty years ago there was no science of bacteriology, no immunology, no genetics, no plant or animal pathology worthy of the name, no public health service based on exact knowledge, and in nearly every case no well-ascertained remedies. In fact, there was no medicine such as we now have based on the circle of the sciences, but only squabbling schools of empiricists called homeopaths, allopaths, hydropaths and eclectics. Taking most drugs was like shooting in the dark, or like throwing sand into delicate mechanisms, and surgery was notoriously deadly.

"What a marvelous change we have seen! In these matters the scientific discoveries and applications of the last fifty years have been worth more to the physical well-being of plants and animals and man than all the discoveries that preceded them back to the days of Aristotle and Aesculapius.

Expects Tremendous Progress.

"Fifty years ago appears to be a very benighted time when we look back upon it from our present daylight, but it did not seem so to us when we were in the midst of it. I wonder if the young men and women who are listening to me will consider this also as one of the dark ages fifty years from now. Very likely, for if we are not plunged again into medieval ignorance, through fundamentalism or communism or ar, e may expect the advance of science to be simply tremendous in the near future."

Dr. Smith said one great factor in recent advances in biological science was the formation of great cooperative bodies and foundations conducting and financing research, and expressed the belief that they would produce even greater discoveries in the future.

Plant pathologists indulged in an extended discussion today as to the advisability of international cooperation to prevent the spread of plant diseases by shipment of diseased plants from one country to another. The general opinion was that quarantine legislation already passed has been so strict as often to defeat its ends, and that relaxation rather than increased rigidity is needed. It was said also that legislation against disease had been used in some instances as a cloak under which to keep out competing products.

Reports Wind Brought Epidemic.

A controversy arose over the statement of Dr. E. J. Butler, an English authority, that no cases had been established of the transmission of plant diseases between continents except through the agency of man. He contended that although the wind and birds could carry spores producing plant diseases such natural carriers had long ago done all the damage that could be done in that way. E. C. Stakman of the University of Minnesota said that last year his State suffered an epidemic of black stem rust after a heavy wind had blown from the south for a week. He and other investigators told of obtaining rust spores at high altitudes in airplanes.

Dr. Butler thought the responsibility for preventing the spread of plant diseases from one country to another might well be placed on the exporting country in place of the importing country.

He thought present quarantines unnecessarily rigid and productive of retaliatory legislation. He said, however, that he thought regulations were now at their high tide and that a gradual relaxation could be expected.

At the end of the discussion a resolution was adopted calling for the appointment of an international committee of plant pathologists.

Wants Youths to Protect Forests.

E. N. Munns, representing the United States Forest Service, said the destruction of trees had brought far-reaching changes in natural life. The cutting of forests, he said, had raised the temperature of lakes and rivers and thus had been harmful to fish. The disappearance of nut-bearing trees, he asserted, had deprived small animals such as squirrels of their normal food supply and they had turned to seeds and bulbs with great damage to growing plants. He advised the establishment of forestry research fellowships to encourage young men to enter the forestry service and help combat the destruction of our forests.

Today's discussions practically closed the studies of the congress. Many of the delegates left this evening for their homes, which are in nearly every country in Europe and in Australia and Japan, as well as in all parts of the United States. Some are remaining for inspection trips tomorrow to the New York Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva, and to the university farm. The next congress will be held in London, probably in 1930.

FONCK'S PLANE HOPS TO TEST LANDING GEAR

Sikorsky Lifts It Off Ground for Few Feet Only, Awaiting Better Day for First Flight.

Special to The New York Times.

WESTBURY, L. I., Aug. 20.—The Sikorsky biplane in which Captain René Fonck and Captain Homer Berry will attempt to fly from New York to Paris early in September rose from the ground under its own power for the first time today.

The great plane was taxied about Roosevelt Field for some time this morning. Without warning to any one on the ground, Sikorsky, the designer, who was at the controls, decided to test the landing gear. With a quick motion he compressed the elevators and the plane responded instantly.

It rose about two or three feet in the air and traveled about fifty feet until the wheels again touched the ground. The landing was perfect. Sikorsky pronounced the test a success. He said he was jubilant. Captain Fonck and four mechanics were in the cabin at the time.

It was announced just before noon that a real flight would be made at 3 o'clock. With the coming of that hour, however, there arose a brisk wind from the southeast. Sikorsky went up in another plane, and said that he found the wind conditions aloft unfavorable. The plane was pushed back into its hangar and the interminable testing and retesting began again. The new shock absorbers that were placed on the tail skid last night worked perfectly.

Captain Berry, who has been on the field every afternoon for several weeks, expressed severe disappointment at not going aloft in the new plane this afternoon. He is experienced in flying the Sikorsky planes, and frequently pilots the S-29, an older Sikorsky ship that rivals the new one in size.

GARAGE FOR BROOKLYN P.O.

Postmaster Firmin Announces Plan for Large Structure.

A postoffice garage to house all the motor vehicle equipment of the General Postoffice in Brooklyn is to be erected in the block bounded by Tillary, Adams, Washington and Concord Streets, according to announcement yesterday by Postmaster Albert Firmin of Brooklyn.

The proposed structure will front 119 feet on Washington Street, 109 feet on Adams Street and will have a depth of 200 feet. It will be fireproof.

Burned as Oil Can Touches Live Rail

While oiling a locomotive in the Sunnyside Yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad in Long Island City yesterday Lawrence Hansen, 24 years old, of 23-39 Seventy-first Street, Woodside, accidently touched the third rail with the spout of his oil can and was severely burned about the chest, face and hands. Fellow workmen carried him to a near-by shanty, where he received emergency treatment until the arrival of an ambulance from St. John's Hospital, Long Island City. It is expected that he will recover.

ST. STEPHEN'S HEAD DEFENDS SPORTS BAN

Dr. Bell, Back From Abroad, Says Small College Must Choose Scholarship or Athletics.

Dr. Bernard Iddings Bell, President of St. Stephen's Episcopal College at Annandale-on-Hudson, whose Board of Directors announced recently that it would abandon all intercollegiate athletics, arrived yesterday morning on the United States liner President Harding. He said that he was in entire sympathy with the action which was taken by the trustees, and said that he was "against intercollegiate athletics for very small colleges."

"A big college or university can keep up athletic and scholastic standards at the same time," he said. "They have men enough so that these two branches of undergraduate activities can run parallel to each other without interference. But few small colleges can. For a small college to have good teams everybody must go out for them, and scholarship must be neglected. In other words a small college is likely to be forced to choose between scholarship and athletics. It seems to me that scholarship for an educational institution is the more important."

Dr. Bell said that he did not mean he opposed athletics.

"Athletics will be continued at St. Stephen's, but they will be intramural rather than intercollegiate," he said.

Asked about the dropping of the Rev. Kenneth Bray, he refused comment, saying that he had been in Europe on a vacation and was not in touch with the details of the situation.

The new athletic policy of St. Stephen's was announced on July 31, after the conclusion of a college year marked by the defeat of Yale and Colgate at basketball, Oxford and Cambridge at lacrosse, and the tying of Williams at football.

When the announcement was made it was said that some thirty students had decided not to return to the college next Fall. Among these are John Harding, captain of the football team; Charles Stolph, basketball captain; Herbert Millington, lacrosse captain, and H. A. Griswold, manager of the basketball and lacrosse teams and editor of the college publication.

Friction between the students and the Faculty has been in existence since March, 1925, when eighty-eight students went on strike in protest over disciplinary matters.

HAZZARDS' CONDITION CONTINUES SERIOUS

Accidental Death Is Verdict at Coroner's Inquest on Three Victims of Channel Plane.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The condition of Miss Marguerite Hazzard and her brother, the Rev. Stanley Hazzard, two of the eight Americans injured in the fall of a Paris-London airplane near Folkestone Wednesday, was reported serious today at the Royal Hospital, Folkestone. The condition of Gavin Ducos, mechanician on the plane, also is serious.

The inquest over the bodies of Gino Rizzi, London restaurateur; and Robert Blaney of Boston, who were killed when the plane fell, was held today at the scene of the accident.

The body of Blaney was identified by his sister, Miss Margaret Hill Blaney. The Coroner's verdict was accidental death, as it was in the inquest on the death of Pilot de Lisle Thursday.

The evidence showed the wrecked machine had made eighteen journeys, while Pilot de Lisle was an aviator of long experience who had flown over the Channel 600 times. The airdrome manager for the French Air Union said the fact that one of the four engines of the machine had stopped should not have made any difference in the flight of the airplane and should not have made it necessary to land, because on the Boulogne-Paris run it had carried a 2,800-pound load with only three engines running.

FOLKESTONE, England, Aug. 20 (AP).—Descriptions of the plunge of the cross-Channel plane which was wrecked near here Wednesday were given at the inquest today.

A farmhand, William Perry, said the plane hit a barn, then a haystack and crashed. Perry said he found thirteen passengers jammed in a screaming mass in front of the cabin.

"Blaney was dead," he added. "His head was jammed under the seat and we removed his body in order to extricate those who were injured and screaming."

Dr. Arthur McVittie testified that none of Blaney's bones was broken, and he believed death was due to the bursting of the right lung.

Giving the verdict of accidental death, the Coroner said it appeared that the pilot did not like the fog which had developed and decided to land. So far as the plane was concerned, there seemed to be no cause for trouble.

TURKS ANNUL ORDER.

Permit Chambers of Commerce to Continue in Constantinople.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 20.—The same policeman who had previously carried an official order to close to the British Chamber of Commerce returned yesterday and explained that there had been misunderstandings and said he hoped that the Chamber would not close, adding that it would shortly receive a letter from the Government asking it to change its name.

Delegates of the various foreign Chambers of Commerce have discussed the situation and obtained legal opinion. The lawyers consider that the British Chamber, which is incorporated in the United Kingdom, has every right by the terms of the Treaty of Lausanne to be recognized under its own name and that its position is thus secure. The American Chamber is also incorporated abroad, in Washington, but the French and Italian Maritime Chambers are not.

The delegates decided that all the chambers should remain open and carry on as usual. The general opinion was that no change should be made in the names and that if the Turkish authorities insist on a change it will be better for the chambers to close definitely.

An impression is gaining ground that the diplomatic protest which the interested powers made in Angora has borne some fruit, but that, nevertheless, every effort will be made to induce the foreign Chambers of Commerce to change their names.

Cuban Fliers Reach Port au Prince.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 20 (AP).—Captain E. Laborde and Lieutenant G. Martull, Cuban army aviators, who are on a round trip flight from Havana to Port-au-Prince, arrived here this afternoon, completing the first leg of their journey. The aviators left Guantanamo this morning. They were met by the Cuban Minister.

TOPICS TO INTEREST THE CHURCHGOERS

NEW CHURCH AT SHORE

Island Park Organizes Community Body—Bible Conference at Lake George.

The Commission on Evangelism of the Episcopal Church has chosen the Right Rev. Thomas C. Darst, who is the Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of East Carolina, to direct "The Bishops' Crusade," one aim of which is to add 100,000 members to the communion by next Easter. The commission will ask his diocese to grant him a six months' leave of absence so he may devote all his time to the campaign. The commission, which was recently in session for three days at the Summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Thorne in Keene Valley, N. Y., decreed that Washington, D. C., shall be the centre of operations. An executive secretary will be appointed. Mr. Thorne is treasurer of the commission.

The First Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue and Eleventh Street, of which the Rev. Dr. George Alexander is the pastor, is undergoing extensive exterior repairs. It is hoped to have the work completed early this Fall. The First Church holds its regular services all Summer.

A new Community Church has been organized at Island Park, north of Long Beach. It will be undenominational. The preaching services and Sunday school are being conducted in the school house. The Island Park-Long Beach Company has given the church a building lot, 100 by 100 feet, on Wave Crest Place South, facing the lagoon, and a church building will be erected eventually. A financial campaign will be launched today and will continue through Sept. 11. The Rev. Henry C. Medd, the pastor, will conduct the campaign and William E. Howard, engineer of the Island Park Company, will serve as treasurer of the Building Committee.

The Biblical Seminary of New York, 541 Lexington Avenue, is conducting for the second year a conference at Lake George "for the quiet and thoughtful consideration of important religious problems." The director is the Rev. Dr. Wilbert W. White, President of the seminary.

Crowds waited for hours to get into the little church near Newagen, Me., last Sunday morning to hear the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor-elect of the Park Avenue Baptist Church, Manhattan. Dr. Fosdick, his wife and two young daughters are spending their vacation at their Summer home on Mouse Island, Me., which the cleryman owns.

One hundred years of existence will be celebrated next month by the New York Methodist Christian Advocate, which is an official organ of the Methodist Church. A dinner is being arranged for the evening of Sept. 9. The editor of the publication is Dr. James R. Joy.

The Rev. Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, British Bible lecturer, who has spent some years lecturing in America, is in London; preaching each Sunday through the Summer in Westminster Congregational Chapel, of which he was the pastor for more than ten years. Dr. and Mrs. Morgan and their two daughters will sail for America on the Majestic on Nov. 10.

The Rev. Dr. John M. Moore has resigned as pastor of the Marcy Avenue Baptist Church at Putnam Avenue, Brooklyn, after a pastorate of ten years, to accept the office of secretary of the Commission on Councils of Churches of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. He will take the place left vacant by the resignation of the Rev. Roy B. Guild, who left some months ago to accept a pastorate in New Bedford, Mass.

The first of a series of Summer conference lectures at Lutherland, the 1,300 acres of the Lutheran Conference and Camp Association in Pennsylvania, will begin tomorrow and will continue through the week. The lecturers will be the Rev. G. R. Hageman, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, Jersey City, and the Rev. Karl Kretzman, pastor of the Redeemer Lutheran Church, Orange, N. J.

The Rev. Dr. Everett Carleton Herrick, for the last twelve years pastor of the First Baptist Church, Fall River, Mass., will take up his duties as President of the Newton Baptist Theological Seminary, Newton Centre, Mass., on Sept. 1. He succeeds the Rev. Dr. George E. Horr.

The Right Rev. Charles Henry Brent of Buffalo, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Western New York, will celebrate his silver jubilee in the ministry next Winter.

Temple Peni-El of Washington Heights will observe simultaneously its twentieth anniversary and the Jewish nigh holy days next month in a new home at 142 West Eighty-first Street. Services will also be held in the present building at 525 West 147th Street, where the congregation has worshipped nearly twenty years.

TO RESTORE TUSSAUD SHOW

New Firm Will Give Wax Works a $1,000,000 Home in London.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Mme. Tussaud's waxworks exhibition which was destroyed by fire last year after being housed for generations on Marylebone Road, is to be revived by a new company. The formal transfer was carried out this afternoon.

For many years the exhibition was owned by a private company, of which John Tussaud was one of the directors, and he will hold the same post in the new company. The exhibits will be housed in a new home on the old site, which will cost $1,000,000, and have a movie theatre and restaurant attached.

Many figures of famous criminals, rescued during the fire, will form the nucleus of the new "Chamber of Horrors."

Battle Fleet Reaches San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20 (AP).—Led by the cruiser Seattle, flagship of Admiral Samuel Robinson, which entered the Golden Gate at 7 o'clock, seventy vessels of the United States battle fleet arrived in port here today from the North. On board the battleship California, flagship of Admiral O. F. Hughes, commander of the battle fleet, was Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur, returning from a trip to Alaska.
